Financial Statement Law Upheld By Court

Local governmental units must publish a complete financial statement of transactions at least annually, the Court of Appeals held in affirming a prior ruling of Franklin Circuit Judge William B. Ardery.

The Appellate Court—in an opinion by Judge Bert T. Combs—held that the scope of funds received must be noted, together with the name of each person who received money, the purpose and the amount received. It held that in case of regular monthly salaried employes that the entire sum received in a year could be listed as a single item; that for capital outlay purposes, items might be grouped into one item.

It was within the competency of the Legislative Branch of government to make such a provision as the law," observed Judge Combs "and it is not the function of the courts to determine its wisdom or unwisdom in the law and should be observed."
