Era Of The Common Man

The Daily Review, Clifton Forge, Virginia, recently devoted an editorial to a story which has been making the rounds in England. Here's the way it goes:

An agitator was addressing a crowd of workers. When the era of the common man arrives, he told them, "You will enjoy the pleasures of the rich. You will walk down Park Lane wearing a top hat."

A listener interrupted to say, "He'd rather have a cloth cap."

The agitator said the man could keep the cap if he wished and continued: "You'll wear a cutaway coat and pinstripe trousers."

Again the listener broke in, saying, "He'm more comfortable in corduroys."

The agitator, annoyed, said that would be permissible, and went on: "And you'll ride to work in a Rolls Royce."

Once more he was interrupted: 'He'd rather use me bike."

This time the agitator leaped from the platform and grabbed the man by the sleeve. "Listen you," he said, "come the era of the common man and you'll do what you are blooming well ordered to do!"

That's an amusing story. It is also much more. It is a perfect commentary on what inevitably happens under socialism, communism or any other form of dictatorship—you do what you are ordered to do.

Social Security Tax Rise

In a recent syndicated column, Robert S. Allen states the President Eisenhower strongly desires to block the automatic jump in the social security tax that is scheduled for the first of the year, and that Chairman Reed of the House Ways and Means Committee has pledged cooperation.

That tax increase, should it come, would offset the prospective income tax reductions for every couple with an income of $3600 a year or less. And there is no need whatsoever for a higher social security tax—the system's reserves are enormous and are still growing.

The American people want and have been promised tax cuts at the earliest possible time.

Only 180 Hunting Licenses Sold Here; Electric Light Plant Has Breakdown

Life on the campus might have been different in the early days of the University of Kentucky but it never was dull. The following items, picked at random from publications both official and non-official, give a pretty good picture of college life during the University's first fifty years.

1869—"No female cooks shall be allowed for any of the clubs on the grounds and wash-women must get husbands or boys to get and return clothes."

1880—"As a rule, the less pocket money allowed by parents or guardians, the better it is for the pupil. When supplies are kept short, the opportunity for contracting vicious habits is correspondingly diminished."

1890—"The use of tobacco for smoking or chewing on any duty, or in the college building, dormitories or dining room, and all profanity and obscenity are forbidden."

1893—"Some mischievous boys obtained a quantity of green paint which they liberally applied to the cannon and to some of the floors, after which they climaxed their sins by painting green stripes on the President's horse."

1900-1910 — "This was the period of peg-leg corduroy trousers, derby hats, and high stiff collars. Skirts were ankle length with Gibson Girl blouses. Only seniors and faculty members were permitted to wear mustaches. Many students and teachers rode bicycles to class."

1912—"The Basketball season of 1912 was one glorious march from start to finish. Not only were we undefeated, but during the entire season not once was an opposing team in the lead."

1913—"When, in the Autumn, the Freshmen arrive at State, naturally, they feel at first, just as if they had reached a strange and unknown land . . . At such a time, the September moon has often seen the upper classmen strut forth with sharpened scissors, to sub the unsuspecting Freshman of his crowning glory."

1914—"This (Freshman caps, red with yellow bottoms) was the means the Seniors had of making genuine college men of us and of divorcing from our minds those independent ideas we brought with us from high school."

FARMS HAVE ELECTRICITY

About 84 percent of farms in Kentucky now have electricity, according to Elwyn S. Holmes, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Kentucky. Although farm labor costs have tripled since 1940, the cost of electricity for farmers using 200 kilowatt hours per month has increased only about 20 percent, said Mr. Holmes.

The northernmost post office in the United States is Penasse, Minnesota, on American Point, a 9-acre island in Lake of the Woods.

'Bear' Facts—

By PAUL BRYANT
UK Football Coach

Kentucky's predominantly native-born football team has finished another season and I'm sure that virtually every one of the million-plus eyewitnesses who saw the boys in action from the stands or on TV sets will agree with me that this was one of the finest.

Personally, I cannot say enough nice things about these great "Comeback Kids." I believe that they are to be complimented highly for accomplishing more with what ability they had than any other football team in history. And I do not refer to just the Tennessee victory, sweet as it was.

