Deaths

Frayser Hinton

Frayser Hinton, 57 years old, a native of Tilton, Fleming county, owner of the J. T. Hinton Funeral Home in Memphis, Tenn., died last Thursday at the Methodist hospital, following a few weeks illness.

He moved to Memphis with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse T. Hinton, when a lad, and was educated in the Memphis schools and attended Pennsylvania Military Academy at Chester. He was a man of varied interests, a soldier in World War I, saw action in France, Belgium and Germany, and was promoted to Captain. He was head of the 1937 flood disaster and director for the Red Cross, was active in the Lions, University Club, Chickasaw Guards, Golf Club and Delta Tau Beta fraternity. He was president of the Hinton Mortuary which has operated for 104 years, and owned by the family since 1890. He spent much time and expense on amateur photograph, his hobby, and composed a number of songs which were played on the stage, screen, and radio. His most popular song was "Napoli" recorded in '31 by Tito Schipa, Metropolitan opera star, during a tour in South America.

Mr. Hinton is survived by an uncle, Harry T. Burgess, Carlisle, and the following cousins: Mrs. Henry Gentry and Jesse Hinton, Lexington; Miss Frances Hinton and K. Burgess Hinton, Louisville; Frank Burgess, Frankfort; Mrs. Teddy Poe, Carlisle; Miss Nealya Thomas Burgess, Memphis, Tenn.

Funeral services were held in Memphis, Saturday and burial was in Elmwood cemetery.

lest of the backs, weighs 160 pounds and is playing his first year as a ball carrier. Last season Donovan saw action as an end. Booth, a proverbial knot of energy, is Donovan's running mate and bears much of the Musketeer offensive brunt. The popular young athlete tips the scales at 158.

Speedy James "Doot" Hardin, leading Musketeer ground gainer, operates from the fullback slot. The weighing only 150 pounds Hardin has a world of drive and is the enemy secondary before the opposition realize the ball has been snapped. Hardin is a senior.

Booth and Hardin each have racked up 24 points. Booth has gone over four times while Hardin has crossed the double marker thrice. He has tallied six points on PAT tries. Donovan has also six big points.

Billy Blake, 145 pound senior also sees duty in the backfield as does Bobby McFarland. 13th freshman, and other hopefuls.

What makes the Musketeers click? You have only to watch them to find the answer to that question. They're not big there are not many of them but they're well-coached and they like to play ball. They play as a team, train hard and as a result, have beaten Cynthiana 14-0, Paris 13-7 and Stanford 27-0, all three of which towns boast a much larger school enrollment level unpaid.

Tomorrow night they meet Lancaster, there, in quest of their fourth straight victory. Win, lose or draw against Lancaster and the other three remaining opponents, the whole town stands behind the boys in green and white. We're proud of your spirit and the way you play the game of football. You are all a credit to the sport. —EA.

CLEMENTS

change overnight to become a warm advocate of most of the Democratic program.

"Any legislation designed to improve the welfare of all the people has met with the bitter criticism of the Taffs and the Dawsons," the Democratic standard bearer declared to a crowd of Rowan and adjoining-county Democrats. "The Republican candidate has stated in his speeches that he will accept my challenge to run this race on our records," Governor Clements said. "As a congressman, as Governor and as a private citizen, I have supported the Democratic programs. As a Judge, as a lawyer and as a citizen my opponent has denounced them. The people of Kentucky shall be made acquainted with the record, if they do not already know it, and they may make their choice on the records of performance rather than on what we may say as candidates."

Governor Clements then rendered a report of his work in Congress in behalf of the farmer and the laboring man. He told of his efforts to bring good roads and better business conditions to the state while serving as State Senator and as Governor. At all times, he declared, he has endeavored to render the best possible service to the people of his state and has "supported wholeheartedly the Democratic policies such as social security, unemployment compensation, federal cooperation in the farm and farm ownership, the farm recovery program — indeed — the entire structure of the recovery program, which, I might add, has come under the caustic criticism of my opponent in this race," the Governor said.

