An Alternate Route?

The alternate route recently erected at the intersection of Highway 28 and the highway to Carlisle, giving the distance to Mayfield via U.S. 44 and to Ky. 27, and to Harlan via U.S. 44 and to the University of Kentucky at Lexington via the Highway of Commerce, is just another example of what capitalist power can accomplish. The Carlisle-Nicholas County Development Association recently put a sign near the intersection telling travelers the best route to Mayfield. The Carlisle, highway department officials were quick to come up with the fact-finding idea that it should be removed because it was "traffic hazard."

Merchants Beware

(The Union County Advocate) All merchants in Morgantown, Union County, and elsewhere should be on the look-out for certain groups of advertising dealers. Merchants are told the idea of going "good" will get a service to everyone turning in a coupon printed in a booklet, one of those "good" things. The book, full of free features, is being sold by 40 operators but the merchant doesn't realize the great number sold and he is hoodwinked by free coupons, and then it is too late. Give To Conquer Cancer

The Nicholas County Cancer Drive is now in its fourth week to raise funds which will help fight cancer. This is a comparatively small figure when you consider the $3.50 that the American Cancer Society spent during 1952 on the care of cancer patients in this county. No, you can readily see that a donation to the cancer drive is one which pays big returns. If you have already done so, you may wish to consider the Nicholas County Cancer Drive, part of the money is being used on research to find possible preventive and curative methods. Give today—that someone may live tomorrow.
