Thanksgiving Offering For Hospital Totals $78.18

A total offering amounting to $78.18 was contributed to Johnson Memorial hospital during the Union Thanksgiving services held here November 23. The Rev. W. L. Smith, pastor of the Carlisle Presbyterian church delivered the service.

The executive board of the hospital announced that the donation received was very satisfactory and has expressed its appreciation to all persons who contributed to the success of the offering.

Sunnyside Homemakers

The Sunnyside Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. David Booth on Friday, November 19. There were ten members and one visitor, Mrs. Randolph Tully, who left for Germany December 1.

Mrs. Gillispie called the meeting to order in the absence of Mrs. Ruth Judge and Miss Rowe. A nice donation was given for the Johnson Memorial hospital.

The table groaned with beautiful dishes as well as a real Thanksgiving treat.

The Thanksgiving thought was expressed all through the devotion—"Learning How to Iron the Easiest Way"—was demonstrated by the project leaders, with each woman experiencing sitting and ironing one piece, using the lap table.

Books for children were shown by Mrs. Simons and the art Mrs. Hardin gave a leaflet on caring for house plants and how to fertilize the flowers and shrubs on the lawn.

An enjoyable day was had by all, especially were we delighted to hear Mrs. Cunningham's voice on records played by Mrs. Tully.

Guests next will be December 9 and don't forget your Secret Pal.

Letter To Editor

Frankfort, Indiana
November 23, 1948

Editor, The Carlisle Mercury
Carlisle, Kentucky
Dear Sir:

Was so sorry that I did not get to call on you during my recent visit to Carlisle, Ky. I arrived Saturday morning, November 20, about 9 a. m. and went directly to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bowen, to visit my mother, Mrs. M. E. Durrum near Myers Station, Ky.

My wife and I had been to Florida for a business and pleasure trip and of course could not return to Indiana without sopping in Kentucky to visit my dear old mother and my sisters, Mrs. Arnold Bowen, Mrs. C. E. Tapp and Mrs. Marvin Shrout. I always enjoy coming back to my native state, Kentucky, and seeing all my relatives and friends, but this time on account of time my visit was short.

I especially always enjoy seeing my old friend, Allen Hopkins, who conducts a fine drug store on one side of the Public Square. I always purchase some of my favorite tobacco from Allen.

On going to the other side of the public square I find Pat, the congenial and courteous clerk in this store. Also on the visit to this store I find Soda Shrout, Frank Powell, Joe Clark and Jim Patton, these men are all fine gentlemen and I am always glad to see them. I almost forgot to mention that my old friend, Tom Hazelrigg, is the only Buddy of mine—and I regret to add a whole lot that I did not see his brother, Walter Hazelrigg, as I would like to have talked over our trip one Christmas time to Mt. Olivet, the county seat of Robertson county.

I also enjoyed meeting Tom Cameron in front of the court house on Saturday afternoon. He presented me with a Truman and Barkley pin that he had been saving for me since November 2 . I also called on his son, Paul, who conducts a general store at Myers and needless to say, I always enjoy seeing Paul as well as all the rest of my old friends in Kentucky.

Of course, there is no use in my mentioning that I always enjoy your paper and look forward to its arrival on Friday after its date of publication. It is a newsy and fine paper and I will say that with age it grows better.

With kindest regards to the Editor and all the force employed by this publication, and extending an invitation to any one who happens to be in this part of the country to stop and see us, and wishing you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Sincerely yours,
Mr. and Mrs John L. Durrum

A quartet from Asbury Theological Seminary will render special music here Sunday morning. The Rev. G. W. Haley is the pastor here.

Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Mattox accompanied Mrs. G. C. Gaunce to Advance Saturday and spent the weekend with Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Finch. Rev. G. C. Gaunce, who has been assisting Rev. Finch in a meeting, returned home.

Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Haley and daughter, Gloria Ann, and Mr. Vaughn Mattox spent Thursday with Rev. Haley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Haley, near Powersville.

The Saltwell W.S.C.S. will meet at the home of Mrs. Floyd Barlow for their all day meeting, Wednesday, December 8th.

Myers 4-H Club Meets

The Myers 4-H Club held its third monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon in the school auditorium. The meeting was opened with the club pledge and Flag salute. The secretary called the roll. The Bible reading was given by Patsy Walton followed by a prayer by Kathleen Crawford. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary.

The following program was presented.

Song, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot"; poem, Jewel Morris; reading, "The First Thanksgiving", by Roberta Booth; song, "Come, Ye Thankful People"; play, "Table Manners" by eleven Tincher, Roberta oBoth, Jackie Tincher and Billy Tincher.

Following the program Jean Tincher gave a report on the 4-H camp.