This 1953 Kentucky team is one of the finest groups of boys I have ever been privileged to be associated with. They had character, which proves a point I have often mentioned about good homes and good parents being the greatest contributing factors to making a good athlete. They had poise in the face of odds that might easily have overwhelmed less determined men. And they had tremendous spirit and morale. I realize all those things are rather hard to put your finger on and might easily be said of any group, but these young men from every corner of the Commonwealth—from Paducah and Mayfield to Ashland and Lynch, and from Covington to Somerset —have the qualities that will make them fine future citizens and a success in whatever they attempt.

We have had our share of glory already, with astonishing comeback success, capped by a great victory over a traditional rival, but these boys deserve more. I think a bid to play in one of the post-season bowls in their earned right. Such a privilege should not be denied a team that has proven its calibre by staging an exceptionally strong finish against highly-rated opposition and one that stands as one of the finest and most colorful grid aggregations in the land.

Kentucky now has 48 Artificial Breeding Associations with 16,000 members. They own 39 of the finest bulls available and in 1953 will breed 70,000 cows artificially. These associations are contributing immeasurably to the improvement of the dairy industry of the state. They put the best of sires in reach of the smallest farmer. A

ARTHRITIS?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my ankles were set.

Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

Farm Facts

Parity Ratio, the price that farmers receive in relation to what they pay, dropped to 91 in October—the lowest point since May, 1941. After paying operating costs in 1953 their net income will be only 36 per cent of their gross income, the lowest since 1932! The experts believe, however that the worst of the adjustments are over. Farmers, in the meanwhile, should use their utmost care to keep costs to the minimum in 1954 by efficiently using land, labor, machinery and fertilizers.

Harry Young, U. K.'s Agent in Farm Management, makes several suggestions as to practices for improving effeciency in 1954, most of them requiring little or no additional cash outlay. Among these are: (1) plan year's credit needs early, (2) trade work for use of machinery, or consider joint ownership, (3) return all manure and crop residues to the land, (4) use lime and fertilizer in accord with soil tests, (5) use best crop varieties, (6) be on hand at farrowing and calving time, (7) deborn calves at early age, (8) watch market developments and sell when prices are normally high.

• • •

Credit is now recognized as an essential farm tool. It is just as difficult to operate a modern farm without credit as to farm without modern machinery. Like other machinery, credit should be used wisely—abused, it deteriorates rapidly—used with care, it returns good profits and increases in value. Credit may be less available in 1954 than during recent boom years. Farmers themselves will wish to keep their debts to the practical minimum and banks, as well as other credit agencies, will tend to lend with greater caution. Good machinery advice is to put it in good shape before the new cropping season starts. The same applies to credit. See your credit specialist early, your banker, in this case, and go over your credit needs with him—they may need complete overhauling, new parts or minor adjustments.

• • •

Just because a farmer failed to earn a profit in 1953 is no reason why he should not file U. S. Income Tax returns. If his returns show a lost loss in 1953 he can claim a refund on tax paid for 1952 and, if the profit in 1952 does not cover the 1953 loss, he can then carry the remainder forward against net income in coming years. Our best advice is this—pay an accountant to prepare our returns and save money.

• • •

Public law 285, which recently became effective, permits national banks "to make real estate loans secured by first liens upon forest tracts which are properly managed in all respects." Thus Congress again recognized the value of modern forest practices such as selective cutting, reseeding, and fire and insect protection.

Farmers Urged To Stock Fertilizer

The best way to be sure of having fertilizer, especially just the kind wanted, is to buy and store it this fall and winter. So says a statement from the Extension Division, University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

If there is a dry place for storage, farmers are urged to get their fertilizer now. In this way they can get what they want and avoid the rush in the spring. Manufacturers cannot produce and ship during the early spring months all the fertilizer farmers will need next year, says the college.

High Corn Yield In Ohio County

UK County Agent R. D. Ridley reports high corn yields in Ohio county, despite dry weather. Jesse Daniel picked an average of 132 bushels an acre from eight acres; Chester Tichenor produced 120 bushels an acre on 10 acres and Dan Milligan, a 4-H club boy, produced 119 bushels on an acre. Good yields were reported over most of the county, Ridley said.

While much livestock was sold, due to drought, most farmers in Franklin county are keeping their best breeding animals.

UK County Agent Joe Thompson is encouraging Bath county farmers to fence reservoirs and build water tanks.

At the annual meeting of Pendleton county homemakers, pictures were shown of members working on various projects throughout the year.

It is estimated that farmers in Bell county already have fed more than a fourth of their hay.
