Men Today Not What They Were Back In Early Days Of County

In the following account taken from James A. Chappell's 1887 culmination of Nicholas County History, Thomas Kennedy, Esq., pioneers Nicholas County thus when "men were men and their women loved 'em." He says that the present day man has no backbone and opposes them on the work of our pioneer ancestors. Wants take that challenge! Here's Kennedy's account, written sometime before 1880.

"The History of the Agriculture of Nicholas County since its formation in 1799, does not differ materially from that of the surrounding counties. The preparation of the land for the plow was a work of the most arduous character. The entire surface of the county was thickly covered with large timber, the growth of centuries. Beneath the large timber, but struggling up in dense masses, was an undergrowth similar in kind to the larger growth, and plentifully interlaced with briers and thorns. To grub and remove such an undergrowth, then to cut down and chop in proper lengths the trees, splitting the rougher ones into the rails, trunks into rails or firewood, and piling up and burning the remainder, in fact all which helped in any way. May God Bless you all. Mom you've gone, but not forgotten

Homemakers' Happenings

WE, TOO, FURNISH A ROOM

The Nicholas County hospital, as seen from the highway just east of Carlisle, is an impressive structure built on land given by the Sheppard family.

As the building nears completion, we, the Nicholas County Homemakers, like to think of the part in which we made money for our room in the hospital, as a major part of our citizenship work this year. We are what the name implies—homemakers—not money-makers, and aside from this, we have also done some work for the schools, etc.

When we first considered this project we were told that equipment for a room would be $300.00 to $500.00. With 10 clubs, 10 citizenship chairmen went before their respective groups and after unanimous approval, plans were made by each on how to raise their own money, with March 1 as the date we set to turn in the money so that we might have our plaque on our door.

One of our clubs, Ellisville, early last fall made their money by serving the lunch at the District 4-H Achievement Meeting, and became the first to have reached their goal.

Then Sunnyside probably became second by selling butter, eggs, cream, and in the home we set to turn in the money so that we might have our plaque on our door.

The big rollings were also occasions for logging, wrestling, running foot-races and other manly exercises, and occasionally for a fist and skull encounter, the superiority consequently being extended in no small degree to keep up the honors of the name of the stark and bloody ground which Kentucky's early settlers gave to a spot which at one time was regarded as the synonym of chivalry and the home of the brave, rather of reproach.

In the house the women plied their needles with skill and industry, and by the time the log rollings were ready to begin the quilt was finished. After supper, the ladies of the neighborhood would be indulged in the social amount of enjoying the sittings and during the bees across them to ascertain if the fiddle was in proper tune, partners were chosen, and when the music began. Merrily danced the Quaker's, and merrily danced the Quaker. The cares and toils of life were forgotten and the excitement and joyousness of the dance.

The farmers in the early days of the country depended very largely upon their maple trees for a supply of sugar and molasses. The season usually opened about the middle of February, and ended from the 1st to the 10th of March. A maple tree grower, or "sugar camp," as it was then called, was hundred trees would yield ordinarily from 125 to 150 pounds of sugar and 15 to 25 gallons of molasses in a season. While molasses was delicious to the taste the sugar was a luxury that was only indulged in on very rare occasions, except by those persons who could sweeten their tea with loaf sugar thought themselves quite favored.

If it's turn back the calendar a couple of hundred years, what say? Next week: Carlisle pre-1900.

Attention: Taxpayers
April 4, 1950

Once again the Nicholas County School Board has asked the Nicholas County Fiscal Court to act as the holding company in the issuance of $250,000 of bonds for the purpose of constructing a new school building for high school students.

Once again we are confronted with the problem of whether we need this large expenditure of money which will have to be paid by we taxpayers of Nicholas County.

If this new proposed school is built, you may be interested to know that the taxpayers will have approximately $600,000, indebtedness to retire in the next 25 years. This is a lot of debt and imposes a terrible burden on us without any sign of let-up for the lives of a lot of us.

We propose to have a meeting on Friday night, April 7, 1950, at 7:30 o'clock, P. M., in the auditorium of the Carlisle High School, for the purpose of allowing any of you who are interested to attend.

We will have Mr. George Rankin Carter as the Chairman of this meeting, and he will introduce two or three speakers who will give us the details as to how we might stop this unnecessary building program. We can also advise you that Mr. William Blanton, Attorney at Law, Paris, Kentucky, will be at our meeting to answer any legal questions you might have about this matter.

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED IN STOPPING THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING, COME TO THE CITY SCHOOL AUDITORIUM FRIDAY NIGHT, April 7, 1950.

Here Abouts - - - with Emily Asbury

We have always "et" well in Nicholas county. To look at our people you'd think we never had a sick day.

But then once you get used to eatin' good its pretty hard to settle for pork and beans. From the very beginning Nicholas had plenty of game and the kitchens were graced with women who knew how to prepare plain food just the way it should be cooked.

Look what 25 cents would buy back around 1820 when Peter Schwartzweiler ran the market house. (This is just a regular dinner, nothing fancy.) Roast beef, pig mutton, bread, pie, coffee or blackberry cordial—the latter compounded of teh gallons of "bust-head" whiskey to one quart of black berries and a pound of sugar.

