Everything is different from how I left the States, so you can tell them I'll be back when I get those 3 offerings I could tell you in a letter but I don't dare to do it. Well I had better close and get some more dust on the little boys.

SHEEP RAISERS HOLD MEETING

Nicholas County Members Assemble at Rapids Church and Hold Election

The annual meeting of the Nicholas County Sheep Protective Association was held at the Rapids Methodist church last Saturday, September 18. Preceding the business session a luncheon was served in the basement of the church by the Women's Missionary Society. There were approximately thirty-eight members present, of the seventy-six belonging to the Association this year.

Mr. J. B. Linville, president, presided at the meeting. Mr. I. A. Venters of the University department of the College of Agriculture, was the principal speaker of the occasion.

Mr. Venters spoke on Sheep Protective Associations in general. "We think that if an association is set up and handled right, it sure sheep—that is all right," Mr. Venters explained. "All other services should be added also according to the needs of the particular community." He stated that some organizations take the lead in buying rams for their members, some have time sheals and done a great deal in the marketing situation and another has both. He pointed out that effectively is the matter of attempting to control the licensing of dogs in the county. He also pointed out that in many communities there are more dogs than there are sheep raisers, and that it takes an organization such as this to really get the job done.

Mr. Venters took up the subject of rates of payment, premiums, etc. He stressed the importance of simplicity and advised that as a usual thing the rates of payment should be left over the years basis, but admitted that there must of necessity be a variation in premiums paid, so that more deprived upon losses of sheep, as the sheep can be built up.

He also discussed the subject of feed shortage, stressing the need of adjusting the number of sheep to the feed that will supply.

Mr. R. M. Freese, editor of the Carlisle Mercury, and Mr. M. P. Nichols, former county agent, were guests at the meeting, and made a few remarks boosting the organization.

Mr. Wm. T. Straw, county agent gave a demonstration on how to obtain ear-salt treatment, for internal parasites in sheep, stating that although it was a comparatively new treatment it can be administered cheaply and effectively in the control of round worm or stomach worms, that the rest of this new treatment would amount to 20c per acre per year or even cheaper than that. He was convinced that this is a very wise investment.

In following officers were elected for the coming year: President, J. B. Linville; Vice-President, Dan Wells; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Ida Lee Odor; assistant, secretary, Extension Clerk, Dixie Hedden; sheep raising communities were: Stilsville, Dan Wells, Parks, A. C. Berry; Headquarters, James G. Allison; Myers, Glenn Booth; Bartenville, Chas. Glenn Booth; Bartenville, Chas. Wegerer; Moorefield, C. C. Grover; Carlisle, J. B. Linville; East Union, Norwood, Assist. Ex-Officia directors are: Walter Shepherd, Gus Conley, and Wm. T. Straw, County Agent.

Men injured in the line of duty in the U. S. Navy are filling our Naval hospitals more and more each day. These men save their feet and are anxious to get back and get the job done if they can be restored back to health. This is all that anyone could ask to be done.

It is not necessary that there be experience in hospital duties. Each one is trained in these duties and may be assigned to X-ray work, dental work, laboratory work or many other duty connected with hospital work. Each woman is rated as a Specialist. Each woman who is interested in this community are urged to contact Mrs. Bertha West, fall for full details.

MEETING AT 11 A. M. TODAY

Not being satisfied with 3rd War Bond sales up to latest tabulations Tuesday noon, Co-Chairmen I B.
