N.C.H.S. Student Receives Excellent Rating On Talk Given At Northern Ky. F.F.A. Meet

The following is a talk by Donnell Lynam, student at Nicholas County high school, which was rated excellent in the public speaking contest at the Northern Ky. F.F.A. Day held in Cynthiana April 1.

Leadership is the ability to get before, to guide, and to show others the way. The ability to become of agricultural leadership is one of the primary aims of the F.F.A. A good leader must hold the respect of his following. Leadership spells the difference between a haphazard and a functioning program, dull and lively events, inertia and teamwork.

Whenever people get together for any course of action, there must be a leader. As a student in high school, as a member in the F.F.A. and later as a member of the community we will find many situations calling for effective leadership. A knowledge of the requirements of a good leader can be very helpful to us, not only in situations where one of us must lead, but also in those in which we must select a good leader for our group. This knowledge also makes us good followers. Our work in the F.F.A. is divided into committees. As chairmen of these committees we learn effective leadership.

Leadership is not necessarily the result of election to office or appointment to a committee. Real leadership is a position of respect held by an individual in a group. A good leader assumes responsibility.

We youth of America must prepare ourselves to participate in the active political life of the nation. While still in school, we must learn of our great heritage, make it a part of our belief, and prepare to uphold it.

As stated so well in our creed, 'I believe in leadership from ourselves and respect from others. I believe in my own ability to work efficiently and think clearly, with such knowledge and skill as I can secure, and in the ability of organized farmers to serve our own and the public interest in marketing the products of our farms.' We can safeguard those rights against practices and policies that are unfair."

We young people of America have a definite future, and in no anywhere have a better opportunity than us to learn of our basic values and principles which will help give the sacred spirit of freedom. We have ever inherited such a glorious tradition.

Either now or in the future, youth is the beneficiary of almost every decision of national policy made by our government. Our job will be the obligation of creating, amending, and clarifying the policies of our day. And to do this wisely and justly requires wisdom, courage and understanding.

The more we young people concern ourselves with public affairs the more we apply our vision, vigor, and intelligence to public problems and the selection of the best public officers the more certain it will be that we will have good government at every level—local, state and national.

I feel that we future farmers of America can meet the challenge of the present day. We dwell in the present but we forever look ahead. We cannot know what life holds. We can only fit ourselves to meet it, conquer it, and enjoy it.
