Soil Conservation Work in County
(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles prepared by Nicholas County Soil Conservation District.)

Cassidy
By Mr. T. H. Vize
The Nicholas County Soil Conservation District has been operating for 10 years. Some of its accomplishments should be noted with pride by anyone interested in the future of our agricultural resources.

Home Accidents
More than 460 deaths in Kentucky in 1933 were the result of home accidents, according to Miss M. C. Hagman, home management specialist of the University of Kentucky. In addition, there were approximately 69,000 injuries, many of which seriously incapacitated some member of the family.

Soil Conservation
The District, in cooperation with the U. S. C. and the Green Pasture Commission, has nearly every year sponsored some type of pasture improvement program in the county. In other words, 50% of the Nicholas County farmers are already taking advantage of the valuable services offered them free of charge.

Lamb Prices May Average As High As The Past Year
While spring lamb prices may go as high as they did a year ago, the average price for the season as a whole should average as high as in 1933, says the annual report of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. A few factors probably will go to make this true, but increased competition from beef and poultry may offset any decrease in numbers. It is noted, prices are thus not expected to reflect fully the increased production of lambs and mutton.

Arranges Kitchen For Modern Living
Mrs. Walter Scott, a member of the Shurgbarg Negro Home-makers Club in both counties, has used the information learned in her class for the improvements she has made in her home.
