Red Ace Of Clubs Grown In County

Mrs. Walls McCowen and Mrs. Lawrence Woodard of the Banta neighborhood, brought to the Mercury office Wednesday a tomato or a specimen of tomatoes according to which description a botanist might give the freak growth, which resembles more than anything else, except for being red, the symbol of the ace of clubs.

The three operations all appended from a common stem and are tied with a smaller one at the base giving the whole the above appearance in shape and position.

Watch Red Stamps

The local O. P. A. office has issued a warning to the public against using red stamps recklessly. It was stated that the stamps should be expended judiciously on the same basis as during the war; that there was little likelihood that sugar would be removed from the ration list until next year.

NEWS IN THE WORLD OF RELIGION

by W. W. REID

Bishop Wm. T. Manning of the Episcopal diocese of New York is offering prayer that the next session of the United Nations, which meets in San Francisco, Saturday, October 13, will be guided by God. "O God, our Father of all men and Ruler of all nations, we pray Thee to bless and guide the statesmen who are gathered together for the purpose of establishing the foundations of a just and lasting peace among the nations of the world. Grant that the United Nations may continue to stand united in their purpose and world brotherhood and peace may be established among all nations and nationalities and may be diverse manner in one great family of nations. We pray for the establishment of that peace which is the fruit of righteousness."

The official organ of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Boston, "The Pilot," condemns the atomic bomb as a means of any nation, friend or foe. "The advances of science are intended for the betterment of human living," it says. "All the extraordinary virtues claimed on the split atom scarcely atone for the original sin of mass destruction which this invention has brought into the world. The morality of war must be judged by the number of helpless non-combatants. Voiceless peoples cannot be ruthlessly victimized for the sins of their leaders."

Only three nations in the world will be strong enough during the next hundred years to wage war and these three should now decide to forever outlaw war as an instrument of settling disagreements, demobilize their armies, and scrap their war equipment, is the belief of Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell, of Providence, R. I. He names the nations as the United States, Great Britain, and Russia, each now intending "to go on arming itself to the teeth." He adds: "Three mighty empires each filled with fear, propose to stand ostensibly together, but each of them prepared at any moment to attack or resist attack from one or both of its avowedly chief friends. And we the people —the common folk of America, Russia, and Britain—look and feel then do it. On them and on us who have not yet enough courage enough to demand of our leaders a better course, will rest the guilt of murder when the next war comes."

The Japanese city of Hiroshima and Nagasaki—both visited by the first atomic bombs—were for three-fourths of a century active centers of missionary activity of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist church. There were no missionaries of the Church in Nagasaki, but Methodist missionaries all having been recalled before hostilities began. But it was in Hiroshima that the largest Methodist church was located, with a membership of 1,000. Dr. Takaji Ogawa, a Methodist clergyman, founded a Kokushikan Settlement, including a day nursery, kindergarten, playground and evangelistic center. One of the most noted of Methodism's secondary schools for boys, Chinzei Gakuin—was in Nagasaki, the principal philanthropic center. Other Nagasaki activities were the Kwassui Semmon Gakko, a junior college for young women; the Meiton Young Home, with social service and extension work for the shipbuilders' families; and the Akunoura Settlement, near the docks, with kindergarten, nursery, night schools, etc. It is believed these have all been carried on as Japanese institutions during the war period.

The suspension of atomic bombing of Japan, during the days when that nation was considering the latest Allied offering of peace, and the alternatives to that acceptance, was he course urged upon President Truman in a joint statement issued by Bishop Bromley Oxnam, as president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, and John Foster Dulles, as chairman of the Commission on Federal mission. "We urge that this course (to which we quickly and dramatically put our new power can be used to stop war, not merely preserve it) be followed"; they declared, said. "It will require of us great self-restraint. However, our supremacy is now so overwhelming that such restraint would be taken everywhere as evidence not of weakness but of moral and physical greatness. Inevitably the example we set will profoundly affect the future. If we, a professedly Christian nation, feel morally free to use atomic power in that way (mass destruction) atomic weapons will be looked upon as a normal part of the arsenal of war, and the stage will be set for the sudden and final destruction of mankind."
