Meade Farmers Plan Better Dairy Herds

Plans of three farmers in Meade county are cited by County Agent R. P. Granacher as evidence of increased interest in dairying.

Hubert Hardesty is building up a registered Guernsey Herd. A barn for 20 cows, rest shed, milking parlor and milk house will be ready by late summer. He eventually will milk 30 cows. Thirty acres of alfalfa will furnish hay.

James Bickett is a grass and legume grower who is planning to change from registered beef cattle to dairying. He has plans for a complete dairy plant of barn, rest shed, milking parlor and milk house.

At present the Eckler farm has the only milking parlor and cow rest shed in Meade county.

1948 Burley Sales Largest Since 1946

Gross sales for the 1948 Burley tobacco crop was the second largest on record. The Federal-State Market News Service reports 632,332,263 pounds were auctioned for an average of $46.06 per hundred.

Volume was roughly 131½ million pounds more than last year. The largest gross sales were reported for the 1946 crop when over 636 million pounds were sold. The general average, also the second highest on record, was $2.24 less than the all time high established last season. Lower prices for a large number of grades and inferior quality of offerings reduced the general average.

Losses in average prices by grades were centered on leaf and tips. Most leaf grades were down 32 to 56 and tips $2.50 to 54 as compared with last year. Buff and tan lugs and flyings were higher. Lugs advanced from $1 to 54 and flyings around 53 generally. Red and green grades also showed some declined. This nondescript was up 53 per hundred. Most declines ranged from $3.50 to 54 and gains from $2 to $3. Grades showing losses outnumbered those displaying gains by about two to one.

Several factors contributed to the lower quality of the tobacco. The proportions of good and fine grades were smaller. There were also less fair to fine lugs. As to color, there was a sharp decrease in the percentage of tan offerings, especially lugs.

The difference showed up mostly in larger amounts of red grades. A contributing factor to the lower general average was an unusually large amount of tobacco in unsafe keeping order or in an unusual condition. Heavy deliveries to markets and a prolonged spell of muggy weather kept a sizeable amount of the offerings at "high case" for several weeks.

Sales were comprised principally of low to good grades with leaf predominating and lugs and flyings, about equally divided.

All grade averages were above or equal to their Commodity Credit Corporation advance allowances. Most grades were $2 to $5.50 over their loan values, although best thin nondescript was $13 above. The next highest were low quality flyings, which averaged from $7 to $11 more.
