THE LIVING LORD---EASTER

THE ANGEL SAID, "HE IS NOT HERE, HE IS RISEN"

Scripture—Matthew 28.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.

AFTER a long, cold winter everyone in northern climes welcomes the coming of spring.

"For, lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in the land."—The Song of Solomon 2:11, 12.

For us, it is not only the time of the return of the birds and flowers, but the time when our Lord rose from the dead to bless the world with joy and thanksgiving.

Each of the four gospels in whose books appear in the New Testament wrote a little different account of the same story told by when the tomb was found empty and the risen Lord appeared.

This is natural enough. We all know how different are the accounts of the same story told by two different persons. In our lesson we follow Matthew's narrative which ends his book.

The chapter begins "In the end of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre."

"And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.

"His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow: And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men."

No wonder the guards were frightened. First the body of Jesus was disappeared, according to one commentator, then this brilliant apparition appeared and rolled away the great stone that sealed the tomb, and sat thereon.

"Fear not," were the first words the women heard as they looked fearfully at the angel. "Fear not ye, for I know that ye seek Jesus which was crucified. He is not here: for He is risen, as He said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

"And go quickly, and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead; and, behold, He goes before you into Galilee; there shall ye see Him: lo, I have told you."

Quickly, the women left the tomb to acquaint the disciples with the glorious news. They departed "with fear and great joy."

They did not reach their goal, however, before the risen Lord Himself stood before them, saying, "All hail!" The women worshipped Him, and Jesus told them: "Be not afraid: go tell My brethren that they go into Galilee, and there shall they see Me."

Those were the same words used by the angel.

While the women were on their way to the disciples, the watchmen were greatly frightened that they might be brought guilty of carelessness or worse, went to the assembled members of the Sanhedrin and told what had happened.

How appropriate were the Lord's words, when in righteous wrath He had called these so-called religious leaders "hypocrites" and "whited sepulchres." After being counsel together, they gave the soldiers large amounts of money, and commanded them to tell everywhere that the disciples came by night, and stole the Lord's body as they slept.

"If this come to the governor's ears," they said, "we will persuade him, and secure you." We can presume that the soldiers were glad that instead of being punished for sleeping on the job, they were given money to spread a lie, even if in their hearts they knew it for what it was.

"So they took the money and did as they were taught."

The eleven disciples went to Galilee, into a mountain where Jesus and the angel had directed them. With what mixed feelings must they have gone—fearing what the women had told was very true, but some strange hallucination, hoping against hope that it was the truth.

Then they saw Him, and worshipped Him; but some doubted, even at this late.

"And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given Me in heaven and on earth. Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.

"Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world. Amen."

Let us go quickly, and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead; and, behold, He goes before you into Galilee; there shall ye see Him; lo, I have told you.

MEMORY VERSE

"And Jesus came to them, saying, All authority hath been given unto Me in heaven and on earth. Go ye, therefore, and make disciples of all the nations."

—Matthew 28:18, 19.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

How man can triumph over the belief of evil through the realization of the Truth of being will be brought out in all Christian Science services next Sunday. Subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Unity."

From the Bible verses the following from Isaiah will be read, "the ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs, and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away." (Isaiah 35: 10).

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following: "If the disciple is advancing spiritually, he is striving to enter in." If human, he will be in earnest from the start, and gain a little each day in the right direction, till at last he finishes his course with joy." (p. 231).

The Golden Text is from II Samuel 22: 29a: "Thou art my lamp, O Lord: and the Lord will lighten my darkness."
