BIBLE THOUGHT
THIS WEEK

This book of the law shall depart out of thy mouth; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein: for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success. Joshua 1:8.

WAITING TO GO!

A new industry has matured in this war, with a future so fantastically unlimited that its full significance can scarcely be grasped. That industry is aviation, and particularly commercial air transport.

The people of the United States who would almost rather travel than eat, even in normal times, are now, after several years of war-enforced confinement, nearly bursting with anxiety to start moving. As soon as conditions permit, they will hit the road for far away places on everything that will carry them, from bicycles to airplanes.

The airplane ranks high in the public imagination as a means of seeing remote corners of the world. And no wonder! Approximately 200,000 route miles have been flown in the service of the nation by passenger and cargo planes operated by personnel of the Air Transport Command and the Naval Air Transport service. No lonely Pacific islet, no sweat-drenched African landing strip, no ragged Himalayan peak, has failed to see, in ever increasing numbers, the transports carrying men and supplies from America to every quarter of the globe. These operations have been carried on against a background of airline pilots. When the war is over, worldwide military supply lines will become worldwide airways for the passengers and cargoes of peace.

Planes are on drawing boards or in the process of construction that should forever silence the pessimists who claim that the age of adventure and new frontiers is over. We have hardly begun to push back the frontiers, a fact that Americans are going to find out for themselves when they can start traveling again.

DISCRIMINATING AGAINST TAXPAYERS

The business managed electric industry has been warned that it would be a mistake to rely too much on the possibility of securing large quantities of surplus war materials to extend lines to rural areas after the war. The legislation authorizing its sale requires that public agencies, among which will be the tax-exempt Federal power projects, be given preferential treatment.

This we have another example of political favoritism that denies to taxpaying industry the same treatment accorded tax-subsidized and tax-exempt government competitor! ventures which seek to destroy private investments.

Governor Simeon Willis has designated December 13 as Jane Todd Crawford Day in Kentucky in honor of the woman who submitted to the first operation for removal of an ovarian tumor. A monument in the home of both Mrs. Crawford and Dr McDowell was erected at Danville by the Kentucky State Medical Association.

According to Uncle Joe, the farmer and the city feller are pretty much alike. They're just ignorant on different subjects. — Country Gentleman.

Special Communion Service

A special communion and candle-lighting service was held at the Methodist church Sunday morning in honor of the young people of the church who are in the service of their country. Fifty-eight red, white and blue candles, with one gold one, placed on the chancel rail and forming a living V in the center, were lighted by young boys and girls, each lighting his taper from the gold candle representing William Hopkins who was killed in action in Italy. As the roll was called, a member of the family took the boy or girl's place at the communion altar. Two of the fifty-eight boys, S/Sgt. Holmes Myers and John Peebeck were present at the service.
