Save The AAA Program

The Mercury believes in wise economy, where economy is needed; but it does not believe in economy for economy's sake where it not only works a hardship, but prevents progress and development.

Two government programs that of federal aid for the school lunches and funds for the agricultural conservation that are, perhaps, among the most popular and far reaching, stand now to be so badly crippled under the proposed budget cutting bill that few benefits can be derived from them.

Last year 815 out of 1,162 Nicholas county farmers benefitted more than $72,114.00 from the program and until this curtailment plan arose indications were that the program would have been expanded even more this year.

This means that soil conservation practices now being carried out would be severely cut and that Nicholas county along with the others, would not only feel the loss now, but for years to come. Farmers know the value of the program, what it will mean to do without lime and phosphate and to stop other improvements practices that the program makes possible.

Write or wire your Congressman and Senators to make every effort to keep the program going. Let's stop those, who in their zeal for economy, would cut the program to the bone. The Mercury does not think it is ever sound to stop a soil conservation program.

Hi Ya, Pop!

The man who generally keeps to the background during the preceding 364 days of the year comes into his own Sunday, June 15, when the United States, at least, will pay a tribute to his being.

Sunday is Father's Day and as such should be set aside to give a little attention to the man who pays the bills and keeps the pot boiling even in these extraordinary times.

The day probably will find Dad dealing in his quiet fashion with new problems underlying the priceless heritage of American opportunity and the standard of living for his family. More than ever before, international affairs are linked closely to his own, heretofore and there is plenty to think and worry about on the domestic scene.

All honor to the legion of fathers, the No. 1 man of the street.

There's no way around it, half of the parents in the world are fathers.

A Corner Stone Is Laid

Working in close co-operation, the civic and service organizations, the county's fiscal court, the Carlisle city council and Carlisle's two practising physicians figuratively have laid the corner stone for a 20-bed hospital in Nicholas county.

The first definite step toward obtaining the new hospital was taken here Saturday when the fiscal court authorized, by resolution, Otis and Grimes, hospital architects, Louisville, to prepare an application to the Federal Works Administration for funds for advance planning for a hospital in the county.

The need for a larger hospital in the county was brought out at a joint meeting of Rotary Club members with the fiscal court, city council, Dr. B. F. Reynolds and Dr. T. P. Scott and representatives of the Women's club, American Legion Auxiliary, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Farm Bureau.

Belief has been expressed that the county will not suffer from a shortage of doctors if adequate hospital facilities are offered to those whose medical training has been based upon hospital technique and who expect to find conditions in any community in which they plan their careers comparable to the surroundings in which they have have been educated.

The corner stone has been laid. The first important step has been taken. Carlisle and Nicholas county have again demonstrated full ability to forge ahead.

Dear Editors:

Thanks and congratulations for our excellent paper of June 5. It's like the good old Mercury when the late Warren Fisher, a born writer, and Grimes Caywood were at the helm. Thanks, also, for omitting the "corresponden". We sure had our dose of that. Many years of health and happiness to you.

Pulse of the Press

Road To Normalcy

We agree with the Elkin Tribune that there is too much talk today of another depression and that actually we are merely returning to peacetime normalcy.

Nobody expected wartime prosperity to continue indefinitely. High prices of all kinds are bound to level off sometime. This applies to all commodities and apparently we have about reached that stage.

With consumer goods becoming more plentiful, the public is not so eager to buy just anything that may be offered for sale. They are looking for value and are more content to wait.

People have more money to spend than ever before in the history of this nation and demand today is greater than we've ever known it. As long as such a condition exists, there can be no depression unless inflation causes everything to explode and it is apparent that our country has escaped that disaster.

It is only natural that business should get back to normal and we do not see why there should be any undue alarm at this time. We should have been farther along the road than we are and would have been if many labor leaders had not been so selfish.

The only persons who really have to worry much these days are the ones who won't work and those who spend ever penny they make.—The Transylvania Times, Brevard, N. C.

Household Hint

If you have a piece of meat that you suspect isn't going to be tender, marinate it in plain vinegar with a dash of garlic vinegar added. Garlic vinegar is made by mashing six cloves of garlic and putting them into a pint of vinegar. Let it stand about 10 days. Use only a drop or two in a salad or other foods.

1935—Very poor crop (no figures).

1944—150,000 (no price figures).

Contrary to the belief of the uninformed and sloppie Kentucky's tag as the "Tobacco State," the greater crops of Bluegrass seed are harvested in the west, and this year, Mr. Wilson noted, the conditions out there were especially favorable except in spots of Nebraska, Southeast South Dakota and North Dakota, where the prospect is fine. We'll see for a very large crop.

For the last five years, Minnesota has produced more Bluegrass seed than any other state in the nation although towns in other states have laid claim to the distinction of being the Bluegrass industry's capital.

The Bluegrass producing area in the West includes Missouri, the oldest Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Minnesota, Eastern Kansas and some sections of Wisconsin. Tennessee also produces the seed. Kentucky ranks low as a Blu grass producer.

Seed output in the West during the last four years was: 1943, 1,200,000 bushels; 1944, 1,420,000; 1945, 1,830,000, and 1946, 1,186,000.

Bluegrass Seed Output In State May Range To Million Bushels

(By The Paris Daily Enterprise)

PARIS, Ky., June 11 (Special)—

Bluegrass seed output in producing Kentucky counties this year will range between 700,000 and 1,000,000 bushels in what will be the first sizeable harvest in this area in at least five years, it was estimated here today.

The 1947 crop, gauged by the veteran seed dealer, J. S. Wilson of Paris, on the basis of "very favorable conditions" in the state, will better than triple last year's production of 218,000 bushels of cured seed.

Stripping operations have been underway in central Kentucky since June 1, scheduled to end this week-end, but an anticipated overage price has not been released although it is expected to range below the 1946 average.

Last year, Kentucky cured bluegrass seed sold for an average of 52.75 a bushel, Mr. Wilson said, although some brought $2.25.

During the last five years, the output of cured seed in Kentucky hasn't exceeded 225,000 bushels—the figure for 1945—and in 1943, it dropped to a mere 25,000 bushels or 38 percent of a normal yield, according to figures kept by Mr. Wilson.

Big crops, however, were listed for 1912, with 1,500,000 bushels at an opening price of $1 and a close of $.55; for 1926, with 1,200,000 bushels with a price range of $1.10 and $1.35, and in 1937, with 1,200,000 bushels, from $.40 to $.60.

The Bluegrass producing area in Kentucky includes Bourbon, where the industry began, and the surrounding counties of Fayette, Nicholas, Scott, Clark and Montgomery as well as Woodford, Boyle, Mercer and Bath and Mason counties.

To handle Kentucky's output, there are seven Bluegrass cleaners, including four in Paris, one each in Clark, Scott and Harrison counties.

Here are figures, released by Mr. Wilson, showing the Kentucky cured seed harvest (bushels) over periods of five years since (and including) 1900.

1900—550,000. Price range (per bushel), $.40-$.45.

1904—750,000, $.40-$.45.

1909—530,000; $.75-$1.

1914—800,000; $.45-$.58.

1919—400,000; $1.60-$1.90.

1924—325,000; $1.65-$1.80.

1929—400,000; $1.10-$1.35.

Still striving to stage a recovery, the Cards will be making their first return appearance at Crosley Field since mid-April.

The New Yorkers will be at Crosley Field for a three-game set starting Saturday afternoon and concluding with a doubleheader on Sunday.
