Readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Substance" will include the following passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: (335:12) "Spirit is the only substance; the invisible and indestructible eternal God. Things spiritual and eternal are substantial. Things material and temporal are unsubstantial."

The indestructible nature of spiritual substance is shown forth in selections to be read from the Bible, including the following: "Know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it" (Eccl. 3:14 to 2d).

The Golden Text is from John (6:27) "Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for him hath God the Father sealed."

Canning Best Way To Preserve Whole Tomatoes

Canning is still the best way of preserving whole tomatoes, says Mrs. Pearl Haak, food specialist at the University of Kentucky. They are the one vegetable that does not call for pressure canning, and may be packed in jars, hot or cold, before the jars are processed in the water bath, she said.

Use ripe, perfect tomatoes. Dip them in boiling water for a half minute, then into cold water to loosen skins. Cut out stem ends. Pack whole or halved tomatoes into clean jars and gently press to fill spaces. Fill pints to within ½ inch from the top; quarts, 1 inch. Add ½ teaspoon of salt to a pint jar, 1 teaspoon to a quart. Wipe jar rim clean and adjust lid.

Have hot water, but not boiling, in water bath canner. Put filled jars on rack in the canner. Add boiling water to bring water 2 inches above jar tops. Cover and bring water to boiling point. Process pint jars, 35 minutes; quart jars, 45 minutes.

Tomato juice may be success- fully frozen, and does not take the place of whole tomatoes would in winter. Wash fresh, vine-ripened to- matoes. Cut in quarters. Cook about 5 to 10 minutes. Press through a sieve and add salt, ½ teaspoon per quart. Pour into containers and allow ½ inch head space for pints, 1 inch for quarts. Seal and freeze.

Write to your home agent or to the Experiment Station at Lexington for Circular 440 and "Home Freezing of Foods," Circular 527.

Clark Family Changes Home

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bush, members of the Farm and Home Development project, report that they have been carrying out some of the improvements which they decided their home needed. They bought new floors, linoleum for the kitchen and a ball age. Screening a large side porch, building a clothes closet, papering rooms and painting woodwork were recent improvements. Drapery was given the old house when the original shutters were repaired and replaced. Other improvements include built-in cabinets in the kitchen, a bath- room, refinished floors, landscaping, driveway, an orchard, and the exterior of the house painted, said Mrs. Lucille F. Warren, U.K. home demonstration agent.

In addition to general farming, the Bushes are raising 2,000 turkeys for market, the tobacco acre- house serving as a poultry house for the young birds.

Weekly Recipe

The smart housewife makes frequent use of sour cream in cooking, says Mrs. Pearl Haak, specialist on foods at the University of Kentucky. When added to meat during cooking, it tenderizes and improves the meat's flavor. It may also be served as a sauce over meat, as in the following recipe.

Vienna Steak

½ lb. ground beef
½ lb. ground veal
1½ t salt
¼ t paprika
½ t celery salt
Few gratings nutmeg
1 t lemon juice
1 t minced onion
1 egg, beaten
3/4 c sour cream
Mix first thoroughly all ingredients except sour cream. Beating well. Form into thin cakes. Brown cakes over moderate heat in deep thick. Fry as hamburg steak. When done, remove to serving dish and pour cream to drippings in skillet. Heat and pour over meat cakes. Serve with buttered noodles. Serves 6.

Every housewife likes a few tasty chopped pickle in her storage shelves. Mrs. Pearl Haak suggests the following for those who like late garden vegetables. Vegetables should be chopped, then measured.

Pottsfield Pickle

½ qts. onions
1 qt. green tomatoes
1 t cinnamon
½ lb celery
1 sweet red peppers
4 T salt
1½ c sugar
½ t cloves
½ t cinnamon
½ t ground mustard
2 c vinegar
Sprinkle vegetables and put them through a food chopper, using a medium cutter. Add salt and let stand over night. Add spices, sugar and vinegar, and boil for 20 minutes, stirring frequently. Pour into hot sterilized jars, seal according to type of lid and process 15 minutes at simmering temperature, 180 degrees. Complete seal and store.

For other pickle recipes, see your home demonstration agent.

FHA Title I Insurance Repaired

FHA's Title I home modernization and repair, under searching investigation one year ago, has itself been modernized and repaired.

This is the judgment of the National Better Business Bureau, Inc., of New York City, reflected in a letter made public July 19, 1955 by FHA Commissioner, Norman Mason, and Cyrus B. Sweet, Director of the Title I program.

They quoted Allen E. Bacman, Executive Vice President of the National Better business Bureau, as saying there has been a marked decrease in complaints against Title I repairs in the FHA improvement program during the past year.

"Leo A. Meagher Managing Director of the Better Business Bureau in Louisville states that there has been a decided decrease in complaints against Title I repair real users.

"Both the Title I program home owners are able to borrow up to $2,500 from banks or lending institutions to be paid back in monthly installments over periods ranging up to three years.

Government investigation last year disclosed that some unscrupulous contractors and salesmen were making false claims and misrepresentations in high pressure campaigns to sell home improvement field to home owners. Many persons were being duped into doing jobs that were unnecessary or worthless, or into paying far more than the work was worth, and could follow these simple rules to avoid being taken, FHA Director Cyrus B. Sweet advises:

1. Do business only with reliable dealers. If in doubt, check with the Better Business Bureau or your bank.

2. Insist upon a written contract specifying everything that is to be done and the type of materials to be used by substituting on the terms or equal used in the contract.

3. Avoid being overcharged by getting several bids on any re- pairs or improvements you want. Compare the work and prices.

