Recipe Of The Week

Learning how to prepare foods in the broiler of the new kitchen range has been popular with women throughout the state, says Mrs. Pearl Haak, food specialist at the University of Kentucky. While steaks, toasted cheese sandwiches or some other food is broiling on the rack of the broiler, a vegetable, such as canned peas, can be cooking in the broiler pan under the rack.

Broiled Bacon and Cheese on Toast with Peas

6 slices bread
¼ pound grated cheese
1 tablespoon parsley
tablespoon parsley
1 teaspoon minced onion
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
6 slices bacon
6 slices of pineapple

Place the canned peas in the lower part of the broiler pan, season with salt and pepper and add butter. Place sliced bread on the broiler rack and brown on one side; turn. Blend parsley, onion, cheese and mustard and spread on untoasted side of bread. Top with bacon strips, and arrange pineapple slices at either end of the rack. Broil about 7 minutes, or until bacon is crisp and brown. Caution: check burner frequently to see that it is not too high for bacon and cheese.

Supper or lunch menu: Broiled cheese and bacon on toast, buttered peas, broiled pineapple slice and apple pie.
