NAVY AIR GROUP 12
The Navajo Indian Thunderbird, meaning "Storm Bearer of Hopi-nau Unlimited" lately is striking its signin of Navy Air Group 12, one of the hardest hitting carrier formations of flyers in the service.
From Guadalcanal to the Indian Ocean this group of American pilots raised the Pacific scoreboard to the tune of 102 enemy planes, sinking 103,500 tons of shipping and damaging another 126,500 tons, shooting up oil refineries and stinging fortifies.
Air Group 12's fighters, dive bombers and torpedo planes participated in the Gilbert invasion, raved the Marshalls for 25 days in which they knew 29 attacks, covered landings on Eniwetok and joined forces with the British to blast re-
3'D ARMORED DIVISION
The 3rd Armored, nicknamed "Spearhead" won many "firsts" during the war. Its claims include the first to fire on German soil, first to enter Germany, first to capture a German city and first to enter Cologne.
The "Spearhead" trek across the map of Europe started Normandy on June 29, 1944, as it led the First Army out of the hedgerows deep into France. With 1st Infantry Division it broke through at Marigny, helped close the pocket around the German 7th Army and finished the job at Putanges on August 18. On the night of August 27, it crossed the Seine and streamed across France to the Seigfried line and into Belgium. At Mons, it cut off 40,000 Nazis and captured 8,000 prisoners. It participated in the first invasion of German soil since Napoleon.
The 3rd was temporarily halted in the Ardenne, but jumped into the vital battle of Houffalize and reached the Rur River line, in March, 1945, it swept into the key city of Cologne, proceeding up Paderborn to close the back door of the Ruhr. The flush of victory at Cologne was saddened by the death of its commander, Maj. Gen. Maurice Rose, who was slain while leading a drive near Paderborn. At war's end the division had pulled toward the Elbe and near Dessau. It went on occupational duty near Langen after V-E day.
The Division was activated April 15, 1941, at Camp Beauregard, La., and upon its departure from the States it was made up of the 32nd and 33rd Armored regiments, the 54th, 67th and 391st Armored field artillery battalions and the 36th armored infantry regiment.
