

Discreet Supervision, Self-Government For U. K. Girls

A program of discreet supervision, combined with a self-governing plan whereby women students are granted a certain amount of personal good judgment, is the "rule-of-the-house" plan for the supervision of women students at the University of Kentucky.

YOUNG LADIES, I AM TALKING TO YOU! You don't need an employment bureau or anyone else to learn the good news that a permanent job is now possible in your home community. There are going to be so many beautiful things on the market in these post-war days and you should have your share. You want a good permanent job to insure your having the things other girls have. All right, we can offer you the chance to get them.

HANSLEY MILLS PARIS, KENTUCKY. You don't need an employment bureau or anyone else to learn the good news that a permanent job is now possible in your home community. There are going to be so many beautiful things on the market in these post-war days and you should have your share. You want a good permanent job to insure your having the things other girls have. All right, we can offer you the chance to get them. Today, our machines are humming with civilian production. Tomorrow, we want this hum louder, hum, with more machines and more operators. We have the business; our trade is sound and represents the nation's largest industries. We are here to stay. We are expanding. That is why we can offer you employment. We have a modern factory, with a self-operated cafeteria where quality food is served in low prices; a full time nurse is on the job; music is played at intervals; recreation is a part of our program; each employee is given insurance without cost; rest periods are provided and good wages are paid.
