Second Polio Clinic Set

Dr. B. F. Reynolds, medical director of the Polio vaccine program and health officer of the Nicholas County Health Department, announces that a treatment clinic will be held at the Nicholas County Health Department, October 8 has been set for administering the second polio inoculations to the school children of Nicholas County who received their first shots earlier April 28.

The clinic will be held at the central point with the county school buses bringing the children in the area. The schedule will be staggered so that the buses will not have too long a wait and will not disrupt the school schedule for too long a period.

Any parent not wishing his child to receive its second immunization of Polio vaccine is urged to contact the teacher of his child or the County Health Department. Parents of children who have recently moved to this county from another county where the child received the first immunization and is eligible for the second should contact the health department so arrangements may be made that the child receive the vaccine.

Volunteer workers who assisted with the April vaccine program have been contacted for the pres ing Vaccine Clinic.

Musketeers Bow To Elkhorn High Eleven In First Home Game Of Season, 26-0

By W. E. Woodall

In their first home appearance of the 1955 football season Friday night, the Carlisle Musketeers bowed to the gridders of Elkhorn High, school 26-0. Rain fell intermittently throughout the game but failed to hamper the visitors as they rolled up a 19-0 half-time lead, added seven more points in the fourth period, while holding the Musketeers scoreless.

Elks Score

The Franklin County team demonstrated their superiority during their first offensive attack Carlisle was forced to punt on downs after three plays had netted only three yards from the Musket 25 where the kick-off was placed a play. Hopper took the punt on his Elk 40, bringing it back to the Musketeer 35 to the right. Tyson, Hughlett, Wiles, Tyson and Hopper figured the rest of the Musketeers two foot line. Tyson hit the center of the Muskie line, moving across the double stripe, fumbled, but the Elk's alert left tackle dropped on the pigskin to make the effort count. Hughlett tried kicking for extra point but the goal went wide of the upright.

Neither team was able to threaten during the remainder of the first quarter. As the second canto began, Sykes attempted a pass on fourth down from the Elk 31, failing to connect. On two plays the visitors moved the distance to add another touchdown. Wiles went over the Carlisle right guard shoulder to his 15. Hughlett took a pitch-out from the Elk quarterback, picked his way as with little effort around the Musketeer right end, and went the distance. Wiley's kicking effort went for nil, as the second extra point of the night was missed.

Nice Return

McGuffy took the kick after touchdown on the Carlisle 26, making a nice return to Carlisle's 47. Two ground plays were good for the Elk 47. Straw dropped back to pass, got the oval within reach of his receiver, who fumbled it off his finger tip into the arms of an Elkhorn footballer. After a series of plays which returned the ball to the Carlisle 49, Hippie scatted the Carlisle left end, as a host of Green and white players watched from afield another six. A pass from Wiles to Hughlett was good for the home.

Neither team was able to get a drive started during the remaining minutes of the first half.

The Elks started another down field drive in the first minutes of the second half which culminated on the Carlisle three yard line by Lee Gaynor dropped on an Elkhorn fumble. Looking more determined than at any time during the contest, the Musketeers moved from their own four yard line to the Elk 49 before losing the oval on downs. A series of penalties garnered plays around mid-field until the final minutes of the ...

Farm Bureau Members To Study Farm Problems

Farm Bureau members in Nicholas County are preparing to hold a meeting to develop policies to help build a prosperous agriculture, Harold Letton, president, announced Monday.

These Farm Bureau members, meeting on county levels, will study some of the major problems facing farming and recommend steps that should be taken to the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation.

Or particular concern to these farmers are such puzzling questions as "How to get price-depressing surpluses off farmers' backs" "How can we get better farm income can be removed", "How can we get better markets for our farm products?"

Fact sheets containing the latest information on these and many other problems have been made available to these farmers for study. At their meetings they will study this information and try to arrive at a solution to the problems.

The meeting is scheduled in the little court room Tuesday, Oct. 4.

Youth Fair Begins At Armory Friday

Nicholas County's 18th annual Youth Fair gets under way Friday morning and continues through Saturday with exhibits, competition and fun for all.

Featured this year, some 28 years after the county's first agriculture fair, will be a wildlife exhibit including poisonous snakes and miniature camp display, depicting Cumberland Lake Camp Earl Wallace. The exhibit and display are under the direction of Harry Duncan, local conservation officer and junior conservation clubs of the county.

A considerable part of the necessary money for paying premiums and other operating expenses is derived from contributions by local merchants, but usually the fair committee operates in the red. However this year some games will be operated to help defray some of the expenses.

The fair committee though its president, John Soper, stresses that all entries should be made prior to 9 a.m. Friday, Sept. 30, except as noted in the fair schedule.
