VOLUMES OF PROMISE

There's a war to get on with, but we can find time for summer work lessons in required reading. The mail-order catalogues appeared on schedule: the Old Farmer's Almanac came in usual months-ahead weather predictions with comforting assurance and safe-margin leeway. The seed catalogues are appearing and the long evenings can be devoted to serious study. For Uncle Sam, while pleased with 1943's Victory Gardens, is asking for bigger and better ones this year.

The pictures in a seed catalogue are a major part of its value. A man may smile as he looks at the gorgeous glory of symmetrical ears of golden corn, the cool deliciousness of long green cucumbers, the royal red of smooth, tapering carrots and the succulent beauty of luscious, plump tomatoes. And the tantalizings of complete gardens. Never a weed, all rows perfectly spaced, the soil soft and brown with no doubt as to all plants bearing tremendous crops.

But that's an integral—and expected—part of seed catalogues. The banner of perfection is a seal that says men's minds. Who would thrill to a catalogue impressively and accurately portrayed one's garden in August? It wasn't a bad garden. It's never to that 1944 is going to be. Gardening is a way of living. And he who gardens is entitled to his dreams. Seed catalogues are made to the stuff that dreams are made of. One other part this is to say: determination to make the year's garden more fruitful than ever before.—Christian Science Monitor.

SRU's in Action

Atop the mainmast of a destroyer in port for repairs, SRU welders repair damage caused by machine-gun fire in a strafing attack. The speed with which repairs are effected often represents the difference between victory and defeat. Welding is but one of experience results in the steps necessary to keep the ships floating. There isn't time for the Navy to provide all its welders with highly skilled volunteers must be recruited from civilian jobs. Many of the Ship Repair Units are calling for men skilled in certain welding trades. It's a wind-blown job, with good pay and many other benefits. Any Navy Recruiting Station gives full information.

FAT SALVAGE SLOGANS

New York—J. Henry ("Slogan") Smythe, Jr., the world's best known slogan writer, has just presented the American Fat Salvage Committee with 25 slogans to encourage housewives to save more used kitchen fat.

Smythe acquired his nickname "Slogan" because during the first World War when he served overseas as a lieutenant in the American Red Cross, he was such a prolific producer of snappy sentences to help the liberty loan drives.

"Fats Have Gone to War—Save More!" and "What Fats Contain Save Soldiers Fats!" are two of his latest batch devoted to fat salvage. "Slogan" Smythe is convinced that saving leftover kitchen fats is one of the housewife's most important contributions to winning the war. "It's a job only a woman can do. It's a day-by-day," tablespoon-by-tablespoon job to obtain the glycerine-bearing fat needed for munitions and medicines," says Smythe.

Smythe has been a professional "sloganeer" ever since the last war, and his battlecries in this war number well over 1000. Some of his most famous World War slogans are, "Do Your Bit To Keep It Up—The Torch of Liberty!", "We're In It, Let's Win It!" and "Our Taxes Lick the Axis"

Here is the complete list of Smythe's fat salvage slogans:

Fats Have Gone to War—Save More!

Save to Win—Turn Fats In!

Aid the Fat Crusade!

Fats Don't Fly—Waste!

Get In It—Fats Help Win It!

Smarten the War—Save More Fats!

Our Fat Resources Back Our Forces!

Make Munitions in Your Kitchen!

Fat-Thrifty Be—It's War Economy!

Fats Are One Prayer You Send Over There!

Some Give Their All—Answer the Call for Fats!

Fats War Material—Not a Shirker—Save Fats!

Fats Are Needed—the Call Must Be Heeded!

You're Paid for Doing Your Duty—Save Fats!

Ease Our Job Overseas—Save Fats!

Better Be Ration-Pointed Than Our Boys Disappointed!

Cash and Trade-In, We'll Repay You! Save Used Fats!

Shell the Foe—Keep Soldiers Well—Save Used Fats!

"IKE TAX SPELLS DISASTER TO COAL OUTPUT"—PATTERSON

An Associated Press report from Washington, D. C., says Eugene Patterson, head of the State Department, testified before the Senate coal committee that Kentucky's peacetime coal production would be ruined if it had to bear a tax of 10 cents a ton, as proposed under a bill introduced in the Legislature of Kentucky by Representative R. M. Hall, Walton Democrat.

Patterson said that in ordinary times around 15 to 90 per cent of the state's coal production is shipped to markets in other areas, and that the 10-cents-a-ton impost would make it impossible for Kentucky mines to compete with producers operating without such a tax.

"Such a tax would, in ordinary times, have a ruinous effect on the state's coal production," Patterson said. "It would have effects of course, now, the producers would have to absorb the tax, and some of them are operating on a margin no greater than they have would just not stand out of business."

Patterson said latest figures on 1943 coal production were unofficial yet, but he estimated it would reach close to 65,000,000 tons, possibly a bit higher.

Railroad and truck mines produced 63,462,700 tons in Kentucky in 1942, the last year for which definite tabulations are available. Patterson said the peak employment in the state's mines was more than 67,000,000 tons in 1927 and that the tons for general purposes was about 35,000,000 as it years was about 35,000,000 as it

Representative Walton's bill would remove some coverage to Kentucky coal by the Federal Government for general purposes, and which the tax on which the coal is to be charged.

JESUS ON THE MOUNTAIN AND IN THE VALLEY

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:24, 17-27.
GOLDEN TEXT—Lord, I believe; help thou mine unbelief—Mark 9:24.

The vision of the mountain top prepares the believer for service down in the valley. "Where there is no vision the people perish," said the wise man of old (Prov. 29:18). For want of a true vision of God, a knowledge of His truth, and the God-given constraint which makes men give themselves to sacrificial service, the people will perish in their sins.

But let men come to know the truth as it is in Christ, learn to know Him as the Son of God glorious and powerful, and see Him as He translate their knowledge of Christian truth and their personal spiritual experience into a clear understanding of the needs of their fellow men, and there will be songs of salvation and joy.

I. Knowing (vv. 2-7).

The transfiguration of Christ doubtless meant much to Him in preparation for His coming death and resurrection. It was a foretaste of the Kingdom glory.

In this lesson we are concerned with the experience of the disciples rather than the feelings of our Lord. Fundamental in both Christian life and service is a clear understanding of the person and work of Christ. One may come to Christ knowing little more than that He is the divine Saviour, and one may enter into Christian living with a meager knowledge of the doctrines of the Bible. But the Christian who fails to grow in knowledge will not grow in grace as he should.

God sets no premium on ignorance, and it is quite evident that the great blight on the Christian life today is the appalling lack of understanding of God's Word.

The disciples came to a fuller conception than He was the Son of God as they saw Him transfigured and heard the Father say, "This is my beloved Son." They learned more and more the truth of His coming death for the sins of all mankind. They saw in the indestructible beauty of that moment the foreglam of His coming glory. Most important truths these are—His deity—His redemptive purpose—His kingship. Do we have a clear grasp of these truths? If not, let us study the Scriptures.

"Jesus only." He filled their vision and their hearts. How He made spiritual progress as they followed Him and feasted on the ever-unending voice of the Father.

Great experiences of spiritual renewal are not necessary for truly effective life and testimony. This is the day of small things. Faithfulness, in fact they are more often in the inner recesses of the soul that they transform men and reveal to them the truth of His coming death for the sins of all mankind. They saw in the indestructible beauty of that moment the foreglam of His coming glory. Most important truths these are—His deity—His redemptive purpose—His kingship. Do we have a clear grasp of these truths? If not, let us study the Scriptures
