EVERYTHING SHE ATE SEEMED TO TORTURE HER

Retonga Again Proves Merit By Bringing Prompt Relief In Stubborn Case. ...Can Hardly Wait For Mealtime Now.

MRS. W. S. SHACKLEFORD

"It seemed to me that distress from indigestion and heartburn kept me feeling miserable the whole time for two years, but thanks to Retonga I now feel fine again and never miss a meal," declares Mrs. W. S. Shackleford, well known resident of Route 1, Randleman, N. C. Discussing her case, Mrs. Shackelford happily continued:

"My appetite became so poor that at times I could hardly stand the sight of food, and it looked like every bite I swallowed turned me with indigestion, sourness and gas until I sometimes just had to gasp for breath. No one knows what torture that is unless they have been through it. My elimination was so sluggish that I had to change from one laxative to another to get any effect. I felt so bad all the time I was downhearted and discouraged.

"Retonga gave me prompt and grand relief. I can hardly wait for mealtime now, and everything seems to agree with me, and I feel fine. Even that terrible sluggish elimination is relieved. Retonga has first place in my medicine cabinet."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to Vitamin B-1 deficiency, constipation, insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, and loss of appetite. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at Carlisle Drug Store and Hopkins Drug Store.—Adv.

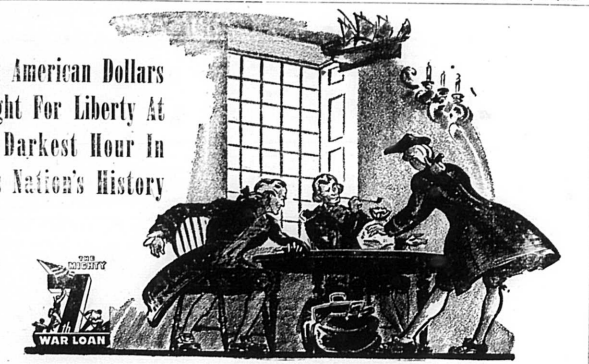
When American Dollars Fought For Liberty At the Darkest Hour In This Nation's History



On a December day in 1776, Philadelphia was in turmoil. Lord Howe's British troops were marching across New Jersey. The Continental Congress, despite the pleas of certain steadfast patriots, had fled to Baltimore. Few but Quakers and sick soldiers from Washington's ragged army remained in the city.

Out of the fear and chaos emerged one of the heroes of the American Revolution. He was a banker, not a soldier. His name was Robert Morris. Already he had pressed the Congress for more and more funds for General Washington in the face of growing timidity and secret toryism.

From door to door went Robert Morris, pleading, cajoling—yes, even begging contributions to the cause of independence. Impressed by his courage more than by any certainty of victory, people responded. A renewed trickle of gold—gold to buy food and clothing and shoes for the Continentals—began to reach General Washington. The tide of desertions from his army halted.

Morris never let up. He mustered a handful of troops to defend the city. He pushed to completion the ships which Admiral John Paul Jones so sorely needed. And he miraculously raised funds—funds for freedom.

The War Bond salesmen who call upon you in the Seventh War Loan are worthy inheritors of Robert Morris' mantle. They, too, are raising funds for freedom—to keep the equipment flowing to our fighting men out there battling the enemies of democracy.

They offer you, not a desperate gamble, but a safe investment. They invite you to join in the final push to victory, and once again to put American dollars on the firing line for liberty and justice. It is a challenge no patriotic American can refuse.

Buy War Bonds—and hold them—to speed victory and peace.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE DEFEAT OF THE SOUTHERN KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 21:1-10; 37a, 37b.

GOLDEN TEXT—Come, and let us return unto the Lord.—Hosea 6:1.

History repeats itself. Men never seem to learn from the experiences of others, whether they be personal or national. Judah, the southern part of the divided kingdom, saw the downward path of Israel and its ultimate captivity. The same process went on in Judah, although hindered now and then by good kings who brought about a partial return to God.

Ultimately the day came when Jerusalem was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar's troops and the people carried off to their long years of captivity in Babylon.

Jeremiah ministered as God's prophet during Judah's declining years, bringing them God's word of judgment for their sins and urging them to submit. His voice was unheeded and for his faithfulness he received only their hatred and persecution. God gave him the strength and grace to be true in a very difficult mission.

Our lesson for today tells how God in a graphic object lesson taught the prophet and the people that they were in the hands of a sympathetic but at the same time a sovereign God.

I. The Potter and His Work (vv. 1-4).

The maker of pottery took the lump of clay, placed it on his wheel, and with his hand formed it into the kind of vessel he wanted. If it became misshapen or showed a defect he could moisten and remold the clay into another vessel as it suited him. The clay was in his hand to meet his purpose and his will.

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan fittingly suggests that there are three things to be borne in mind here: a principle, a purpose, and a person. And as we apply the truth to ourselves as God's children, we spell the Person of the Potter with a capital "P," for He is none other than God Himself.

The principle is that God is absolutely sovereign, that He does as He wills for His own glory. Until we recognize that principle, life will be a failure. If, however, I have discovered this principle about, then my soul will be filled with terror. I must also see the purpose.

The purpose is the working out of His will for each of us. He knows us, and He has a plan for our lives, and is able to make that plan come to pass if we permit Him to do so.

But, as Dr. Morgan says, "If I know principle and purpose only, I shall yet tremble and wonder, and be filled with a haunting foreboding." But as "I press through the principle and beyond the purpose and discover the Person of the Potter, then the purpose will flame with light, and the principle that appears so hard and severe will become the sweetest and tenderest thing in my life."

God spoke to Jeremiah through the scene in the potter's house, and He also wants to talk to our hearts.

II. God and Judah (vv. 5-10, 15a, 17a).

The lesson is plain. God had for His people a high and glorious purpose. He wanted to bless them and use them for His glory. But they were a sinful and rebellious people, stiff-necked and stubborn in their unbelief, and the vessel of honor which God was trying to form was marred in His hand.

God did not act in anger or in disregard of their rights. He was forced to bring judgment upon them because of their own sin. That sin is stated in verse 15—they had forgotten God.

Our troubles as he applies that test of God's requirement for blessing upon a nation to our own land. There is a haunting fear that while there are some who truly worship God, and a larger number who profess to worship Him, a great host of the people of America have forgotten God.

Does our nation remember Him and seek His counsel and blessing in its national affairs? Do we inquire after the ways of righteousness? Are we eager for spiritual revival and increasing grace even within the church?

Judah was to be scattered "as with an east wind"—and who does not know that it came to pass. Where are they today?

But even in the midst of judgment the Lord speaks of mercy. The Lord who will "pluck up, break down and destroy" (v. 7) the people who forget Him, is eager and ready "to build and to plant" the nation when it turns to Him.

The sure promise of God's future blessing upon a repentant Israel and Judah is written large in the messages of all the prophets.

The same God, eternally sovereign in His purpose, is our heavenly Father. The man or woman whose vessel of life has been marred by sin and failure need only yield anew to the Potter's blessed hand.
