The arrangements for holding the meet here were decided upon at a meeting of the directors last Wednesday afternoon in Mr. Womack's law offices here. Some 30 directors attended the meeting.

The hunt will be held October 13-16 and a full program is being planned including the daily field trials, bench show and dances.

Oil Men Hold Meeting At Cynthiana, Elect Officers

The regular biennial meeting of the Third County Petroleum Industries Committees in this area was held in Cynthiana last week.

Members of the Nicholas, Harrison and Robertson county committees attended.

Mr. R. F. Cox, chairman of the Harrison county committee presided and Mr. Herbert L. Clay, state executive secretary of the P.I.C. was the principal speaker.

Clay Is Speaker

Mr. Clay advocated an accelerated five year construction program for Kentucky's highways, and was also critical of the low top rate pay which Kentucky now gives its Highway engineers.

Mr. Clay stated that these men can command much higher salaries in private industry and therefore the state can neither hire nor hold sufficient young engineers to staff the highway department.

He advocated that the next general assembly revise these pay rates so the state can attract and hold competent and sufficient staff of engineers in the highway department.

Endorse Program

The meeting also endorsed the newly formed organization "Project Adequate Roads for Kentucky" which will work with state officials to better the road program in Kentucky.

A color film, "Alerted for Action" was shown which outlined all the steps in enactment of good laws and just how public opinion can be effective in passing good legislation and blocking bad legislation.

The Kentucky P.I.C. this year will stress maintenance of reasonable gasoline taxes; sound highway planning; fair local business taxes; stamping out gasoline tax evasion; product brand choice by motorists on limited access highways; urge federal government to leave taxing of gasoline to the state; and to cooperate fully for good government.

An election of officers for the county committees followed the program. Everett M. Smith, local Standard Oil agent, was elected chairman of the Nicholas County P.I.C; Ben Pumphrey, local Gulf Products agent, vice chairman; and Stewart Moore, local Shell agent, secretary.
