Correction Of A Purported Correction

The Primary is over. In this Primary Mr. E. F. Prichard Sr., has been nominated for the office of Representative for Nicholas and fourteen counties. We accept the mandate of the voters and congratulate Mr. Prichard upon his successful race. We in no wise desire to continue the race after it is over. However, on the eve of the Primary an advertisement signed by eight Bourbon counties citizens was published in The Carlisle Mercury in the effort to defeat Mr. Prichard in so far as the citizens knew Mr. Prichard had not been approached by anyone suggesting that he step aside as a candidate for Representative in order that a citizen of Nicholas might have a clear field for the office. This, of course, referring to a previous race. This statement enables us to straighten the information and integrity of the twenty-four men who had the courage of a statement that their understanding was that Mr. Prichard had been asked to respect a time honored custom of choosing a Representative from one county one term and a Representative from the other county for the following term. We hereby reaffirm our claim that Mr. Prichard was so approached and that he did refuse to alternate with a citizen of Nicholas county in the election of a Representative for the two counties. In the first place Mr. Prichard did run against a citizen of Nicholas county after he had served a term in the House. That is incontrovertible evidence that Mr. Prichard had no respect for the courtesies and customs obtaining in the state.

I noticed the name of Judge Butterton mentioned in the newspaper advertisement and was asked by him. He stated to me, this as follows: "The late W. D. McIntyre was chairman of the Bourbon County Democratic Committee and the late I. B. Ross of Nicholas county was chairman of the county committee at the time. W. D. McIntyre told me that he and I. B. Ross had a conference and agreed that the Representative in this district should be rotated between the two counties and he had always agreed to carry out this agreement. That in so doing, he said that he had approached Mr. E. F. Prichard and asked him not to run at that time but to let Nicholas county name the candidate for Representative and that Mr. Prichard declined to withdraw." Judge Butterton further said that he did not hear W. D. McIntyre tell E. F. Prichard this, that W. D. McIntyre told him Judge Butterton) that he had asked E. F. Prichard not to run.

Judge Butterton has been and was at that time closely identified with the activities of the democratic committee of Bourbon county.

We are making this statement to clear the names of the twenty-four men who published the article calling the attention of the voters of Nicholas county to the fact that Nicholas county had not been given a rightful share in representation in the House of Representatives.

Farmers Are Advised To Place Lime Orders

Lime again ranks high on the list of conservation needs in Nicholas county, H. S. Vire, chairman of the county Agricultural Conservation Committee, said as he advised farmers to place orders immediately for the lime they will need this year.

A great deal of lime has been spread on farmland in the county during the past few years, but Vire said that most Kentucky land needs liming every four or five years to keep it from going "sour" and that much of the sour land has never been limed.

Eighteen types of soil-saving practices are approved for the 1947 Agricultural Conservation Program and Vice stated that around half a dozen of these practices are needed on virtually every farm in the county.

With 1947 practice allowances will cover only a small part of the conservation needs, Vire pointed out that more conservation can be obtained by careful planning to include practices most needed on each individual farm.

The list of practices approved for the 1947 Kentucky Agricultural Conservation Program includes: applying limestone to farmland, applying phosphate to legumes and grasses, applying potash to legumes and grasses, establishing winter cover crops (small grains or winter legumes), establishing or improving permanent pasture, constructing stockwater dams and ponds, constructing terraces or diversion ditches, establishing permanent sod waterways, drainage land with tile or ditches, planting forest trees, and harvesting specified types of legume seeds.

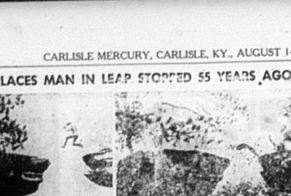
DOG REPLACES MAN IN LEAP STORIED 55 YEARS AGO



A FATAL ACCIDENT FIFTY-FIVE YEARS AGO caused authorities to stop daring sightseers from jumping across to Stand Rock, famous landmark at Wisconsin Dells, Wisc., but it is again being done, this time by a dog. 300 Persons Hear Blue Licks Speakers Pay Tribute To Judges Ross, Wilson

A crowd of approximately 300 persons Tuesday braved a heavy rainstorm and downpour to attend sunshiny afternoon to attend ceremonies at Blue Licks in commemoration of the 165th anniversary of the bloody Battle of Blue Licks.

The affair brought many Nicholas and Robertson countians together for their annual homecoming picnic and outing.

The afternoon's program was devoted to speeches honoring two Kentuckians who had contributed largely to the establishment of the state park on the battlefield site.

Col. Lucian Beckner of Louisville, the principal speaker, paid tribute to the late Samuel Wilson of Lexington, who he said had been an outstanding figure in education and a staunch supporter of Kentucky's parks program.

It was said that Judge Wilson, as he was familiarly known, had done much for Blue Lick State park, a site to merit perpetuation of his memory for the herds of Kentuckians, and added that he also had given extensive time and energy to promoting Kentucky's other tourist attractions.

Col. A. C. Dedman in paying tribute to the late Judge I. B. Ross, Carlisle, said he had known Mr. Ross for nearly 50 years and knew him better than any other resident of Nicholas county.

Judge Ross and Judge Dedman said, "had highest regard for the ethics of the law."

