The First Revolution

The Revolution of Independence in 1776 was for individual freedom from oppression—from taxation without representation—it was for freedom of speech, of worship, to work when, how and where one pleased. This was before seem, electricity or other power lightened the burden of human toil.

Dad, I'd put on my list all the folks back home who are working harder than they ever worked so that we can have better guns and more of them than the enemy has. It means something to know that we'll never have to go without something we really need to win this war.

we're going to win the war . . . and that 'America's still America. Over here, we're trusting all of you back home to keep it that way until we return. Don't let anybody change it. It's worth fighting and dying for, the way it is. We want to come back to it and live and work as we please, with equal opportunity for all. We don't want to come back to a country where most of our previous freedombeen done away with.
