K.U. Authorizes Rate Cuts For Street Lights

New Rates Are Effective March 1
K. U. Official Says

Street lighting rate reductions amounting to more than $27,500 annually will go into effect March 1, in all cities served by Kentucky Utilities Company, Washington Reed, K. U. vice-president announced yesterday.

Carlisle, according to F. J. Hardesty, local K. U. manager, will save $297.00 a year under the new rate schedule. The new rates are among the lowest in the industry.

"From the standpoint of safety", Mr. Reed declared, "nearly every community in which we operate needs additional street lighting. National safety records show that where street lighting has been increased, there has been a corresponding reduction in traffic accidents. In these communities, the new rates will make additional lighting possible at no increase in cost to the city."

Commission Okays Construction Of Utility Lines

A net reduction of $1,152,733.50 annually in utility rates in Kentucky was effected and the construction of 8,212 miles of additional electric distribution lines was authorized by the Public Service Commission in 1946, according to a report to Governor Willis by Charles E. Whittle, Chairman of the Commission.

Of the new construction authorized 35 miles are in Nicholas county, according to the report.

"There were twelve separate rate adjustments during the year," Whittle said. "Of these, five were increases and seven were reductions; but the increases aggregate only $35,244.50, while the reductions total $1,187,978.00.

All of the seven reductions reported were for electric service and affected 152,291 customers, of whom 86% were domestic customers. The average annual saving to each customer was $6.35.

"The 8,212 miles of new construction authorized extends in 114 counties and is designed to serve approximately 50,000 new customers to whom no existing electric distribution system is accessible," the report sets forth.

"Preliminary surveys have been completed for all of the extensions authorized, several hundred miles have already been built and energized and the construction of others is proceeding as rapidly as materials become available."

Polio Drive Ends On Friday With Benefit Dance

Plans Complete For Friday Event

The March of Dimes, which annually stirs the nation's people to an awareness of the deadly infantile paralysis scourge will come to a climatic close in Nicholas county Friday night, with the staging in the armory of the V. F. W.'s March of Dimes dance.

The entire net proceeds from the dance will be turned over to the polio campaign, according to Ted Poe, commander of the local veterans organization, and although customary general will not be raised for admission to Friday's affair, he said he expected a full-sized attendance to aid in making a nicely contribution to the charity cause.

Music for the dance will be furnished by "Burgie" Moores and his band, who have appeared here several times recently and who have met with favor with the approval of dancers and "spectators" alike at past dances.

Alex Forsythe, who has managed plans for a large number of American Legion dances here in the past, supervised arrangements for Friday night's event in the absence of Frank Stone, who was forced to be out of town at the time plans were in formulation.

The dance will begin at 9 o'clock, Crawford said, and will last until 1 a. m. Admission will be 50 cents for spectators and one dollar for dancers. It is expected, he added, that a large aggregation of out-of-town dancers and visitors will augment the local attendance.

Farmers' Group Plans Progressive Dairy Program

Committee Lays Plans For 1947

A progressive program aimed at a higher-than-ever productiveness on Nicholas county dairy farms was drawn up and discussed last week when the Nicholas County Dairy Extension committee met in the office of the county agent here.

The group, which is headed by Ovel Day, includes Glenn Booth, Kenneth Stephenson, Bruce Gaunce, Preston Gaunce, Lovell Hollar, Leonard Alexander, John Ferguson, Robert Hildreth, W. E. Piper, Harvey Wagoner, Estil Ockerman, Malcolm Wills, Everett Duncan, John Barnett, Billy Conway, Willard Varner, Luther Hollar, Grover Phillips, Otis Conrad, Milton Grimes and Hamer Miller.

The following plans were adopted by the committee:

1. Good pasture more months per year with more lime and phosphate needed and ammonium nitrate on pure grass fields.
2. Cut hay at the quality protein stage.
3. More adequate water supply the year round.
4. Improvement of dairy facilities to insure better health standards and make handling of cows easier.
5. Encourage dairy heifer projects in 4-H Club and Future Farmer work.
6. Use DDT in water soluble form to spray dairy cows in summer months.

The group gives the superintendent authority to penalize schools not complying with the rules. Severity of penalties was not mentioned.

It states that where practicable public school boards shall provide annual physical examination for each child enrolled, and directs the superintendent of public instruction to request teacher education institutions to give medical and physical examinations to all their students.

The health records are to be kept in uniform style and maintained as part of each student's permanent papers.

Health and physical education must be included in each child's curriculum and, preferably during the ninth or tenth grade, pupils should take a course in basic health.

Each school's operating health program must be approved by the state.

Williams said the State Health Department is asking the Education Department in smoothing out methods of introducing and operating the code in the counties. A series of meetings in various districts will be held to discuss means of co-ordinating and mobilizing local medical resources to meet the code's requirements.

The Health Department is preparing a model of a uniform health record, he added.

Health Code Adopted For School Districts

Frankfort, Ky.—John Fred Williams, state superintendent of public instruction, has announced the adoption of a code for health and physical education in county and independent school districts.

The code, approved by the State Board of Education, is to become effective not later than the opening of the 1948-49 school year. It requires teachers to be examined medically and physically at the start of their employment and each year thereafter. Each student will be examined upon stating school and at least once every four years thereafter.

Calling the code a "great forward step," Williams said it also requires the maintaining of cumulative health records for teachers and pupils, directs schools to offer compulsory courses in health and physical education throughout each of the 12 grades, and makes provision for the State Education Department to supply courses and guides to the elementary and secondary schools setting up the program.

The code gives the superintendent authority to penalize schools not complying with the rules. Severity of penalties was not mentioned.

It states that where practicable public school boards shall provide annual physical examination for each child enrolled, and directs the superintendent of public instruction to request teacher education institutions to give medical and physical examinations to all their students.

Carlisle Edged Out At Last Minute As Paris Wins 48-44

In a wild battle which threatened throughout the evening to become one of the thrillers of the season, the Paris high school Greyhounds narrowly managed a precarious 48-44 victory over Coach Tebay Rose's Carlisle Mustangers in the finale of play here Tuesday night.

The two fast baskets put the visitors under the wire just seconds before the game's end gave the Paris quintet their eighth victory against one setback.

The Musketeers fought as hard fans had not seen them fight previously this season, keeping the score with the Greyhounds tied a large part of the time. The end of the first quarter found Carlisle leading 11-10, at the half 23-23, and at the third quarter leading 36-34. With a minute to go the score was knotted 44-44.

Billy McMahan of Paris and Emery Clark, of Carlisle were high point men for their respective teams with 12 and 14 points.

In a preliminary game the Carlisle "B" team beat the Paris "B" squad 28-25.