A social hour in the lunch room followed the meeting at which several visitors were present. A box of home-made candy was presented to the club member guessing the number of grains of corn in a jar. Jean Tincher was the winner.—reporter.

Series of Parties Given For Miss Beualh Wasson

Mrs. Charles Hastie of Mt. Sterling entertained Tuesday with a one o'clock luncheon at Old South Inn in Winchester in honor of Miss Beulah Wasson of Los Angeles who is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wasson of Carlisle.

The guests were: Miss Wasson, Miss Sue Wasson, Lexington; Mrs. Dan A. Jones, Flemingsburg; Mrs. Clark Thomas, Mrs. Tom Prather, Mrs. James E. Ralls, Little Rock; and Mrs. Arthur Hedges, Mt. Sterling.

Miss Sue Wasson and Mr. Bill Wasson entertained with an informal party Wednesday night at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wasson in honor of their sister, Miss Beulah Wasson. The guests were Miss Wasson and Mrs. Charles D. Hastie of Mt. Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. Dan A. Jones, Flemingsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hop and Mrs. Clark Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Kerns, Carlisle.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Higgins of Lexington entertained with a family dinner at their home Thanksgiving Day in honor of Miss Wasson. The guests were Miss Wasson, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Baunta, Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. George Wasson, Mrs. Forrest Dalzell, Miss Sue Wasson, and Mr. Bill Wasson, Carlisle.

Mrs. Clark Thomas and Mrs. Tom Prather of Little Rock entertained with a one o'clock luncheon Friday at Duncan Tavern in Paris for Miss Wasson.

Mrs. Lloyd D. Hudson of Lexington entertained with a one o'clock luncheon Saturday at her home in honor of Miss Wasson.

Tid Bits of Kentucky—

Poets Fail To Catch Elusive Beauty Of Corn Shocks Under Harvest Moon

By Dr. Gordon Wilson

Every season has its appeal to anyone who lives out of doors as much as I do. In fact, the whole year is an indivisible procession of new and fascinating experiences. Like a ring, it has neither beginning nor end; every so-called season blends in with the one before and the one that follows.

Signs of spring begin to appear almost before winter gets in its hardest licks; the first yellow leaf of early summer often antedates real autumn by months. And there is no part of nature too small to be interesting in this endless procession of the seasons.

Right now, as I write, fall is here, with all the appeal of fall. Wherever I go, I see its footsteps, on bright leaves, on cornshocks, on piles of pumpkins, on hay ricks. From my office window I look entirely over the town and into colorings hills beyond, with many a cultivated field between.

I suspect that I thrill most to rows and rows of corn shocks, like an Indian encampment, or like dignified soldiers, tgoh marching his own straight way and keeping his respectful distance from his comrades.

Corn shocks are things of beauty, and they give a promise of food for many an animal on the farms around my native city. In this stock-growing area corn means hogs and dairy cattle and beef cattle, and these animals mean food for man through days and months ahead.

But even if no practical purpose were served by these rows and rows of corn shocks, the aesthetic beauty of them would almost pay for the long hours of work behind the ploughing and planting and cultivation.

I am not enough of an artist to say just why some corn stalks shocked together can be so artistic, but even the least emotional of us feel goose bumbs forming when we see rows of shocks flanked by autumn woods in full colors.

Deeper than any of us have ever admitted is the appeal of typical autumn landscape. We have grown accustomed to it and regard it as normal and probably would not admit that it is all beautiful. But remove us from the sight of corn shocks and other autumn evidences of a substantial "winter board," and most of us would face winter with a feeling that something encouraging was lacking.

A few poets have been able to say in simple form the things that all of us think about corn, but there are still many poems inherent in a cornfield, at every stage of its interesting history. From Joel Barlow and his "Hasty Pudding" to John Greenleaf Whittier and his "Corn Song" and Sidney Lanier and his "Corn" the tradition has run, each poet adding his own local or personal flavor to the general topic.

Corn-meal mush becomes for Barlow the touchstone for Americanism. In a restaurant in Savoy he found corn-meal mush, of all things! At once his homesick heart reviewed all the appeal of corn, from its mythical history and origin among primitive Indians down to the steaming hasty pudding on the poet's table.

Whittier saw corn as the staff of life of sturdy New Englanders of more than a century ago and saw, also, the sublime poetry of our distinctive American crop in the making. Lanier saw corn as a symbol of self-sufficiency, of man's ability to take care of himself and acquire strength of body and soul from growing and eating corn.

Several minor writers have added their mite of praise for corn; a fair-sized anthology could be made of references to the crop. And yet no one has caught or can catch the elusive appeal that we almost forget from one season to another until the corn shocks stand sentinel-like under the harvest moon.

"Then let the good old crop adorn
The hills our fathers trod;
Still let us, for His golden corn,
Send up our thanks to God!"
