When my boy was in the first grade he had a bird dog he loved very much. He called him Dan The old dog disturbed the flesh old neighbors by barking at night. We were told that we would be deported to the poor if we did not get rid of the dog. A farmer who had an understanding heart, and wanted to be a real friend to the little boy offered to take the dog and keep him until such a time when we could get him again.

The dog was lonesome. He roamed about hunting for the little boy. One day he was hit by a truck, and wounded very seriously. The little boy would go over where the farmer worked in his barber shop every day and ask about his dog. When school was out the little lad would ask if I had time to go with him to see Dan. I found time, and we took our sandwiches, hiked far into the country on a mission of mercy. When we got near the old hog pen where old Dan was stretched out the little boy began breathing very rapidly, and walking very softly. We peeped in through a crack at the dog. The boy whispered to me: "Dad, do you think my dog will live?" I assured him it was possible for Old Dan to recover. He did get up, but on another hunt for his long lost pal was killed instantly on the road.

I have never had any objections to a boy and his dog since that time. No one knows the ups and wys.

Public Sale
SATURDAY, JUNE 22
AT 10:30 A. M.

We will sell on the premises located 8 miles South of Carlisle, 3 miles of East Union on the Somerset road, the 18 acre farm and home of Mrs. Enoch Thompson. This farm is well located. It is strong limestone land, all in grass and has a 2 acre tobacco base.

Improvements consist of a 4-room home, 6 bent tobacco barn, with all other necessary outbuildings, and never failing water. It is not often that you can find a small farm like this on the market, located close to churches, school and leading markets. With farm land rapidly advancing it will pay you to buy farm land before it reaches the peak, as we believe this is sure to come. Don't overlook this opportunity as food stuff is very scarce as you know and this is a place where you can keep your cows, hogs, chickens and raise a crop as well as food stuff.

Possession will be given March 1, 1947. Anyone desiring to look over the property will be shown by tenant on farm or the selling agents. Terms reasonable and will be made known on day of sale. Be with us, this is the chance to own your own home and farm.

Prospects of good weather late Wednesday afternoon augured well for the big fish fry which is to be staged at the city reservoir tonight. While Tom Kincart and Chess Shearer are both good friends of all the newspaper staff we are still at a loss to understand why they had to go and set the date of the outdoor frolic right spang on our press night so that we were not able to attend. If old Rachel, the recalcitrant press, doesn't get too temperamental however, Spike, Larry, Allen and I may get out there in time to join in with Henry Peters, Harvey Leonard, Jim Patton and Allen Hopkins in singing a few bars, at least, of "Dear Old Girl." And to help "Bookie" Blair in singing "Turkey in the Stree, Stri, Straw."

For information of those who apparently doubted the story I wrote last week about the wind which was so strong it blew all the feathers off a Fayette county flock of chickens, I am happy to submit the following corroboration in the Lexington Leader Four Bits column of Tuesday afternoon. Jay Jay says: "It really happened.

"It was printed in The Leader at the time and was not challenged by scores of people who had seen the plucked fowls.

"The storm, chickens picking very neat job, occurred at the Kelly farm on the Rowster road. Lest the public skeptic having doubted one newspaper, suspect this one of bolstering up a fellow-member of the trade, I checked with two witnesses. I could have got dozen, but the first two I thought of, who could be reached easily by phone, were County Police Chief John Will McConnell and J. Marion Vaughn. Both agreed, if necessary to convince those doubters, to submit affidavits that they had seen the chickens and 'This is all true.'"

I had thought the stories of last week were of the kind which avid tall tales until Bill Henry told me the story about the alleged experience of a local horse in the flash flood of 1939. The horse was quartered in a stall in Joe Hamm's livery stable in Chicago Bottom when the deluge came. When the water receded he was none without a trace of hide or hair. He was found in a stiffen off as a result of the flood. Bill said when he was finally found—in the hay loft of the barn! Now the question is, how in the name of common sense did he—oh, well—it's Bill's story.

