Local Hospital's "Tobacco Sticks" Will Sell Today

Tobacco donated to the "Stick of Tobacco" drive for the benefit of the Nicholas County Hospital, 1,650 pounds of it, will be sold Thursday morning, January 31, at the Central District Warehouse Corporation floor in Paris.

The tobacco was taken to Paris Wednesday morning and graded by Mr. Aubrey Watts, top circuit grader. Prizes for the best sticks of tobacco donated to the drive went to Clay Bros., first; John Barrett, second; and Clay Dayton, third.

Good Response

The tobacco drive started about a month and a half ago with contributions of tobacco coming in a stick or two at a time. The response of farmers and tobacco growers of Nicholas county was heartening and the donations for cash to the drive was also appreciated very much.

A spokesman for the hospital said that the hospital "is not in the red, but it's tough going for awhile." He said receipts from the sale plus an increase in business at the hospital will help the hospital to put the institution on a sound financial basis.

The spokesman for the group said that they hoped that by the time the fiscal court were more than pleased to have the top circuit grader grade the hospital's tobacco.

Results of Thursday's sale will be published next week.

Blanton Introduces Will Legislation

Recognition of wills made by members of the Armed Forces who may be under 21 years old is sought in a measure proposed in the House by Rep. William W. Blanton, Democrat, Paris, who represents the Bourbon-Nicholas House district.

Present Kentucky law requires a will to have been made by a person at least 21 while the military forces require all personnel, whether 21 or less, to make a will.

The Blanton measure would recognize wills made by members of the armed forces as valid though the maker be less than twenty-one. Blanton is a lawyer.

GOES TO FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. Gano Duncan left Sunday for Florida, where they plan to spend several days.

Nicholas Farmers Beginning Work On Soil Conservation Practices Now

By Ed Sanders

Farmers in Nicholas County soil conservation district are making an early start on their conservation program for 1952.

During January, several farmers in the county have developed channels above bottoms to protect them from damage from hillside water. They will now be able to cultivate them extensively by using cover crops and a necessary fertilizers. This is a good example of the district's policy of using each acre for what it is best suited and treating each acre for what it needs for protection and improvement.

Builds Channel

Norwood Auxier built 1100 feet of diversion channels with a bulldozer above 15 feet of bottom land on Hinkston creek as a part of his soil conservation plan. Mr. Auxier thinks that a bulldozer is the most satisfactory way of building a diversion above a bottom, especially where the land is rough and an extra large diversion is necessary to handle several acres of water. He also believes that they are economical to build with heavy equipment.

He reported that his cost three to four dollars per hundred feet depending on the size and depth of soil.

Others Also Build

Harold Vice also built diversion channels above his bottoms on Hinkston creek. Others were Charles Scheffler on Licking river and Walter Hollar on Crooked creek.

Charlie Wagoner, George Brunker and William T. Brunker of the Beechwood community and Jesse Smith of the Jackstown community are waiting for equipment to reach them for the same type of work.

The grade, size and location of a diversion channel depends on the size of the watershed, kind of cover crop and type of soil. Technical assistance in locating and staking these channels or any other soil conservation work can be obtained at no cost to the farmer by contacting Ed Sanders, SCS technician who maintains his office in the basement of the post office, or by contacting anyone of the local district supervisors.