The speakers are reminded that Judge Ross also was instrumental in having the Blue Licks battlefield site taken over by the state as an historic shrine.

Other speakers on the afternoon program included Dr. J. T. Dorris, professor of history at Eastern State Teachers College, Richmond, and Col. W. B. Nelson, commandant of Millersburg Military Institute.

Judge Gordon Sulter of Maysville presided and introduced the speakers, and music for the program was provided by the Mt. Sterling band.

The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Robert Miles, Lexington.

In attendance at the eulogy services was a distant relative of the late Judge Wilson, Mrs. R. B. Ross, widow of the late Judge Ross, and Mrs. Alton Kerns, his daughter.

Leaf Prices Decline On Southern Markets

Flue-cured tobacco prices on Georgia-Florida markets showed a sharp drop during the past week, the United States Department of Agriculture has reported.

Declines ranging from 25 cents to $6 a hundred pounds and decreased proportions of lower grades marketed down to $23.45 a hundred, $8.62 below last week.

Friday the average hit $29.35, down $16.10 from the season high Aug. 4. Gross sales for the season total 138,921,186 at an average of $40.55.

In contrast to high averages of the week before, practically all grades this week fell to the lowest prices of the year. Leaf grades lost $1.50 to $6; cutters $2 to $6; most lugs, $1 to $4; and a few nondescript, 25 cents to $2.75. Most declines were from $1 to $4. Demand appeared better for low lugs and lighter nondescript grades which were steady to $2 higher.

No Increase In Tax Levy Foreseen If County Favors Hospital Bonds

There is little likelihood that the county tax levy will be increased in creasing their tax levy if they balance sheet at the close of the fiscal year on the $150,000 bond issue for constructing and furnishing a county hospital.

That was the opinion expressed today by County Judge Walter Shepherd, who said he did not foresee an increase in the tax levy to pay off principal and interest on the bond issue.

Nicholas county, Judge Shepherd said, has been retiring highway bonds for the past 20 years, these bonds to be paid in full in October. The hospital bonds in turn, he said, could be financed from that portion of the levy which has been formerly used for highway bonds.

Local National Guards Return Fr. Knox

Carlisle and Nicholas county boys who make up Cannon Company, 149th Infantry, Kentucky National Guard, returned home Sunday night from a two-week intensive training period at Fort Knox.

The payroll, a total of more than $4,000, was all returned to Nicholas county, Capt. W. R. Bunnin, Jr., said and he estimated that the greater portion of it would be spent within the county.

Currently Capt. Bunnin said he is planning to continue a campaign for additional enlistments which would increase the company from its present strength of three officers and 65 enlisted men up to its full strength of five officers and 78 enlisted men. Enlistments are open for men from 17 to 35.

All men who have had at least 6 months army training and have been honorably discharged with the exception of those men of staff sergeant or higher may make applications for commission in the Kentucky National Guard, Capt. Bunnin said.

Citizens Urged to Voice School Views At Mass Meeting Slated Saturday

A mass meeting, the purpose of which is to allow Carlisle and Nicholas county residents an opportunity to express their views upon the present school situation, has been called for 2 p. m., Saturday, August 23, at the Nicholas county court house here.

The meeting has been called by J. Fithian Rye, who is acting as temporary chairman of a Citizens' Committee.

The discussion will be confined to residents of the county, Rye said, in making his announcement which follows in full:

"All residents of Nicholas county who are interested in the present school situation are urged to attend a mass meeting to be held at 2 p. m., Saturday, August 23, in the court house at Carlisle.

"At this meeting the people of Nicholas county will be given an opportunity to voice a protest against the proposed construction of a Nicholas County High school building until it has been proven that the construction of such a building is necessary and wanted.

"We believe that construction of such a building without the indebtedness of the county board of education will make a total debt against the taxpayers of first high school grades that will received its diploma in 1950. Eight consecutive grades make a total class of that year.

A census of 25 members has been made by Davis for the 1946 Teachers College, Richmond, and in recent years.

All but one of the regular faculty of this term will return this fall and a list of these teachers will be announced as soon as given in the near future.

Several changes have been made, Davis said, to improve the class work for the higher grades and with the design being to stress the practical present day needs of a program will be improved and expanded, the two which will receive special emphasis will be hot lunches and health instruction.

The club activities of the school will be maintained and enlarged, Davis said, because it is these organizations "that give the boys and girls individual student the opportunity to develop initiative and leadership which will enable him to become a better citizen."

Some of these organizations are: the Future Farmers, the Future Homemakers, the Journalism club, which publishes the school paper, the annual staff which publishes the school paper, the annual staff which publishes the annual "Moorefield Memories", the Thespian club, which sponsors all plays and dramatic productions, the National Honor Society, which sponsors leadership, scholarship and character, and several others are maintained for the purpose of binding the student body together in a spirit of fellowship and co-operation for the good of the student and the school.

Many improvements have been made on the grounds and in the buildings, during the summer months the lunch room and the toilets have been painted and many items of equipment have been added. All the grade class rooms have had diffusing shades installed on the windows. The floors of all the building have been varnished. The gymnasium floors have been renovated, the walls have been painted and the floor sanded and varnished. The directors will continue to make things better for the school as the months on the opening day.
