CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

How man reflects spiritually all the qualities of God, expressed in daily living, will be brought out in all Christian Science services next Sunday. The title of the Lesson-Sermon is "Man."

Selections from the Bible include the following verse from Psalms (100:3): "Know ye that the LORD he is God: it is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are His people, and the sheep of His pasture."

Among the correlative readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following: "In Science man is the offspring of Spirit . . . Spirit is his primitive and ultimate source of being. God is his Father and Life is the law of his being." (p. 63)

The Golden Text is from Genesis (1:26): "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness."

Deaths

Mrs. Frances Feeback Young

Funeral services for Mrs. Frances Feeback Young, 70, who died last Wednesday at her home at the Feeback Hotel, were held at 2 p.m. Friday in the Matthers-Sherman chapel with Rev. G. W. Townsend officiating. Burial was in the Carlisle cemetery.

Pall bearers were Harry P. Cheatham, John and Walter Feeback, Everett M. Smith, Eugene Neal and Walter Wyrick.

Mrs. Young had been ill for the past three years, suffering a fracture of the hip from which she never recovered. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Feeback and a member of the Methodist church.

Besides her husband, George Young, who has been an invalid for the past four years, she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Bevie Feeback and Mrs. Herman Fackelman, both of the hotel, and a nephew, Harry P. Cheatham, of Columbia, Tenn. and the following cousins, John Feeback, Carlisle, Walter Feeback, Madison, Ind., and Miss Carrie Feeback, Maysville.

Gladys, song leaders. Kenneth McCorkle, Glasgow, Ky., Evangelist.

Homemakers Tour Homes In Meade County

Homemakers in Meade county completed three years of study in home furnishings with a county-wide tour of selected homes to note the adoption of many of the recommendations made. Miss Vivian Curnutt, UK home furnishings specialist, called attention to pleasing furniture arrangement, convenient schemes, refinished furniture, chair seating, handmade lampshades, pictures that homemakers had framed and hung, hooked rugs, selection of bought rugs, floor finishes and window treatment.

The tour included the homes of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Watts, Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Woodrick, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sipes, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Seymour, and the apartment of Miss Alice M. Pile, home demonstration agent. Forty women went on the tour.

Farmers In Russell See Broiler Houses

Broiler houses on the farms of L. J. Wade and Garnett Smith in the Foothill community were inspected by 300 farmers attending the annual Russell county field day. The houses are 38 by 144 feet and 38x72 feet, and represent the progress of broiler raising in the county.

The farmers also saw the farm of Lester Brothers, a Soil Conservation Master Pasturemen in 1952. Lyle Leonard and Louis J. Bayer of the University of Kentucky spoke on the development of pastures and dairying.

WASHINGTON MARCH of EVENTS

Your Letters to Congressman Receive Personal Attention

Most Salons Pay Close Heed To "Way Mail Is Running"

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Do letters to or mail of Congress ever get read? This question is asked frequently, and the answer is yes, all letters do get personal attention, although not always by the one, or representative to whom they are addressed.

A lawmaker may get one or two sacks of mail on a highly controversial issue. In this case, staff aides will read all the letters, analyze them and give a report to the boss. The more pertinent letters or those with a fresh catch-phrase that may prove helpful in debate will be called to the lawmaker's personal attention.

Congressmen are little impressed with form letters on any issue. These are likely to come from pressure groups whose views are well known. What counts in a personally-penned letter, or even a typewritten one which is clearly the sole work of the author.

Most congressmen consider the way the mail is running before making up their minds on how to vote on a disputed issue.

Senator, Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas receives an average of 400 letters a day. He says they "do much to keep me in touch with the men and women I represent and serve as a guide in helping me chart my course."

Most lawmakers agree with Johnson when he says, "I am glad to get all those letters."

● HAPPY HOMECOMING—The end of the fighting in Korea put denate and House members in a happy frame of mind for the congressional recess.

None of the lawmakers is expected to be brash enough to claim any personal credit for achievement of the truce but it will enable them to point with pride rather than view with alarm.

Farm bloc congressmen probably face the toughest fence-mending task of all. Declining farm incomes, the drought and the uncertainty about the Eisenhower administration's price support programs mean midwestern congressmen from rural areas will be confronted by a number of acute questions.

House members from areas where there are large foreign-born populations were given some last minute ammunition with congressional enactment of a bill permitting the entry of over 200,000 iron curtain refugees.

Big city congressmen face their toughest task in the fact that government rent controls in many areas are expiring and the cost of living has continued at record high levels.

All in all, the nation's legislators, who are frequently politicians as well, may be glad to return to Washington next January where they can become statesmen rather than a guy who runs for office in 1954.

● STAMP LICKING—The Eisenhower administration has given up on getting congressional approval of its request for higher postal rates. Despite assurances that the measure will be considered again when Congress reconvenes in January, there will be even less chance of passage in 1954 than there was this year.

