To Our Friends

In the making of a county newspaper, the management and good will of its readers are the factors in its success. It may be said that the small-town newspaper is made possible by its patrons and the extent of their interest.

The occasional spite words of kindly-entrenchment have given all of us who enter the Mercury staff a determination to produce a newspaper which shall be a credit to the county.

We are not ungrateful of the service given by our correspondents, and we wish to express to them our sincere appreciation. It is the news from each community each week in one of the best features of a county newspaper that we publish, and we know the loyalty of our correspondents are justified.

We may extend to each and every one—A Very Merry Christmas and during 1950 may you show the good things of life—health and contentment, which after all are the basis for happiness.

It's The Same Old Santa Claus

Had the writer recalled his present age back in the reign of the good Queen Victoria, he would doubtless have been regarded by both old and young as an awfully old fellow. He would probably say, "In these piping times of peace, and plenty, we rank a mere boy, because of a slight resemblance that has developed this winter, simultaneously with a touch that is a touch of rheumatism, which causes us to be a little shy of reminiscences."

We are glad to say that we remember when dead Maudsley, carefully saved from hapless time, hung on the wall, "dike at the cabinet" for that festive moment on Christmas morning, when the little darts landed on them with such force, producing a very satisfactory, if not infallible sort of Christmas fireworks. Had we not been informed by writers in the daily papers of late, that the waters that used to be "the good old times" were but remnants of the imagination, some remnant in connection through the eyes of a vanished youth, we would say that Christmas meant more back in the merry days when we had father time.

Electric Lines To Be Extended To Serve Customers Along Moorefield Road

The Kentucky Electric Development Company, Louisville, has secured the right of way for the extension of approximately five miles of new service lines on the Moorefield road in the county. The lines will be installed from the Shoupburg and Bethel place along the Moorefield place through Moorefield and stop near the residence of Charles Brown.

At a meeting of the county council was held Monday night at Moorefield, at the presence of approximately 100 citizens for the holding of a trial of the proposed extension of the Moorefield place, which was held on Monday night.

Being Typical

By the Gooden Wilson
Hollywood and many other modern influences would lead one to expect, so that when someone said "Kentucky," one would think of a typical view of a stereotyped "Kentucky."