In the ancient craft of Tubal Cain, Carlisle's Ira Hunter has been long an able and faithful practitioner. But what pleases me is that the people who got together the atom-splitters at Oakridge, Tennessee, failed to include Ira among the mechanical brains gathered there to help put a bent mechanically that borders genius. Latest appliance Ira has fashioned and manufactured is a hand-made trip-hammer of remarkable striking power with which he beats out plow-shares into points. Made of scrap iron and steel it lessens manual work to a minimum and greatly reduces expenditure of time. More of this interesting subject later, for patent has been applied for. Recently one was granted Ira on a sickle-sharpener he devised and other patents are pending on other machines.

If your paper is folded properly this week, that pleasant circumstance will come to you through the courtesy of Rolla Cavanaugh, who brought his big sewing machine to the newspaper plant this week and stitched up the belts on the folder. Rolla uses the sewing apparatus in the repair of shoes at his Main street establishment, to which he recently added facilities for cleaning hats. (That's an ad, son.)

With the closing of stores here Wednesday afternoons and the closing of the banks on Friday afternoons, the city of Carlisle experiences two pretty quiet afternoons each week. A lot of people think that one afternoon each week on which both banks and stores could get their closing done would better serve the interests of local business as well as those of the patrons.

Typhoid Warning Issued In County

Dr. B. F. Reynolds, Acting Health Officer of Nicholas county, has issued a warning to citizens of the county not to use water for human consumption which may have been contaminated by recent flood conditions here.

He urged that such water supplies be boiled or treated with chloride of lime before it is used. Chloride of lime is obtained at any drug store, with directions on the can for its proper use, he said.

Doubtless many springs, cisterns and wells in the county were overflowed by recent heavy rains, thereby polluting the water and making it dangerous for human consumption.

The Health Department has on hand sterilized water sample containers for any who wish to have their water supply tested. This service is free, Dr. Reynolds said.

Approval of the loan was made by C. H. Newman, district director of Farmers Home Administration Supervisor, of Lexington, Kentucky and the certification was made by the Nicholas county FHA committee, composed of Frank C. Bramel, Jr., S. Vire and Frank Caldwell, according to a report made by John L. Zachary, Nicholas county FSA supervisor.

Terrell served for seventeen months with the Eighth Air Force, and at the time of his discharge he held the rank of private first class. While overseas, he was stationed in England. Mrs. Terrell is the former Mary Beth Bramel, of Olagene, Scott land. Mr. Terrell met her in Georgetown, where she was working as a bookkeeper at an ammunition factory. She came to America following the end of hostilities in Europe, and they were married in Covington on May 6, 1945.

After Mr. Terrell's discharge, he returned to his mother's farm which he operated in 1945. He also rented some additional farm land for the present year.

The Terrells plan to improve the farm they have purchased by repairing and painting the dwelling, installing electricity, and constructing two new bents to the tobacco barn. Mr. Terrell plans to improve the land by clearing it of brush, seeding to pastures, sowing good mixtures of grasses and legumes, using lime and phosphate where needed, and cultivating on the contour.

Lamb Brings $3.05

Price records for Kentucky lambs were established Saturday when Herschel Weil, Central Kentucky farmer and stockman, paid $3.05 a pound for the champion in the 4-H division of a 4-H club and Future Farmers show and sale at the Clay-Gentry stockyards. Mr. Weil said he would donate the lamb to the Jewish hospital in Louisville.

George Scott Jr., Carlisle, was the auctioneer.

Parks P. T. A.

The Parks P. T. A. met Friday, June 21st at the home of Mrs. Kash Grimes with the president, Mrs. Grimes, presiding.

Mrs. Dorsey Watkins was in charge of the program assisted by John Ferguson gave a talk on "Will the Americans in War be Losers in Peace?"

A committee composed of Mrs. Dorsey Watkins, Mrs. Jesse Earlywine and Mrs. Marion Davis was appointed to start purchasing material for the new lunch room for the P. T. A. is sponsoring.

At the end of the business session delightful refreshments were served and the meeting was adjourned to meet again July 26.

Vinson Becomes 13th Chief Justice Of U. S.

Fred M. Vinson, 56-year-old Kentucky native, became the 13th Chief Justice of the United States Monday.

President Truman voiced confidence that respect for the Supreme Court "will be enhanced" by the leadership of the former Secretary of the Treasury, in a speech during impressive swearing-in ceremonies on the White House portico.