"I am proud to — and on my record of support of these measures," the Democratic senatorial candidate said. Among legislation which Governor Clements indicated he would support if elected to the United States Senate he listed a "unified Department of Labor Affairs, with the assistant department that will be to labor what the Department of Commerce is to business." He then told how labor and management, in peace and in war, have met the demands of civilian and military production, and how, for our own country but for our allies.

Clements again was branded as the candidate seeking the return of the "Old Deal" by Governor Clements. This philosophy remains the chart and compass of a certain segment of the Republican party," the Governor said, although it long ago was rejected by the people of the party.

With United Nation forces winning in Korea, Judge Dawson now is forced to seek a new issue, the speaker said. General Marshall and General MacArthur seem thoroughly capable of handling our foreign affairs at the present time, he declared, and this country now can well afford to get along without the "leadership of destruction," whose aim is to divide, and not unite."

LIFE OF FATHER

I had learned of when she got out of bed and went to get a drink of water. "All of a sudden she let out a giggle just like a school girl and said "Honey, let's go to Jorland."

It was 11:50.

I fell out of bed, flew into my clothes and ran around the house three time before I could slow down my heart. Then I called "Digger" and told him to bring the train wagon. Meanwhile, she had dressed, put her hug in the middle of the back seat for me to sit over, and put a pot of coffee on the stove. She made me help her make the bed and then she started telling me how to fry eggs and how to rip off a new cereal box top. "Of course, I know how to do all of these things, but at the time it all sounded new to me.

At 12:26, "Digger" arrived and we had a cup of coffee. She was calm and "Digger" was calm and I thought they were crazy.

After what seemed a year, they decided to leave. She walked out the door as if she were going to a party. Oh, no, a couple of parties. I called up a couple and invited them along to sit with me, but they didn't have enough sense to leave the pups with. Yes, she walked, "Digger" behind her along, and I brought up the rear with my flash-light, four magazines, and four packages of cigarettes. I protested about her sitting up, so she let me have the back seat and the real comfortable inch on the edge of the seat.

The ride was a nightmare to me. I saw Old Doc Stork flying along with us and he was the worst. He would tap on the window and point to his diaper and grin. What a joker, always kidding around.

My sweet wife tried her best to make me comfortable. She would put me on the knee and assure me that my leg would heal and that it would live. I was scared half to death, but she and "Digger" talked their heads off about the weather, the price of eggs and the coming football season.

We arrived at the hospital at 1:37. She and "Digger" helped me up th esteps to the Maternity Ward. A nurse took her down the hall to the Great Unknown and left "Digger" and me just standing there not knowing what to do. Well, I didn't, but "Digger" did. He took me by the hand and led me down to the office. Then I tried to tell them my wife's name and needed help on that. "Digger" came to my rescue and started confusing several, so, he took me across the street for one breakfast. I was thankful for that because I was dreading the idea of trying an egg all by myself. I had bacon and eggs and he had bacon and eggs. He ate all of his.

Next thing I knew, he shook my hand, said something nice and left me in a haze of confusion. I sat awhile and then tried to stand but my leg still hurt, so I just sat. I guess it's a good thing I couldn't walk. I probably would have walked myself to death. I had made up my mind that I was in for a long wait so I settled down and started reading. Every story I read seemed to put the hero in a waiting room. I read three stories and was starting on the fourth when our doctor came in and said, "Here's something for you."

I stuttered, gawked, and blinked—there it was—the blackest and prettiest baby I ever saw. My eyes were glued to it. I had to ask what it was and he laughed one of those big lusty laughs and was trying to sleep and wake up at the same time. After two hours, she looked at me with my big mouth hanging open and said, "Did you put the milk bottles out?" I says, "What's wrong with you? You just had a little black-headed girl that weighed seven pounds, five and one-half ounces and was 20 inches long and my leg has stopped hurting."

"That's nice", she said, "but did you put the milk bottles out?"

What could I do—she wasn't at all impressed. I was confused for the 43rd time. A nurse shoved me out and I floated across the street and ate another breakfast. I got a hair cut, and bought some roses. It was over—I was a father—it was wonderful.

Will write again soon and give you the news on the little girl's home life.

Rev. E. M. Rankins, the new pastor of Wesley Chapel C.M.E. church preached his first sermon Sunday morning.

