or can't offer to the trained men we need. It discourages those very men. There are other holes in the argument that the presence of candidate aboves the innit is all right.

The state of the control of contro Some people say that the state's titutional salary limit is high igh. As proof they point to the that Kentucky always has candis for office, from governor on Jown.

The argument won't hold water. For one thing it doesn't take into account the unsettled problem of what constitutes an officer. Elected officials are officers, of course. But what about rengineers, who are appointive? What about the heads of the hospitals for the mentally ill? What about tuberculosis.

there can be difference or rank and authorizingly, we get down to this ques-tion. If political races always fill, what do they fill with Nor always with the best man certainly. Not always with the districtions were considered to the con-trol of the control of the control of the exclusion where the control of the greater and financial room existed for greater and financial room existed for greater and financial room existed se-turnity of the control of the con-trol anous me heads of the nonymak for the hospital direction, when the state can't hire now because it feels itself bound to the limitation?

See they or are they not subject to the limitation? Who knows? The Court interpretations. In one opinion it subject to the limitation, who knows? The Court is represented in the limitation of the court in the limitation of the limitation, and it appeared to imply in cast were officers and came under the limitation, and it appeared to imply in the limitation, and it appeared to imply in the limitation of limitation of the limitation of limit
