CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

God, Spirit, being all-inclusive, the understanding and recognition of Spirit must finally come. This will be brought out in all Christian Science services next Sunday. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "Spirit."

The following selections from the Bible will be read: "Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is God, that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God." (I Corinthians 2:12)

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following: "Material sense never helps mortals to understand Spirit. God. Through spiritual sense only, man comprehends and loves Deity." (p. 481).

The Golden Text is from John (4:24): "God is a Spirit: and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth."

ON RADIO PROGRAM

Frank C. Henry and Charles T. Whaley, local soil conservation district supervisors and M. W. Belt, local soil conservation agent, were heard in a broadcast over radio station WLEX, Lexington, at 12:15 last Thursday on the Town and Country program. Each was interviewed briefly on the development of soil conservation practices in Nicholas county.

More Sheep May Be Raised In Kentucky

The probability that farmers will raise more sheep this year is mentioned in the annual outlook report of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. The reason is that sheep are in a more favorable position than are other livestock.

Sheep numbers declined last year due to drought. Farmers cancelled their orders for western ewes, and many sheep were sold off.

Lamb prices next spring are expected to average about the same as a year ago, but should be higher in the second half of the year than they were in the same period in 1952, the report states.

The price of wool will likely continue at about the present level unless the support price is changed.

Jesus Teaches God's Grace

THOSE WHO SERVE WIN HIGH PLACE IN KINGDOM

Scripture—Matthew 20.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

AT FIRST glance it seems that the opening verses of the 20th chapter of Matthew are difficult to explain on lines of justice and righteousness. All who read will be inclined to think that the laborers in the parable should be worked all day long should have been paid as much as those who came at the last hour and were rewarded just like the others.

The editor of our office is very helpful in explaining the meaning of the parable, however, so let us refer to his words. The reason Jesus told this story was a rebuke to Peter, who, in the last chapter we studied, asked "Behold, we have forsaken all, and followed Thee: what shall we have therefore?"

Jesus said that the kingdom of heaven was like a householder who, in the morning, hired laborers to work in his vineyard for a penny a day. The "penny" is interpreted as a shilling, which according to Dr Wilbur M Smith, would be worth the equivalent of one dollar now.

Going to the market place about nine that same morning and finding men idle, he hired them also to work in his vineyard. About three in the afternoon he went again to the same and at five an hour before sunset when work ceased for the day, hired still others he found idle, asking them, "Why stand ye here all the day idle?"

When the time came to pay the laborers, he gave them all the same amount. Each received what he had worked all day were expected to have given more than those who had worked for a short time, but naturally complained at this. Those last hired were glad to get the work and the money.

The lesson and heart of the story is found in the words of the householder, "Is it not lawful for me to do what I will with mine own? Is thine eye evil because I am good?" Jesus was teaching that God's grace is free to all who will accept it. No one can earn it by his own merit. Those who have been in the kingdom for many years should not be envious of those who enter it late in life. Those who have been Christians for many years should not be envious of those who have been converted only a few days or hours before they die. All are alike recipients of God's grace.

Nancy's not afraid of policemen. You can tell that by her open expression of friendliness as she looks up at the officer helping her across the street.

In some countries the law is not so kind. It is not used, as in America to protect the individual. It is not made for the masses, but for the few to do with as they please.

In our great land you'll see policemen at nearly every city school, not to correct, but to protect your children at the street crossings.

That is because our country and its laws have been founded on Christianity.

Support your church and give your children continued protection and the freedom to live, learn, and worship as they please.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

State Takes Part In Church Program

Churches of all denominations and faiths in communities up to 5,000 population in Kentucky, along with churches in 12 other southern states, are participating in a town and country church development program.

According to Ralph J. Ramsey of the University of Kentucky, who is chairman of the program in this state, work of pastors and congregations from April 1, 1952, to March 31, 1953, will be evaluated and $12,200 distributed in prizes.

In each of the 13 states, five churches will receive from $100 to $500 each, one being named Church of the Year. All churches showing outstanding progress will be awarded certificates of recognition.

The Rural Church of the Year in the South will be chosen from among the Churches of the Year in 13 states, and will receive an additional $500, making a total contribution of $1,000 for this church.

Purposes of the program are to encourage and recognize the development of more adequate church programs to stimulate participation in better community development activities and to foster the world-wide mission of the church.

The program will supplement the present one in Kentucky of giving citation awards to outstanding rural churches, Mr. Ramsey said.
