Sense On The Highway

(The New York Times)

As another spring approaches motorists again look to the open road. There are more roads and vacation spots than ever, and there will probably be more drivers on the road than will be able to handle it. It is not only the volume of traffic but the quality of it that is a cause for concern. The highway builders are doing their best to meet the demand for more roads, but the quality of the roads is also a matter of concern. The highway builders are doing their best to meet the demand for more roads, but the quality of the roads is also a matter of concern.

'Litterbugs' and 'Vandalisms'

(The New York Times)

It has remained for the Portland, Oregon chapter of the Inaak Walton League of America to propose a campaign against "litterbugs" and "vandalisms." Sam Momen of the Portland chapter points out that this is not a new thing, but it is a new thing in the sense that it is now being done on a national scale. The league is proposing a campaign to clean up the highways and to prevent the kind of vandalism that is so common on the roads.

Compliance with Traffic Regulations

(The New York Times)

As the other fellow will never mind the driver's license, the driver's license is a matter of concern. The driver's license is a matter of concern because it is a matter of concern that the driver's license is a matter of concern. The driver's license is a matter of concern because it is a matter of concern that the driver's license is a matter of concern.