Members of the Court, including Justice Hugo M. Black target of a recent attack by his associates, Justice Robert H. Jackson, were grouped around their new presiding officer as he took the oath of office.

Thousands watched the ceremonies from the sun-bathed lawn to the rear of the mansion.

In solemn tones, Vinson declared "I do, so help me God" in taking each of the customary two oaths.

President Truman declared that Vinson's appointment as the 13th Chief Justice "is lucky for the United States" and lucky for Mr. Vinson added, "I hope it is."

The entire ceremony lasted nine minutes. Before Vinson, attired in a black cutaway coat, stepped out on the portico to be sworn in, a Navy band played "Pomp and Circumstance."

First Farm Loan Granted To Nicholas County Service Man

Cecil B. Terrell and his wife Mary, have the distinction of being the first Nicholas county World War II veterans to receive a farm ownership loan for the purchase of a family size farm under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act. They purchased a farm of 107 acres, which is located 2½ miles northwest of Carlisle on the Scrub Grass road, from the Waggoner Brothers.

Approval of the loan was made by C. H. Newman, district director of Farmers Home Administration Supervisor, of Lexington, Kentucky and the certification was made by the Nicholas county FHA committee, composed of Frank C. Bramel, Jr., S. Vire and Frank Caldwell, according to a report made by John L. Zachary, Nicholas county FSA supervisor.

Terrell served for seventeen months with the Eighth Air Force, and at the time of his discharge he held the rank of private first class. While overseas, he was stationed in England. Child Injured

Just Plain Dumb?

Kentucky had the highest traffic fatality rate in the nation in 1945, the last unrationed gasoline year for which statistics are available, State Revenue Commissioner Orville Howard said. The record led him to associate highway slaughter with low standards of education.

Cannery Gets Ready For Summer Work

Work of overhauling machinery and repairing equipment at the Carlisle Community Cannery is now under way in anticipation of the opening Tuesday, July 2, G. B. Leonard, supervisor said this week.

The value of the fruit and vegetable juicer, which is part of the equipment was stressed by Mr. Leonard in urging that residents of the community take advantage of the facilities.

Juices of carrots, tomatoes, grapes and berries were named as among those which are proving beneficial to health by the supervisor.

Tin cans of pint and quart size are supplied by the cannery at a modest charge. Every effort is being made, he added, to aid in conserving foods and the general public can use the modern equipment of the plant to accomplish this end.

A pool court is one of the many pleasing features of the modern low cost house shown above as pictured in the July issue of Good Housekeeping magazine. Bright, breeze-swept rooms, panoramic picture windows and a step-saving plan are other features that make this house a happy solution to the housing problems of many average American families.

The section of the rock wall east of the front sidewalk of the Nicholas county courthouse is being replaced because of recent evidence of weakness in its structure. The entire section has been torn down and the foundation of Joe Mitchelltree, local stonemason, and some materials will be used in rebuilding the wall. Judge Walter Shepherd said that rains this spring had apparently caused the bulging in the wall. The west section of the old rock structure was rebuilt a couple of years ago.

County School Levy Increased .10 At Called Meeting Of Fiscal Court

Addition Revenue Will Provide Nine Months School Term For Students Of Nicholas County Schools

A ten cent property tax raise was voted unanimously by the Nicholas county fiscal court Saturday in order to increase the county school tax levy from 75 cents to 85 cents and thereby allow the adoption of a nine month school term for county children.

At the called meeting of the court, Magistrates Luther Hollar, Kash Hazlettler, W. J. Clark, Leonard Alexander and Hamer Miller were present with County Judge Walter Shepherd presiding.

County Superintendent of Schools Raymond J. Wesley and board members Dan E. Wells, Mrs. Howard Irvin, J. W. Alexander, Reynolds Gaunce and B. S. Stephenson attended the meeting and discussed needs of the schools.

According to Superintendent Wesley the raise in the levy will be a great step forward in county school work although the raise, he said, was a conservative one.

Most counties, under the new law which provides that school levies may be raised to a maximum of $1.50, raised to $1. It was reported that a neighboring county adopted the maximum provision for its schools of $.150.

The raise in the levy has made it possible for county units to provide as good schools as independent districts, it was stated.