In fact, the administration decided to seek the raise bike this year because it knew it wouldn't stand a chance if it waited until the second session of the 83rd Congress—with the elections just around the corner. So it submitted its request rather later in the first session, hoping for the best. It felt that cutting the Post Office deficit by $240 million a year would help considerably in its budget-balancing efforts.

Bit opposition to the bill was strong, both among Democrats and Republicans, many of whom considered even a one-cent boost in fraternal out-of-town mailing charges and in air mail stamps as just another tax.

Next year, there'll be even less of a desire to pass the postal bill.

FAMILIAR SIGHT—At the Carlisle VFW horse shows in past years is the sparkling trio pictured above which will compete this year in the Kentucky State Fair Horse Show. As Finley Turnouts will highlight the opening and closing nights of the horse show, Sept. 13 thru 19 at Louisville, this Cincinnati entry will be among the principal contenders. Hoosier Firelite, driven by Jimmy Willman, accompanied by Cookie Delott, Burlington, Ky., have won these crowd-catching events at numerous shows in Kentucky and the Mid-West, as they did in the local shows.

MAPLE GROVE

Many Fall Jobs In Home Gardens

Prof. N. R. Elliott of the University of Kentucky horticulture department reminds home gardeners that September is the time to do several early fall tasks.

1. Spray monthly roses for diseases and rake and remove all leaves that fall from the plants.

2. Re-pot house plants that are to be kept in the house all winter. Use soil from the vegetable garden with a little sand mixed with it.

3. Mark trees for later transplanting that are growing in the woods. They are easy to identify now when they still have their leaves.

4. Transplant evergreens.

5. Plant bulbs in late September, October and November.

VET REP DUE HERE

Mr. James C. Barnett, contact representative of the Kentucky Ex-Service Men's Board will be in Carlisle Tuesday at the court house to assist veterans and their dependents with claims for benefits due them as a result of their military service. He will be in the circuit clerk's office from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Mrs. Lewis S. Robbins and son, Capt. Walter K. Robbins, had for dinner guests Tuesday, Miss Kathryn King and Mrs. Robert Nelson of Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Olmstead and daughter of Lexington have purchased a home on Dorsey avenue and have moved here.

FIREWORKS RULING

Whether sales of fireworks are at wholesale or retail, depends on the particular facts of each transaction and not upon a dealer's sign—"wholesale"—the Attorney General's office advised the State Fire Marshal.

Kentucky law forbids the sale of fireworks at retail, but does not prohibit transactions at wholesale.

"It is of no consequence that roadside dealers display signs stating fireworks are being sold at wholesale only," said the ruling. "It would be sufficient evidence to support conviction to show that a number of sales in comparatively small quantities were made to several customers and that the purchasers were the ultimate consumers rather than the merchants themselves."

TODAY'S Menu

Three Salads Starring Melon

By ALICE DENHOFF

PINE fresh fruits and vegetables are now gracing our markets. So make use of this bounty, serving fresh fruits and vegetables at every meal.

Melons as a rule are marvelous, but how about preparing delightful dishes that use melon as a major ingredient, a Melon-Tomato Aspic, for instance?

Melon-Tomato Aspic

To serve 6 with a salad that works out to about 101 calories per serving, exclusive of dressing, combine 3 c. stewed fresh ripe tomatoes, ½ tsp. salt, 1 tsp. grated lemon rind, 2 tsp. grated onion, stalk celery, coarsely chopped, and one bay leaf. Simmer 25 minutes. Strain. Soften 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin in ½ c. cold water. Stir into hot mixture. Measure and add enough water to make 3 c. Cool until mixture begins to thicken.

Form a 5-cm. pkg cream cheese into small balls. Fold cheese balls, one c. melon cubes and ½ c. each shredded green pepper and chopped celery into gelatin mixture. Turn into 1½-qt. mold that has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm. Serve garnished with lettuce and water cress.

Next, a delightful and different salad that has about 88 calories per serving, the recipe for 6.

Wash and separate one head lettuce. Scoop out melon into bite-sized chunks. Bring to refrigerator. Peel and seed one medium-sized cantaloupe. Cut into small wedges. Peel and cut 3 fresh ripe tomatoes into eighths. Place in salad bowl with lettuce and ½ c. finely sliced green pepper. Pour on ½ c. French dressing; toss. Should be served at once.

Here's a pleasing variation on the chicken salad theme, the recipe to serve 6, each serving having about 146 calories per serving.

Chicken Salad

Combine 1½ c. sliced cooked chicken, ½ c. chopped celery, 2 tbsp. chopped pimiento, tbsp. minced onion, ½ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. black pepper and ¼ c. mayonnaise. Chill.

Cut one small cantaloupe in half, peel and seed, then slice into crescents one inch wide.

Place iceberg lettuce on salad plates. Arrange cantaloupe crescents petal-fashion on lettuce. Sprinkle with juice of one lemon. Place mound of chicken salad in center of each plate. Top with additional lettuce.
