CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The explanation of how mortals can put off sin and mortality and grow more spiritual will be brought out in Christian Science services next Sunday. The Lesson-Sermon is "Mortals and Immortals."
A statement from Paul's first Epistle to the Corinthians is included in the Bible readings: "So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory." (I Corinthians 15:54).
Among the correlative passages in the following from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The admission to one's self that man is God's own likeness sets man free to master the infinite idea. This conviction shuts the door on death, and opens it wide towards immortality." (P. 90).
The Golden Text is from Romans: "They that are in the flesh cannot please God. But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you." (Romans 8:8,9).

Carlisian's Book To Be Released

Nettie E. Rubert has been a constant Bible student for years. In her new volume, "The Only Possible Road To Peace" she offers some interesting chapters on her belief that peace cannot come to the world until the Millennial Age. Her belief in the Word is firm and eternal and her study is written from that point of view.
The author has written this interpretation of the Book in order "to bring to light the Creator's plan for making possible universal peace." Her work is emphasized due to ignorance of that plan, she believes. Wars are under Divine condemnation and are unprepared to meet the resulting tribulation that is coming upon us, she argues.
Nettie Rubert was born in Louisiana, Missouri. She received her early education in Illinois, Kansas. Later she attended the Palmer School of Chiropractic in Davenport, Iowa. Her present home is in Carlisle. Throughout her life she has done intensive home Bible study and collected religious books.
It will be released May 19.

Wesleyan Offers Four Scholarships

Scholarships are available for four Nicholas county students who wish to attend Kentucky Wesleyan College in Owensboro.
These scholarships are awarded to first and second honor graduates of accredited high schools. There is no examination required or other formality except a certification by the high school principal and approval of the college scholarship committee.
Freshman scholarships are worth $150 for the school year and may be applied to tuition or other fees.
All grants are awarded for one year on the basis of academic record, financial need, and the promise of future usefulness. No award is made until the student has applied for admission to the college, all necessary credentials have been presented and accepted. Awards may be renewed if the student demonstrates superior proficiency.
Owensboro also offers varied opportunities for part-time employment for students who desire to earn a part of their college expenses. Students interested in scholarships, assistanceships or part-time employment should apply immediately to Ray N. Waggoner, Dean of Students.

LEGION MEETING

Fish Hatchery Sets Open House

George W. Herndon, owner and operator of Kentucky's largest gold fish hatchery, announced that he would hold open house at the hatchery Sunday, May 18.
Mr. Herndon stated that about 100,000 gold fish, varying in size from an inch to 16 inches, would be on display. He stated that he had 10 different breeds of the fish in all colors.
This will mark the first time that the fish hatchery has been open to the public since its beginning in 1946. The business supplies ten cent stores all over Kentucky with the gold fish.
The hatchery consists of 15 to 25 ponds about 50 by 100 feet and two lakes 500 to a 1000 feet in length. Several thousand fish hatch daily.
Mr. Herndon said that he was giving a fish away to each visitor during the open house as long as they bring along their containers.
The hatchery is located on the Ruddle- Mill road between Ruddles Mill and Paris.

pearance of a black bear on the side of the road. We stepped long enough for everyone who had a camera along to get a picture.
We stopped at Cherokee Indian village. Many of us went through the museum there which had ancient Indian relics and also a very interesting and beautiful display of certain minnerals under ultra-violet light.
Here "Muscles" Hughes was proved a little weaker than he thought. A Cherokee had a blow pipe and showed us how to use it. Then he handed it over to us to try, which he did. After several unsuccessful attempts to get the dart to the target, Jim finally gave up and we all boarded the bus bidding goodbye to the Indians.
We ate a picnic lunch at one of the roadside parks in the Smokies and gloried at the view of the magnificent cloud-topped mountains covered with rhododendron and mountain laurel.

Visit Biltmore Estate

We arrived in Asheville, North Carolina early in the afternoon and then went to the Biltmore Estate built by George W. Vanderbilt. In order to get to the main house we travelled a three mile paved road winding through flowering shrubs and forests of pine and hemlock. There are 12,000 feet of surrounding ground. The frontage of the main house is 780 feet and the breadth is 150 feet. The house is furnished mostly with articles from the French and Spanish Renaissance period. From here we went to the famous dairy barns where we observed the processing of the milk taken from a herd of about 1200 Jersey cows. We were told that some of the cows brought $8,000 at a sale Saturday at the estate.
Next we went to eat and then to our cabins to dress for the night's entertainment which consisted of a movie for most of us.
On Sunday we got up early as usual in order to begin the last lap in our journey—the road home.
We traveled a road consisting of one horseshoe curve after another. But since we are a very healthy group no one got sick.
We ate our last meal together at the Little Tunnel Inn just outside Cumberland Gap. Here we served a very large delicious fried chicken dinner which was soon downed without hesitation from any member of our group.
Everyone began looking out the windows now so as not to miss seeing when we came into Kentucky. As we got closer home we began to recognize familiar scenes and soon we realized that our trip was no longer ahead of us but was about to become history.
We arrived in Carlisle at about five thirty, tired, but happy to be home.
