Stop and Think Before Mad Dash

If you like rural living and have a sense of pride in your community, you won't dash off to ride in your community's Christmas shopping the larger city to do your Christmas shopping without giving something for the folks who work for you. You'd do good to do some of the things that the merchants who are helping you and making it so easy for you to live in a rural community.

Every fall raising campaign brings calls on the local business firms. They are very generous in helping. They are the ones who give you the things that you need. They are the ones who are making it possible for you to live in a rural community. They are the ones who are making it possible for you to live in a rural community.

Just what is your measure of civic pride?—The Kentucky Standard, Bardonia

Winter Care Of Chickens Gets Results

Produce specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics offer the following suggestions for winter care of chickens:

1. Flocks should be kept in a well-ventilated house.
2. Keep grain as well as mash before the flock. Be sure the mash is maintaining body weight.
3. Those who check each egg get more high priced winter eggs.
4. If you can get your chickens to lay in the winter, they will lay in the summer.
5. The recommendation for a heavy grain before the flock at all times is optional. It will be satisfactory if production is low.
6. Hand-feeding of grain to each point would rather than buy several pounds. In some places better cover birds is preferred.
