Control Is The Only Solution

The Secretary of Agriculture has been authorized to reduce marketing orders on barley to $1.50 per bushel, with the result that the price of the crop will be reduced to $1.50 per bushel. This is a serious situation for the growers of this crop, as the price of the crop is the only source of income for many of them.

Some persons already have formed an opinion, that if the new law is not approved, the program will revert to the 1934 act. Under terms of the act in a referendum, to be held this month or there will be no barley support program at all for this year and consequently no controls whatsoever.

This legislation was designed only to bring production more in line with demand. Its necessity was brought about, by overproduction of the commodity which had resulted in a week-long crash forcing that such action be taken of this segment of the agricultural economy to a service.

These farmers who have lived through the severe experience of offering their produce on an open market under controls and a government support program know full well what to expect for their crop under such conditions. They have only to compare their average of last year with that of any year when the controls were in effect to arrive at a reasonable estimate.

The only way that farmers of the tobacco-producing section have any measure of assurance of preventing overproduction is to accept controls which have been provided. They are there for their own good, and they are there for the good of the tobacco industry, and the rest of those in the barley growing areas would appreciate their doing so.

The question they should ask themselves before going to the polls to vote on the forthcoming election is: How many of the things can I buy that I want if tobacco drops to 10 cents a bushel? None. I can't buy tobacco. I can't buy anything else that I want if tobacco drops to 10 cents a bushel.

None. I can't buy tobacco. I can't buy anything else that I want if tobacco drops to 10 cents a bushel. Those who say they would favor the program that would allow the tobacco growers to produce as much as they want, are those who would favor the program that would allow the tobacco growers to produce as much as they want.
