BIBLE THOUGHT
THIS WEEK
"Be it wanted for me that I may be used for my Master's glory."—Eph. 6:7
This verse is a beautiful one, and it is one which we should all strive to live by. It is a verse which is full of meaning and which is full of power. It is a verse which is full of love and which is full of grace. It is a verse which is full of life and which is full of hope. It is a verse which is full of joy and which is full of peace. It is a verse which is full of light and which is full of truth. It is a verse which is full of love and which is full of grace. It is a verse which is full of life and which is full of hope. It is a verse which is full of joy and which is full of peace. It is a vote which is full of light and which is full of truth.

VOTE SATURDAY
While interest may seem lack in the two party system, the fact is that the two parties are not as strong as they once were. It is true that the two parties are not as strong as they once were, but it is also true that the two parties are still very much alive. It is true that the two parties are not as strong as they once were, but it is also true that the two parties are still very much alive. It is true that the two parties are not as strong as they once were, but it is also true that the two parties are still very much alive. It is true that the two parties are not as strong as they once were, but it is also true that the two parties are still very much alive.

SOAK THE RICH—MEANS VOTE
The average citizen has little concern over taxes five years ago. "Soak the rich" was the slogan of the day. It was a slogan which was full of meaning and which was full of power. It was a slogan which was full of love and which was full of grace. It was a slogan which was full of life and which was full of hope. It was a slogan which was full of joy and which was full of peace. It was a slogan which was full of light and which was full of truth.

ELLSVILLE
C. D. Nixon of Carlisle and C. D. Nixon of Ellsville are the only two people in the world who have been elected to the same office in two different years. C. D. Nixon of Carlisle and C. D.