Fact is, the reputation of Nicholas county cooking was far reaching. One hot June afternoon in 1862, the ladies of the Baptist and Presbyterian churches were working feverishly on temporary "sunbonnet" hospitals. They were throwing that night in the Masonic Hall.

All of a sudden a squad of Rebel cavalry rode up and dashed into town, enroute to Mt. Sterling. While helping themselves to all the horses they could find on the street, Capt. Pete Barrett, their commander, got wind of the supper and proceeded. Later on, to partake of the victuals much to the horror of the ruffled "Southrons"—a group composed of southern sympathizers. They, the Rebels, had planned to raid Mt. Sterling of their food, since it coincided with their scheduled whereabouts, but, knowing the reputation of our cooks, decided the supper was too good to pass up.

. . . into the fire

Shooting pool hasn't always been the favorite pastime that it is now. The first billiard hall in 1816 closed its doors after two years of unsuccessful business and moved to Millersburg.

Has flying saucer business a "time" compared to that old bobbing "whirligig" which scared the living daylights out of local youngsters one night in November back on 1833 (as described by J. A. Chappell).

Seems some fellow, Iwell call him Paul Revere) who was sitting up with a sick friend, stepped out on the porch to spit, when all of a sudden there was a commotion with shooting stars.

This celestial outburst so terrified the man that he took out up the street screaming "get up! get up! The world's coming to an end!"

Dust-laden Bibles soon bore smeared finger prints and shaking knees bowed in prayer. On the story goes. Momentarily all concerned expected to pass into the great beyond, as reports from Mystaids of stars shot across the heavens. "Sonrong" like they'd swish across each other's path leaving behind them momentous trains of light, which interpreted after the star itself had disappeared.

Despite the time of night, I understand this fright was so brilliant that one could have easily picked up a pin anywhere in the streets of Carlisle.

Chappell, ole boy, that's a lot of "it."—EA—

This 'n that . . . The Nicholas Youth Center will be open Friday night 7:30 as usual. Members wishing to compete in a ping pong tournament may sign up at that time. . . . Census takers are really tearing their hair these days. Mrs. Bessie Lene Frey has been 24 hours in labor so far and has to go back to 141 of 'em because nobody was home. (Ed refuse) . . . Girl Scouts will solicit door-to-door for the Cancer drive.

That's all—

26 CHS Gridiron Aspirants Report To Rose As Spring Drills Begin

Nine lettermen greeted Coach Tebay Rose Monday as spring football drills got underway for a seven-game all C. K. C. schedule next fall.

The returnees from last season's track eleven, Gary Flora, Kenneth Booth, "Doot" Hardin, Herman Dayton, Oliver Howe Owings, Brooks Pitman, Jim Hughes, Billy Joe Morrison and Billy Hill will form the nucleus of the 1950 Musketeers, which show a lot of speed but are light and for the most part inexperienced.

To plug gaping spots vacated by seniors Charlie Harper, James Williams, Joe Stephenson, G. C. Myers and Billy Dale Crawford, Coach Rose is casting his eyes upon grid aspirants Bonny Bentley, Ivan Rankin, Gene Kelly, Bobby Mann, Bobby Hughes, Harold Bussell, John Allison, Billy Blake, Billy Tolliver, Herman Hedges, Jack McFarland, Billy Dayton, Archie Crawford, Jimmy Carter, Billy Gilley and Billy Joe Hedges.

Only three of the nine letter-men, Booth, Hardin and Pitman, are slotted for backfield duty, with Pitman counted on heavily to fill the signal calling shoes of graduating quarterback Myers. Just who will be groomed as Harper's successor at fullback is an air of mystery.

The end posts boast of two veterans, Billy Joe Morrison and Jim Hughes as well as Benny Donovan capable sophs who was hampered most of last season with a fractured finger.

The remainder of the line will be built around promising center and guard candidates Gary Flora. He will be flanked by Herman Dayton, main stay in the 1948 forward wall, Oliver Owings and Billy Hill, substitutes on last year's eleven who are expected to nail down starting berths next fall.

Seven Friday afternoon, April 21, CHS meets MMI in a spring practice game. Beginning then and then Rose must find a starting five to send against Lexington in from approximately 26 candidates reporting for duty.

Dairy Tour Monday To Visit Four Farms

A dairy tour will be held Monday, April 17, with visits to the farms of Hobart Jones, on the Johnsontown road at 8:30 a. m. and continue to 5:30 p. m. with a different farm visited at each hour.

The tour has been arranged at the request of several dairymen who are interested in making butter for the Kentucky Department exhibits. The tour will require one full day's business.

Farms to be visited are those of honest to goodness dirt farmers whose barns and equipment will not be fancy, but will be relatively inexpensive.

According to William E. Strain, county agent, speakers from the Cort Brothers Dairy Company of Cincinnati were here to demonstrate the mixture of butter-milk-cream in selling grade A milk. A company representative will attend Monday's tour and answer any questions in regard to grade A milk requirements.

