1949 Was Our BIGGEST YEAR
In Rural Telephone Expansion

More farm families in the South got new telephones during 1949 than during any other year in history.

The 57,000 poles we erected to extend rural telephone service was a record number, too. So was the 105,000 miles of wire placed in service. Setting these new records required record expenditures of $26,000,000 for new rural facilities for the year.

Serving the rural areas of the South is one of our biggest jobs, and we're making progress. It's good telephone service, too—backed by nearly three-quarters of a century's experience, plus the teamwork of the Bell Telephone Laboratories and the Western Electric Company in developing new methods and equipment to make the service still better.