The colored 4-H club of Bookert Washington School gave their exhibit Monday. Quite a few ribbons were given the pupils on their projects.

The religious group known as the House of Jacob held their regular services at Mrs. Laura Keys' home Sunday. They will be in Mt. Sterling, Sunday.

Johnny Logan Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Marshall was taken to the Nicholas County hospital Sunday night for treatment.

Our sick—Mrs. Alene Clark, very sagely remarked, "A girl." She smiled, the nurse giggled and I made like a moron.

A girl, I says to myself, now isn't that nice. A black headed girl—a Hedy Lamarr. But that wasn't right—she was supposed to be a blackhead. And the time was all wrong—it was only 3:55 a. m. I had been gypped out of a long wait.

Everything was different from what I expected. My leg stopped hurting and I walked around and walked down at my self-burners on the floor. I had to duck now and then to keep from bumping my head on the light. When I come down close enough to get through the door, I called Mother. She asked a lot of questions and I didn't know but one answer—it's a girl—a black headed girl—Everyone I had to call on her back that night to give her all the details.

After 52 minutes, they let me see the ex-boss of the family. She was trying to sleep and wake up at the same time. After two hours, she looked at me with my big mouth hanging open and said, "Did you put the milk bottles out?" I says, "What's wrong with you? You just had a little black-headed girl that weighed seven pounds, five and one-half ounces and was 20 inches long and my leg has stopped hurting."

GRAIN MARKETS DEVELOP FURTHER WEAKNESS

Grain markets developed further weakness during the last week in September influenced principally by favorable Korean news, diminishing danger from frost damage and a continued slow export trade, reports to the Kentucky and United States Departments of Agriculture indicate. Wheat declined 2 cents to 4 cents per bushel while feed grain prices were largely lower at leading markets. Oilseed markets weakened further reflecting increased marketings of new crop seed and a decline in oil prices.

Corn markets continued to weaken as danger from frost lessened. Several warm and mostly fair days during the week favored maturity of the crop in the main corn belt. Light to heavy frosts occurred during the week in the northern portions of the belt but caused only a limited amount of damage to late corn in these areas according to reports to the weather bureau.

FUTURE... Unlimited
Showing a champion . . . bringing home a blue ribbon from the fair is the favorite dream of many a farm boy. That's why he spends a good share of his waking hours helping it to come true.
He garnishes his calf's ground corn with minerals and molasses secretes it in feed-licked up clean. He spends hours teaching his baby beef to lead . . . and carries its gleaming coat until aching arms rebel.
Dreaming dreams and then working hard to make them come true is the American way. That's the spirit which transformed a wilderness into the world's most powerful nation in a little over 300 years. That's the same spirit which makes our country the land of opportunity and great accomplishments.
Back in 1837, John Deere's dreams and dogged determination gave the world the first successful steel plow. This new plow unlocked the wealth of the prairie soil—created a new agricultural empire. Today, the John Deere organization is pioneering on new frontiers—working to make the American dream of a well-fed world a reality.
Careful preparation and lots of perspiration still make dreams come true in America. For in this free land, life is what you make it—the future is unlimited.

Dietrich-McDonald

The wedding of Miss Mary Elizabeth Dietrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Dietrich of Nicholasville, and Noel Delmere McDonald of Carrollton, son of Mrs. Noel B. McDonald and D. D. McDonald, both of Louisville, was solemnized Friday afternoon.

The vows were exchanged at 2:30 o'clock in the rectory of St. Luke's Episcopal church in Nicholasville. The Rev. Carl A. Fischer officiated in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

The bride wore a mink brown suit with brown velvet accessories and an orchid corsage. She was attended by her sister, Miss Kathryn Dietrich of Nicholasville, who wore a brown suit with green accessories. Her shoulder bouquet was of orchids.

Douglas Lowry of Paris served as best man.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald will be at their home in Carrollton.

The bride was graduated from Nicholasville High school. The bridegroom is a graduate of Male High school in Louisville and the University of Kentucky. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. He now teaches agriculture to veterans in Carrollton.

Mr. McDonald was a former instructor to veterans at Nicholas County High school at Headquarters.
