What is nature? Art thou not after-and helps us to think - Thomas Carlyle.

THE GARDEN

By John S. Gardner, Cultivator of Agriculture

Timely tips on potato troubles - A general complaint now in about potato plants is "dying over night". The cause is the disease black shank, which is caused by a fungus which attacks the roots of the plant. It is best to use a fungicide on the soil around the plants. Also, use a fungicide on the plants themselves. This is the best way to prevent the disease. It will give them the best of health and they will be able to stand the winter.

Conservation

Five new cooperators joined the Nicholas county Soil Conservation district during the week ending July 3. They are: W. A. Downan, Wilburn Clark and H. P. Alexander. One hundred and fifty-five farmers have been organized into the district. Plans have been completed with eighty-three of these operations during the past week.

Wake Up Kentucky

(By Irving Calverly)

The scene was a court room in Denver. A thin man of medium build and kindly features sat on the judge's stand, but behind him stood a man of a different type. Before the first case was called the judge looked at the man seated in search of a prep work.
