

Homemakers Visit National Capital

Forty-two members of seven homemakers clubs in Kentucky county have a grand appreciation of the national capital as they passed Washington, D. C. Traveling by special railway coach, they had a busy time in their trip to take them to several of the most important buildings and monuments of the national capital.

Tid Bits Of Kentucky Folklore

By Dr. Gordon Wilson

"ROUGH TALK" Though profanity was practically unknown among our Scotch-Irish ancestors, even in the days of the Revolution, it is in this latter-day America that profanity has become a habit of the masses.
