WHO'S NEXT???

H. C. Galbraith Buick on West Main became the latest victims in a series of breakins and attempted robberies that have occured in Carlisle during the last few months.

Previously, Allison's restaurant on Broadway, Lew's Pool Hall on Main, the Carlisle Mill and Supply Co., on Walnut, Southern States Cooperative on Water and Williams on Main have been entered by thieves.

H. C. Galbraith reported Monday morning that the Galbraith Buick Garage had been broken into Sunday night and cash in the amount of between $20 and $25 taken.

Tuesday night, sandals fetched to have been stolen from the house. According to Miss Nell Crawford, business clerk, only six cents was missing from the "cashbox". A safe containing files and other valuables was smashed and battered but entrance was not gained.

All robberies have followed a similar pattern and are believed to have been committed by the same local person or persons.

Last week, automobiles belonging to Mrs. Ruth Leer and Bill Duncan were reported tampered with as would-be pinchers tried to make off with the cars with no success.

Retaliating action is promised by local law enforcement officers.

Mrs. Ag Green sends in the cleverest recipe for egg croquettes I ever heard of.

It's a Bible quiz recipe that goes like this: Melt three table spoons of Job 24-17 in top of double boiler, add three tablespoons of Numbers 28-5 and stir until blended. Add ¾ cup of Exodus 34-26 and cook until mixture is creamed.

Remove from heat and add four hard cooked Deut 22-6, set aside to cool. When cold shape into croquettes, roll in cracker Luke 16-21, dip in slightly beaten Deut. 22-6 diluted with two tablespoons of St. Luke 2-7 and again in Luke 16-21. Fry in hot deep I Kruhces 4-11 until brown. Serves six.

Now get out your Bibles and see what you have.

Rep. Snapp Appoints Local Men To Committee On Proposed Academy

Rep. Joseph L. Snapp, who has been delegated as representing both counties in an attempt to bring the U. S. government's proposed Forest Service school to this section, announced Tuesday the membership of a committee that will work on the proposal.

The Air Force Academy will be situated at Point Pleasant and Annapolis.

The committee will meet at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, May 12, in the office of County Judge J. L. Monroe Leer.

Believing that it would be impossible to locate the academy entirely in Bourbon county, Mr. Snapp named three Nicholas county committeemen, believing that they could lend from the angle of what would be needed for the establishment of the academy with full regard for the nearly 9,000 acres of rolling land.

The committee with Rep. Snapp as chairman includes E. E. Plunkett, Charles Cox and Roger Wamack of Nicholas county; Mayor George Doyle, Hunter A. Pipes, Guthrie Bell, Judge J. Monroe Leer, Harry Horton, James Cox, Harold E. Bell and Glenn L. Scanlan, all of Bourbon county.

It will be this committee's place to decide on location of a site relative to population centers, transportation facilities (rail, air, highways), availability of power and water, sewage facilities, drainage, engineering difficulties such as grading, labor and materials conditions in vicinity, climatic conditions, availability of land, cost of preparation of land, land-use restrictions such as farms, location of nearest airfields and availability of housing, cultural, recreational, educational and other such facilities in nearby population centers.

Information compiled by this committee and decisions reached will be carried back to Lexington next Wednesday by Rep Snapp who he meets with government officials and engineers in an effort to get the academy located in this section.

Tennessee Crash Fatal To Five

David Roy Figart, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Ross Figart of Carlisle, died Friday morning, as was killed early Monday in an automobile-truck collision about two miles south of Arlington, Tenn.

Betty Pierson, 19, of Waco, Texas, Figart's fiancee, also died in the crash. The couple was to have been married May 26 in Waco.

The crash claimed the lives of three other persons, who along with Figart and his fiancee, were students at Baylor University at Waco.

The five victims were taken to Memphis, 30 miles east of Arlington, for hospital treatment but were pronounced dead on arrival.

