BIBLE THOUGHT THIS WEEK

Jesus saith unto her, Touch me not; for I am not yet ascended to my Father: but go to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and your Father; and to my God, and to your God.—St. John 20th Chapter, verse 17.

A JOB WELL DONE

We have supplied gasoline, fuel oil, lubricants, and hundreds of other petroleum products to our fighting men and our allies throughout the world in quantities beyond comprehension. The Office of War Information estimated recently that it requires 6,480,000 gallons of petroleum products for an initial invasion of 250,000 men in a given area, and 32,424,000 gallons to maintain this force for 30 days. This gives an idea of the tremendous job the American petroleum industry is doing in seeing that our armed forces never lack oil.

How it has supplied our military demands and kept the wheels turning at home, is a story of accomplishment almost without parallel. While meeting the demands of war, the industry is not failing to think in terms of peace, and its obligation to maintain unending reserves for the greater oil using nation in the world.

We are just discovering, as it were, the vast potentials of our great natural resource oil, that has transformed our way of living—discoveries brought about by individual initiative and spurred on by free competition.

CIGARETTES COSTS MORE THAN ELECTRIC SERVICE

The American public spends almost 50 per cent more on cigarettes tha non electric service. According to figures published recently by the Securities and Exchange Commission, the gross revenues of the six largest cigarette manufacturers in the United States in 1943 totaled $1,533,032,000. During the same period the revenues received by all American electric utilities—privately-owned and —for residential and farm service totaled $1,100,000,000, or nearly half a million dollars less than the receipts of the cigarette manufacturers.

Appointed District Manager Co-operative

M. F. BORDEN

Max F. Borden of Baltimore, Md., who for the past few years has been district manager for Southern States Cooperative in north central Maryland, has just been appointed district manager for Southern States Cooperative, Inc., stores in Lexington.

Mr. Borden has had ample experience in working with farm people both in Maryland and Virginia, before becoming a district manager. Mr. Borden managed Southern States Cooperative store in Leesburg, Va., in addition of doing short courses Prince George county. Mr. Borden was manager of one of the cooperative's service stations in Kentucky. Mr. Borden and family will reside in Lexington.

YOURS S. S. CARD IS

KEY TO S. S. PAYMENTS

Every person who performs any service, private industry or commerce should have a social security card. This was emphasized in a statement by employees in this area by Mrs. B. B. Tworly, manager of the Social Security Board's field office in Lexington, where social security cards may be obtained. "A social security card," Mrs. Tworly said, "is the key that establishes an insurance account for the United States Government and opens the door to eventual benefits under the Federal old age and survivors insurance system."

The purpose of this insurance, he explained, is to provide regular monthly payments for the support of workers and their families when the breadwinner crosses old or when he dies. Since benefit payments are based on the worker's wages in employment covered by the law, it is important that Mr. Tworly said, to have all wages correctly reported and recorded on your social security account. Part-time and temporary employment counts too, and every dollar of wages from covered jobs up to $3,000 a year helps to increase protection.

Mr. Tworly explained that the Social Security Board keeps a record of each wage item as it is reported by employers and that this information is then transferred to the Baltimore office of the Social Security Board. Many persons, he added, have the same name, but each person has the same number.

"It's simple," said Mr. Tworly, "when your employer records your earnings under your social security number and card is the same as that number and card which is on file in the Baltimore office of the Social Security Board. Many persons have the same name, but not the same number."

Mr. Tworly explained that your employer records your earnings on your social security card at the end of each year and sends a statement of your wages to the Social Security Board. Each employer is required to make a report for each employee for whom he has withheld social security taxes from wages paid. Then if you lose your card, the Social Security Board can give you a duplicate card immediately with the same number as was on the original card. If you do not have the stub or a record of your number, it will take time to get it. But don't lose your original card—issuing duplicates costs money, paper, and time.

The field office manager pointed out the important part which the employee plays under the system. He pays half the premium for your Government insurance by forwards to the Government his own and your social security premiums, he reports the wages of every employee, so that they may be recorded in the proper social security account, and he is required to provide each employee with a statement of the wages reported by him."

Every day from San Francisco, 1000 pints of blood go to the Pacific. This whole blood is needed for each wounded man. BETTER DAYS

In these momentous days we seem to stand
Like a hilltop whence we see at hand
The mysteries of better days in store
That stirs a gratitude not felt before.
Our cause has known disaster and dark days
When faith fights on and follows hidden ways.
Unutterable odds have humbled hearts
But left us strength of spirit that imparts
Sure fortitude that brings the victory nigh
Without alloy of hate. True purpose high,
That war's foul stain shall never come again
United our people and our fight to end the pain.
Loss has been ours and will be still to the end,
But for outweighed by all that we defend.
Our hearts are proud and grateful now to know
We did not fall before the vaunted foe
That in God's hand has made our nation great
