Before You Vote Know The Facts About A Whispering Campaign Against Harry Lee Waterfield

He is accused of planning to tax the service pay of servicemen—

"I am not, and never will be, for any tax on service pay of servicemen," is the statement of Harry Lee Waterfield.

In 1946 Waterfield supported the bill, passed by the legislature, which exempted veterans from payment of State income taxes on their service pay.

Waterfield said July 21, in Jackson, Kentucky, that if he were elected governor he would sponsor a bill which would constitute a tax on the service pay of those who served in the armed forces pay income tax on their pay while in uniform.

"I am seriously concerned that veterans who have been forced and are now being forced to pay tax on their service pay, get their money back," Waterfield said.

The state is not in such dire need of money that it desires to take an income earned in sweat, grief, agony and blood.

The only tax Harry Lee Waterfield is planning is on win tickets at the horse races—said tax income to be used for educational purposes and rural roads.

Twenty-three states have legalized betting. Twenty-two, except Kentucky, are collecting millions each year on such tax.

The issue in this primary is not a whispering campaign. It is the issue of a greater Kentucky—a Kentucky with cheap electrical power, higher salaries for teachers, better educational facilities, and good rural roads—for Farmers, for Veterans, for Businessmen, for Housewives.