4. Refuse to do business with anyone who says he is going to be in your neighborhood and can do your home as a model to sell to others from, or offers other special inducements.

A Sign Completion Certificate only if work is 100% completed and only if the work is satisfactory.

Some Fertilizers More Popular

Sale of mixed fertilizers with more units of plant foods are increasing rapidly over straight materials and those having fewer units of plant foods, according to Boyd Poundstone, head of the Feed and Fertilizer department at the University of Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

He cited the case of 5-10-15 which was unheard of five years ago, yet today is the leading fertilizer with 70,000 tons sold. The second most important grade, 1-12-12, with 40,000 tons sold. No more than doubled its tonnage sale.

Grades formerly important, but now not recommended, have shown a rapid decline for example grade 6-8-6, which at one time sold close to 100,000 tons per year, now sells for around 10,000 tons be reported.

Grades recommended for less than 70 percent of total sales four years ago, now make up more than seven-tenths of the total.

Records further reveal that fertilizer tonnage reported to the Experiment Station are more popular than tonnages reported to the United Seventy percent of the fertilizer tonnage bought by farmers in the state is now in grades the Station's recommended list. This is in contrast to only 10 percent in 1947.

Dance Jamboree Highlights Ky. Day

During the second week of school, which is the week of Sept. 19-23, The second step toward better attendance will be taken when first notices will be sent to parents who fail to enroll their children

The Director of Pupil Personnel, Otis Lyman, will have all reports ready for the Grand Jury when it convenes in September. Last school year the Grand Jury made an investigation of school attendance. That investigation came late in the school term and since the Grand Jury was not in session during the school year, the results of efforts to improve attendance in Nelson County were not re-checked.

There is probably nothing that has checked's success in school more than poor attendance. There probably is greater cause for loss of interest in school which leads to dropping out of school, than poor attendance. The child who attends a day and misses a day doesn't seem to get anywhere and build. A teacher can work with individuals with a children who attend regularly. Seldom, if ever, does a teacher have a class of average ability to fail to promote a normal child at the end of the year if the child has attended regularly.

Many improvements have been made to the school plant during the summer months. Several acres of land added to the athletic field, athletic field and turf seeded; new concrete tracks around gym and in front of the teachers; a new parking around parking and bus loading areas; fence between parking area and athletic field; new sections added to bleachers; sinks and cabinets added to each room; new electric stove for home economics shop; several new hand tools for farm shop and shade trees transplanted.

The maintenance department under the direction of Haddie Snapp has cleaned, waxed and polished all the floors, cleaned windows and has made minor improvements to school building.

During the summer the school building and grounds have served as a communers center. The following groups have used them. Hemp Show, Junior Softball League Baptist Intermediate and Junior Softball League, Adult Softball Games, Rose Hill Methodist Church, Grace Episcopal Church Softball Team, Carlisle Methodist church, Carlisle Garden Club, Nicholas County Farm Bureau Fish Fry, Southern States Fish Fry, Carlisle Morning Two Veterans Farm Training Classes again during the school year, an average of two times per week, Carlisle District Meeting Extension Workers, Carlisle High School Band used the building on an average of two nights per week. Various court used daily and many times.

Most schools close their doors during the summer months and the buildings and grounds are of no benefit to the communers during these months. The Nicholas County high school has been a community center and the Supt. of schools are happy to see the school plant take advantage of the facilities offered and want the public to know that they are welcome to use these facilities for any worth while use.

Mrs. Delma Lyman and Mrs. Raymond Howe will again be in charge of the cafeteria.

All bus drivers have been employed by the board and buses will run on practically the same routes and schedule as last year.

Bills Keene Anderson and Ralph Taylor members of last years graduating class will enter Morehead State College this Fall. Bill Lyman will enter Georgetown College.

Miss Ellis, Mr. Hall and Mr. Schoolfield attended summer school at the University of Kentucky for six weeks.

The Pendleton County Homemakers Association cooperated with other organizations in the county in the formation of the Pendleton County Rural Health Council.

It is claimed that the reduction in the tobacco allotments will cost Franklin county farmers $700,000 this year.

Agronomist Warns Johnson Grass Is Serious Menace

Johnson grass, a perennial report weed that closely resembles Sudan grass, is rapidly becoming a menace throughout Kentucky, according to Joe F. Freeman, agronomist at the University of Kentucky Experiment Station. Thousands of acres of fertile bot- tomland have been practically ruined in recent years by Johnson grass and upland soils are becoming infested with it.

Control of Johnson grass is almost impossible or overflow but it can be controlled when fresh growth is brought on each year by flood waters. Clean cultivation of corn and soybeans, or perhaps 2 years of clean cultivation followed by 2 years of good pasture, are the best practices such as close grazing of pastures, mowing of hay fields and clean summer cultivation. These methods would eliminate Johnson grass from most seedling plants.

Eradication is possible on upland, although it may take as much as $50 to $75 an acre where infestations are heavy.

Single plants or small patches can be destroyed by digging or hoeing out creeping rootstocks. Sprays chlorate in the dry form, or 10 as a spray may be applied to the soil in the stubble after the grass has been cut. Retreatment to kill seedlings and plants that escaped the first application is necessary.

Seed production can be prevented by cutting or mowing the stems each time they put out flower heads. Three close cuttings a year usually will be required. It would be done not only in fields and pastures, but on roads and ditch banks, in fence rows and on wastelands.

Various methods of control and eradication are being tested on plots at the Experiment Station farm at Lexington.

For further information on Johnson grass, see your county agent or write to the Experiment Station at Lexington for Leaflet No. 157.