Young Figart was ordained as a minister Sunday afternoon in ceremonies held at Grace Baptist church, Lexington. He also acted as best man in the wedding of his brother, Francis Ross Figart Jr., and Ruthie Lunsford Ballard, held Saturday afternoon in Carlisle.

Miss Pierson came here with her fiance to meet his family and visit young Figart and two others left Lexington Sunday night, picking up the fifth member a point in Nashville, where he was to join relatives, and continued on to Arlington.

The driver of the truck, a tractor trailer hauling heavy construction equipment, was listed in the Arlington Enterprise-Courier as Garland Whaley, 29 of Houston, Texas. He was unhurt in the crash.

The dispatch said the collision was with such force that the motor of the students' sedan was driven into the front seat. The bodies were scattered over the highway except for one of the young women who was crushed in the back seat.

Whaley, the report continued, told police the oncoming car appeared to be running off the road, the unidentified driver apparently fighting a cigarette. Suddenly, Whaley said, the driver saw he was leaving the highway and swerved to get back on. That was when the collision occurred.

Figart was a native of Altoona, Pa., a graduate of Henry Clay high school and was to complete his studies at Baylor next November. He was a member of Grace Baptist church.

Surviving are his parents, Francis Ross and Mary Gertrude Sale Figart; two brothers, Francis Ross Figart Jr., and Jack Figart, and two sisters, Mrs. William T. Walters and Miss Mary Lou Figart, all of Lexington, and his grandmothers, Mrs. T. B. Figart, Ballard, and Mrs. P. R. Nolin, New Bethlehem, Pa.

Farmer Ends Life By Leap Into Well

The body of Sterlie Wilson Smoot, 64, a Nicholas county farmer, was found in a well at his home Monday by a grandson, William Smoot, and George Devine, a neighbor of the dead man.

Coroner Ralph Shearer said the death committed suicide.

Young Smoot told the coroner he had gone to the house, where his grandfather lived, alone, to take him some food, but could not find him. He said he called Mr. Devine and the two began a search. They terminated in discovery of the man's body in the well.

Coroner Shearer said the victim, who was partially crippled, had been in ill health for some time. He said Mr. Smoot evidently had jumped into the well some time Sunday afternoon. He had been seen at the house earlier in the day, the coroner reported. No inquest is planned.

Mr. Smoot was about 15 feet deep and had about five feet of water in it. The home is located near Miranda on the Moorefield road.

Mr. Smoot is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nannie Kennedy Smoot of Carlisle, employee of a local restaurant; two sons, Rector Smoot of Carlisle and Horace Smoot of Louisville; a stepson, Wilburn Clark, Nicholas county; a daughter, Mrs. Nancy O'Brien, Louisville; two sisters, Mrs. Lula Eldridge, Missouri; a half-sister, Mrs. Thomas Grayson, Louisville; eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2:00 p. m. (CST) Thursday at Carlisle Shearer chapel, conducted by the Rev. J. G. Carr, pastor of the Carlisle church.

Pallbearers include James, Holmes, and Herbert Smoot, Robert Booth, John Brannon and Courtney Gum.

Farm Bureau School At Louisville May 16-17

To have smoother - running County Farm Bureaus is the objective of the forthcoming Farm Secretaries' Training School, to be held at the Bureau's office building in Louisville, May 16 and 17, announced I. E. Sanford, Kentucky Farm Bureau's Executive Secretary, today.

"So far," Stanford said, "fifty-seven County Farm Bureaus are planning to send a representative from their organization to attend these classes on Publicity, Public Relations, Record Keeping, and Farm Bureau Services. It is safe, then, to assume Kentucky will begin a better working knowledge of the operation of a County Farm Bureau office. This will make for more efficient coordination between the State Farm Bureau office and the County office, and should go a long way in the standardization of procedures in processing membership reports, committee meetings, and the promotion of membership drives."

It is considered that when all those secretaries who completed the course certificates will be issued.
