We are very glad to know that the residents who live in distant states enjoy reading this little column in the Mercury about people and places they once knew. After all home ties are very dear, and any item concerning has been written to memories.

People will always dream whether in a cottage with ruffled curtains or stranded on an open camp fire where flame and smoke spirals in the dusk of evening, a wind swept coast, a castle or cabin along the trail thoughts of loved ones, home, neighbors and friends and places and events will recur again and again in hues, moods dreams of some long ago.

Ellisville Homemakers

The recently remodeled kitchen of Mrs. L. B. Alexander was the setting for the March meeting of the Ellisville Homemakers Club. Mrs. George R. Carter and Mrs. Alexander were the meal planners.

The morning session was devoted to planning, preparing and serving a healthful meal.

The health of the family should be the special objective of each homemaker. To help reach this objective, the "Basic Seven Chart," should be used as a guide in preparing delicious, nutritious meals.

Mental and physical efficiency along with harmonious relations depend on the type and amount of food served each day.

Well planned meals are easily prepared and should include raw and cooked fruits and vegetables, dairy products, cereals, and meats. Care should be taken to use fresh crisp vegetables, being careful to cook them properly to conserve valuable Vitamins and Minerals. New recipes should be tried and all should cooperate in learning to eat new foods.

The business session was called to order by Mrs. Alexander. Mrs. George R. Carter conducted the Devotional and read the Thought for the Month, "My Tapestry."

A letter was read from a member now in Florida, Mrs. W. E. Martin.

Approximately two pounds of tinfoil was turned in. Mrs. Alexander explained the Blue Cross-Blue Shield hospital plans to the club members.

Mrs. J. C. Tincher was present and became a member.
