EDITORIALS

It is with a sense of gratification that I am publishing a paper which I assume charge of, for many years, and which has been regarded with such a high sentiment not only by those with whom I am departing from the editorial and general editor's office, but also by the readers of the Carlsle Mercury and an appreciating resort to the more numerous and varied news of the day. I have expressed in this feeling a more than natural one is a degree of sentimentality which will remain a part of my earliest recollection and which will be a part of my life. I have expressed in this feeling a more than natural one is a degree of sentimentality which will remain a part of my earliest recollection and which will be a part of my life.

Also again associated with the Mercury is Sam Reynolds, an engaging young man, who has here and a valuable aide in the operation of the Mercury's machinery, which all Kentuckians love. I have been a part of the Mercury's machinery, which all Kentuckians love. I have been a part of the Mercury's machinery, which all Kentuckians love.

Mr. Bennett was associated with the Enterprise last for several months as a news editor and made a successful record. We predict he will make good on his promise to go to the Capital of Nicholas should give to his former associates in support that he deserves. Good luck to you, Paul!

Under its present management, the Enterprise in Kentucky thought never to give up its position as one of the most prominent newspapers in the state. It will continue to do so under the able leadership of Mr. Bennett.

NEWS ABOUT OUR BOYS

In The Service

WARM SP SPED

Continued unseasonable weather has been a plague to the farmer in this section as well as all over the nation. Crops now in the ground are being seriously damaged.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, June 3, 1920
Cleveland, Ohio, reported heavy rain... The rain was a relief to the crops in this section.
