Blades of Bluegrass

By Jack W.3d

The Day Book used by Lexington's old Phoenix Hotel more than 150 years ago was given to the University of Kentucky library recently by William Scott Snead of St. Louis, and a glimpse at the yellowed pages of the ledger reveals some interesting facts relating to the habits of those who frequented the inn.

The account of Henry Clay, whose famous "julips"—political gatherings — were held at the Phoenix, starts on Page 27 and is carried forward to Page 66. Items charged to the Great Pacificator's account included lunch, supper, wine, sundries, bounce, punch, brandy, and beer. On Feb. 14, 1801, he borrowed about $5 from the hotel.

In a letter accompanying the Day Book Mr. Snead writes "The account of Charles A. Scott . . . probably was General Charles Scott one of my forebears appears on Page 39. Since there is only one entry, he apparently was more abstemious than some of the other gentlemen, or else he could pay in cash, which I rather doubt.

"On Page 48 is an account of Charles W. Byrd no doubt related to the Byrd family of Viggnia. He used to ride over, as the entry charge, breakfast for his horse, did not gully indulged in food and drink but also used to obtain cash from the hotel as evidenced by entries in the account.

"A couple at that time was apparently fourth three and a third dollars a-day—5% more than the two dollars and eighty cents it is worth now. When Mr. Byrd's account got too high, he used to send his negro man, Ned, to work it out, as shown by the credit side of the account."

First entry in the Day Book was dated May 2, 1797. Beverages and sundries" appeated to be the most popular items dispensed by the tavern, and supper could be had for three or four shillings (a shilling is one-twentieth of a pound). Room rent for three months cost one ledger 11 pounds five shillings and another paid the inn four pounds one shilling for "keeping of horse 9 weeks." Other interesting entries: "To cash sent you at cards," "whiskey and oats," "Cash paid washerwoman, two shillings."

Items bought by the inn included 33½ gallons whiskey (six pounds 14 shillings), one barrel beer (two pounds eight shillings), and two pair men's shoes (12 shillings).

The UK library, now one of the largest in the South, contains more than 600,000 books and manuscripts.

Present Mayor And Council Air Their Accomplishments Of Past Years

TO THE CITIZENS OF CARLISLE, KENTUCKY

Prompted by a sincere desire, based upon our civic pride in our community, to see our City continue to grow and prosper and to keep and maintain the enviable position which it now occupies among the State Municipalities of comparable size and class; we, the undersigned Mayor and Councilmen would offer to serve you during the ensuing term and have so announced.

In coming to you, with this message, we are not offering any catalogue of promises, but we would like to report briefly upon our stewardship in office, during the several years last past, and to review some of records of performances, in the public interest, of which we are very, proud we feel justifiably so.

Relative to our water system, we will say that following the water shortage during the year of 1948, we, under the competent advice and guidance of the best consulting engineers obtainable, had the dam of the lower or larger lake grouted for the purpose of sealing off much leakage, that was known erroneously to exist, and also had many thousands of cubic yards of silt and earth removed therefrom, and since both operations were highly satisfactory and efficient, it resulted in the impounding and maintenance of very great increased amounts of water and this has helped us very materially in the year of autumnal drought which has plagued so many cities with acute water shortages.

During the present year we have had the spillway on the lower dam raised and also had the dam of the upper lake grouted for leaks and also completely cleaned of all earth and silt and as a result of these improvements we now have capacity for thirty-eight millions of gallons of water when the rains come and this will we hope prove more nearly adequate for our needs, under normal conditions, for some time to come. Our water system is operated on a highly efficient manner in full conformity with all the requirements imposed by The State Board of Health, it ranks as one of the out standing systems in the state, for its consistent reliability of purity. Also our system has very high pressure in the mains thereby assuring adequate service at all times, to all parts of the city and suburbs.

Our Fire Department Equipment is adequate and of the latest and best type and is being added to at frequent intervals, and we have a splendid Volunteer Fire Department, all of which together with the unusually strong pressure in the water mains has very materially maigated our fire losses, so that we enjoy an insurance rate, that, is very low in cost and which is only equaled in one or two other municipalities.