Soil Conservation News
Edward L. Sanders

Two miles of terraces, diversion channels and hillside ditches have recently been completed by cooperators of the Nicholas County Soil Conservation District.

Four diversion channels above bottoms were completed by D. L. Baker, Sam Carter, Hardwick and Frank Asbury. Construction of the diversion channels makes it possible to protect valuable bottom land intensively without damage from water coming from above.

Large broad base terraces were constructed by Reese Ingles. Hendy Myers and Arthur Mullikin. Broad base terraces are constructed on sloping ground to help prevent loss of soil and to conserve moisture. They serve as a permanent type of terrace for contour cultivation.

Hillside diversion ditches were also completed by R. P. Stephenson, Reese Ingels, Henry Bramblett, Hansen Judge and George Mullikin.

Multiflora Rose plantings were completed by R. E. Alexander, Everett Jones, W. H. Jones, J. W. Miller and the Forest Ridge Farm. Multiflora Rose will provide a living permanent fence in three to four years and furnish cover for wildlife.

The Supervisors of the Nicholas County Soil Conservation District will hold their regular monthly meeting Thursday night, April 13. Supervisors are Hendy Myers, Norwood Anker, Frank Henry and J. W. Miller.

State Income Tax Deadline Saturday

Saturday midnight is the deadline for the filing of state income tax returns.

If your return is mailed to Frankfort, it must bear a postmark not later than Saturday, April 15.

Paying the tax on your 1949 income won't make you a nobody. Thousands of people are doing it. The Revenue Department predicts that a record 160,000 citizens will pay the tax this year. That's about 150,000 persons paid $100,000.

Single persons who earned a gross of $1,500 or net of $1,000 last year must file a return. Married couples grossing $3,000 or netting $2,500 also are required to file.

Income tax forms are available at the offices of most county clerks. If the clerk doesn't have them, try the county tax commissioner's office. They can be obtained at the Revenue Department's district offices or from the department's headquarters at Frankfort.

If you are liable for the tax make sure you mail your income tax form along with the check or money order to the department to determine whether you underpaid, overpaid or are right on the money. If you're under or over, you'll hear from the department.

Extensive Plans Made For Little Rock Church Centennial Year

by Mrs. Perry Vice

"A Light Set On a Hill Cannot be Hidden."

Sunday, April 15, the Little Rock church will enter on its 100th year. Extensive plans have been made by various committees and the pastor Rev. M. L. Smith, to mark such an event as the Centennial Year which might be classified as a year of evangelism. Membership development, worship and devotional services, religious education and missions and benevolence, which all point toward the glorification of the church.

The two-hundred years is a long time—it is a record that shows the loyalty of those who kept the faith fires burning lights, the minister as he preached the Word of God, through bleak winters and summer sunshine.

The stirring times preceding the Civil War, the War itself—the fraed slaves—the reconstruction all happened when this church was young. Down through the centuries modern improvements developed bringing the greatest in conveniences of the ages, old traditions and customs have changed. The dirt roads have given way to hard surfaced highways, the yellow flickering flames to white lights which gleam on every home. The woodlands are now velvety carpets of green where lowing herds peacefully—studies, telephones, automobiles, airplanes, television and radio are every day all come during this era.

Today the little white church on the hill is still an active institution. A winding driveway leads thereto where tall trees sway in the summer breeze. Inside the service is always inspiring, the songs by the choir sweet and lovely, the music touched by an artist's hand, low haunting and beautiful.

Many familiar faces and forms no longer sit among the congregation but have gone to other states and cities and various walks to abide, but never forgetting the place of childhood, the place of worship, the school and community activities. Many have journeyed into the mystic sunset leaving a record of love and service.

During the 30 years that we have known this church there have been several pastors. Perhaps we won't name them all, but we must at least remember the following:

Rev. Ward Russell, a man of sterling qualities and whose seven years of leadership and guidance made him long remembered by people of this church. Others were, Rev. Gilbert Perry, Rev. E.

Reds Open Season With Cubs April 18

The principle hope and ambition of any local club is to get off to a good start upon the launching of a new season and when the schedule favors a club with a heavy "home" card during the first few weeks it's a distinct advantage. That's the fortunate position Cincinnati's Reds find themselves in this year.

The Reds open at home, as they do every year, against Chicago April 18, and then play 17 of their first 23 National League games on the home lot at Crosley Field.

Highlights of the Reds' early season schedule are night games with the St. Louis Cardinals on April 24, with the New York Giants on May 2, the Boston Braves on May 5, the Philadelphia Phillies on May 8 and the Brooklyn Dodgers on May 10, plus a pair of Sunday doubleheaders. The first Sabbath twin-bill is slated for April 30 with the Pittsburgh Pirates and the second will be played on May 7 with the Philadelphia Phils.

The Reds' ticket office at 301 West Third street is accepting orders for tickets for any game on the Reds' schedule. Mail orders by thousands of volunteers throughout the state whose support and cooperation through the years have made the program the success it has been.
