Pay this bill for me, will you?
Suppose a stranger asked you to pay his electric light bill every month... Fetched idea? Not so—because you do help to pay a lot of other people's electric bills every month!
Every time you buy cigarettes, matches, gasoline, a lipstick or a watch, or hundreds of other things, part of what you pay is a federal tax. And that same federal tax money helps pay those strangers' electric bills.
Here's why: the federal government is in the electric business in some parts of the country. It sells electric service to some people and to certain industries—below the retail cost.
Who makes up the difference? You do—the government uses some of your taxes for that purpose.
The more of this below-cost electricity the government sells, the more taxes the government must collect to make up the difference between selling price and cost.
Under Socialism in England, government supplies all electric service... there are no self-supporting electric service companies any more. As a result, English people today are paying more for their electricity, and British newspapers are full of complaints about the electric service since the government took over.
We are against government-business in America. We are against government in the electric power business because it threatens all self-supporting electric companies. And because it is Socialization of one business, a long first step toward Socialization of all business.
Most Americans don't want that... Do you?