Our City Gas Distribution System, now in its third year of operation, has succeeded in a measure far beyond our fondest hopes and dreams, and we do not believe that any one utility ever came to any one community where it gained greater favor in the same period of time than has this one.

While benefiting all classes, availing themselves of its services, it has been an especial blessing to those unable to handle heavy fuels, to the sick, to the aged and to the infirm.

We now have a few less than 350 installations in service and the revenue bonds issued to pay for the system, together with the interest thereon is being promptly taken care of and the bonds redeemed as they become due.

Some few years ago we turned Main and Broadway streets over to the state and they are now maintained by The Highway Department and Trafficality Controlled by the state. This has proved this to have been a splended deal from many angles, the most important of which is the fact that its results allows more apportioning of revenues to the remainder of the city streets.

Many of our streets have recently had repairs and others are being or will be treated as soon as same can be done under sound business procedures.

Some of the worst sewer conditions in the city have been taken care of and eliminated in accordance with State Health Board Approval and to their satisfaction as well as that of the public.

Our system of brush and trash removal and street cleaning is operating at normal efficiency.

Another item of betterment and added income to the city has resulted from the remodeling of the city building during the year of 1947, and the installation of four living apartments on the second floor, the same having been only an attic room for many years,) and from which apartments there has since been derived approximately 70% of the cost thereof.

Parking meters were installed within the city in January of 1949, on a basis that the manufacturer would accept 50% of their intake in payment for same until they were fully paid for, and the final payment on same was made on March 25th, 1952, and since that time all the revenues therefrom have been placed in the general expense fund of the city for use in the Street and Traffic Control Departments as is required by a State Law Governing the operation of parking meters.

We feel the meters have done a great amount of good in the facilitating of easy and ready parking and in relieving parking congestion and are proving popular for the most part, with both the City and County Motorists.

The city, as has been its custom at several intervals during the last few years is now co-operating with several civic minded as well vitally interested business men and residents in a creek cleaning campaign or operation on Town Branch, which flows through the city, in an effort to lessen the danger from possible flood conditions.

Some few years ago the Council centralized most of the various City Departments and Services in their own rooms in the City Building and we believe that it has resulted in closer co-operation and improved services and has generally received the blessing of the public.

For several years we have formulated a home for the Nicholas County Health Department in our City Building with no charge for same save a reasonable share of the heating expense.

For several years we have contributed, within the scope of our limited to the operation of the Nicholas County Ladies Rest Room, The Nicholas County Memorial Library, The Nicholas County Youth's Fair, The Cancer Fund and many other causes too numerous for mention here, and we have always tried to be most co-operative and helpful to all new enterprises deemed to be helpful to all the community.

We have aimed at being neighborly with our nearby suburban areas in extending some of our utilities services into their areas.

In a final summation we would say that our city enjoyed one of its greatest building booms, and one of the most expensive, in its history, and yet all available rooms are in constant occupancy and more people are coming into our city to accept employment in the factory and in the various merchandising establishments and shops.

These many city improvements which we here bring to your attention have been accomplished without any appreciable increase in property assessments or taxes so that we still have a minimum rate for each as compared with many communities We have accomplished much without ever having to ask for a blanket raise in assessments which would result in possibly very high taxes.

We believe that our years of work, and study and experience peculiarly fits us for continuance in the positions we now hold and that our record of past performances is your best assurance that your municipal affairs, if again entrusted to us will always receive the best and most careful attention and that every effort will be continually exerted to the end that our city may continue to grow, to improve, in all respects, and to prosper.

Faithfully and sincerely yours,
Mayor—W. C. Talbert. Councilmen—Thomas C. Johnson, William Harper, Joe Scott, George Gaffin, Charles Hopkins, Roy S. Hamm.

Neighbors Take Over

When Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vice of Fleming county were injured in an automobile accident, neighbors took over their farm operations. They plowed the tobacco and corn, put up hay and housed tobacco, in addition to doing the milking and other chores.

Edwin K. Newell, assistant county agent, said he counted 23 men cutting and housing tobacco on the Vice place.
