Wool Casuals Take on Festive Air

Wool casuals, often the backbone of a wardrobe, is not necessarily simple in tail. It may have a subtle yet distinctive pattern, a pleated, ruffled or striped front. The silhouette is always slim and imagination is often evident in the combination of two colors, or in two shades of one color.

A magis-tuff casual in wool, designed by Margaret Newman, comes in purple with a yoke of white wool. Interesting detail is seen in the large hip pockets which almost surround the same-front and gun-belt look skirt. The show length sleeves end in cavalier cuffs.

Another casual by this same designer is available in Julliard shear wool. Subtle tones of light and dark gray are combined to make a slim dress with a surprise front caught by unbuttoned gold buttons. Sluggers are cut slightly domed for slim and glitzy fits.
