UK Class of '50 Largest on Record

Members of the University of Kentucky's 1950 graduating class may well hold-for many years the distinction of belonging to the largest class in U. K. history. The total of June and August graduates, 2,119, is larger than the University's first 52 classes combined, which covered the period 1865-1917. With college enrollment throughout the nation showing a marked decrease from the post-war peaks, U. K. authorities expect the 1950 class to be the largest for several years.

UK Fall Term Opens Sept. 11

The University of Kentucky will begin its 86th year of operation with the opening of its' fall term on Monday, September 11. Classification tests and physical examinations for all new students will be given September 11-13. Registration and classification for both new and old students is scheduled for September 14-16, and classwork will begin Monday, September 18. The fall semester will continue through January 26, unbroken except by a four-day Thanksgiving holiday and a two-week Christmas vacation.

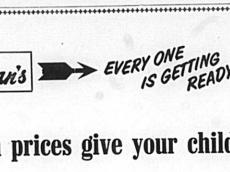
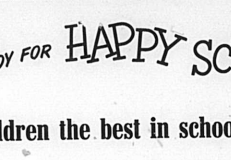
She Who Stoops, Can't Conquer



A forward and backward swing, as far as the arms will reach each way, helps one to achieve an upright-but easy and relaxed posture.



This young woman, whose carriage and the nerve and vigor she feels, bounce, clasps hands tightly upon her head, as one step in a stretching exercise.

"THERE is nothing like a dame. . . ." Particularly one who has put on a few pounds. She claims she's getting a figure may be[illegible] a man but not for long if you're one of those women whose droop has become a stoop.

One of the best ways to find out if you're keeping up a good back—and not moving a good front—is to consult your mirror. Does your posture radiate alertness? Do you appear vibrant, bouncy and animated? Or do you have that sagging jellyfish stance that's sure to dismay beau or hubby?

If your mirror reveals curves in the wrong places, try these exercises, designed to help you achieve an erect but natural posture.

Begin by standing with arms relaxed at sides. Lift them to shoulder level and swing them forward until your hands meet; then reverse the motion and swing your arms backward as far as they will go. Do this several times each day to relax and loosen your shoulder muscles.

A second set of muscles can be put into play by swinging your arms to an overhead position. This movement, which should be smooth and well-coordinated, is made up of three steps.

First lift your arms from a dangling, hands-at-thigh position to a vertical reach above your head. Stretch them as high as they will go. Then gradually relax, your elbows, allowing your hands to bounce lightly upon the top of your head. The final step is to fling them outward, and then downward again to the dangling position.

After a few weeks with these exercises, your carriage will express a determination to conquer all and your new attractiveness will cop one step in a stretching exercise.

$4,200 From Two Acres Of Berries

Although Mr. S. Watson of the Casper community in Logan county has grown strawberries for years, this year's crop topped them all. From his two-acre plot of Blakemore, he marketed more than 600 crates, which brought a total of $4,200.

The berries were set in March, 1949, following a tobacco crop on land that had been treated with manure, 500 pounds of phosphate and 1,000 pounds of 6-8-6 fertilizer. Then at setting time, 300 pounds of 4-12-8 and 500 pounds of 47 percent phosphate were applied. Continuing to follow the recommendations of his county agent, John R. Wattington, Mr. Watson applied 5-5 fertilizer about three weeks before picking.

Mr. Watson started farming in 1935 with a run-down farm of about 90 acres. Through good management, he brought poor land into production, and now owns about 200 acres.

Fescue Booms In Russell County

Fescue is continuing to grow in popularity in Russell county, according to Farm Agent Allan C. Davis. Many fields which in years past have grown only wild grasses now have good sods of fescue. Positive fescue growers have yielded around 550 acres with the Kentucky Seed Improvement Association, and at least 1,000 acres of uncertified seed will be harvested.

Mildew Develops In Muggy Weather

When weather is warm and muggy, watch out for mildew on clothing and household fabrics shoes and leather goods, books and even on painted surfaces, is the warning from the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. Molds which cause mildew commonly develop in muggy weather in poorly aired and poorly lighted places.

To dry the air in closets, burn a small electric light continuously in them, or run an electric fan occasionally to stir up the enclosed air. Linen closets, too, should have ventilation.

Calcium chloride, a chemical that takes up moisture, may be placed in an open container on the floor of the closet. When it has absorbed so much moisture that it becomes liquid, replace it with a fresh supply.

Keep cellars aired and dry, opening windows only when the outside air is cooler and drier than that inside. Musty odors will usually disappear when chloride of lime is sprinkled over the floor for a time, then swept up.

Soiled clothing and towels should be thoroughly dried before they are put in the hamper. For ironing, sprinkle only as many pieces as will be done in one day, or store a few pieces in the refrigerator.

Leather shoes and suitcases may be protected against mildew with a thin coat of floor wax.

To keep books in bookcases from mildewing, dust them at times with paraformaldehyde. Use sparingly, as it is irritating to some persons.

Wash fresh mildew stains with soap and water, then dry in the sun. To remove stains, use lemon juice and salt and then place the article in the sun, or use 1 tablespoon of sodium perborate to a pint of lukewarm water. Let stand a minute or two, then rinse well. On colored fabrics, test a sample for fading before using bleaches on the garment.

Fescue and Ladino clover furnished the best all-round pasture on seven farms checked in the Green Pasture Program in Garrard county.

Alfalfa that had produced four tons of hay an acre the season was seen at the annual field days at the Experiment Station at Lexington.

Four hundred farmers in Grayson county have planted seeds to grow cucumbers for pickles this year.
