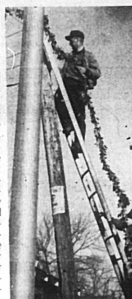
This Christmas Season Shop in Carlisle First

CHRISTMAS DECORATING CREW did their job well Tuesday morning entwining light poles and colored light strings with laurel roping along the main shopping area of Carlisle. The final effect of their efforts plus decorating done by individual merchants lent Carlisle's Main street a festive Christmas air which has invoked many favorable comments. Cooperating in the decorating movement were the following organizations: Carlisle-Nicholas County Chamber of Commerce, the Kentucky Utilities Company and the city of Carlisle. Individuals helping were Lester Blair, local insurance agent, at left. Center photo, from top of ladder to bottom, Brooks Henson, city street superintendent; Ralph Shearer, president of the C of C.



James Barnes, KU lineman, and in foreground is Jimmie Carter, affable sales clerk from The C. C. Cole Co. Barnes is also shown at left as the first rope was strung across Main street from the Deposit bank corner to the light standard in front of the police station. The angle from which the photograph was made accounts for the illusion that he is on a level with the top of the First National bank building. Besides purchasing the laurel roping, the Chamber at its meeting last Thursday voted to donate $50 along with the veteran's organizations to provide tots, fruits, candies and clothing for needy children this Christmas.

Guard unit open house, chili supper Dec. 13

The local National Guard unit will play host to city and county officials, employers of National Guard members and other business and professional men in an open house and chili supper Thursday night, Dec. 13. At this time the guard will be introduced to the new unit recently organized here, Battery A of the 242d Field Artillery Battalion.

Until only a year ago the local Guard unit was part of the now disbanded 149th Infantry RCT. The 149th was disbanded and Kentucky became an artillery state. Kentucky was the first time in history.

The change however has not been an easy one. The Carlisle Guard has had to learn a completely new clothing line. The 70 officers and men in one short year have achieved a proficiency in artillery that has earned them many honors and words of praise from state and federal officials.

Col. Thursday night the Guardsmen will be showing off their newly acquired talents. Demonstrations of speed & accuracy will be given by the 155 howitzer teams. The other sections of the unit will be on hand to explain and demonstrate.

All men 17 years and older are cordially invited to attend and to hear the new reserve and military obligation laws explained by a representative of the State Adjutant General's office who will be the guest speaker at this meeting.

Evangelistic crusade planned by Methodists

The Association of Conference Evangelists of the Methodist church has been invited by the District Superintendent, Dr. J. Harmer Fisher, to assist with the pastors of the district, to hold its annual convention in Maysville December 30-January 6. During this week the evangelists, in cooperation with the churches, will conduct an Evangelistic Crusade each evening in the churches of the district. These men come to us with the approval and recommendation of the conference to which they belong, and we look forward to a great spiritual awakening when the crusade is over. It will be revived and many souls born of the Spirit." said Dr. Davis.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend the services of the Methodist church in their community.

Notice will be given later by the pastors as to who the assisting evangelists will be and the time of the services.

Council appoints Hord Crouch to fill Shrout's unexpired term of one year

At the final regular meeting of the year, the Carlisle city council appointed Hord Crouch to fill the unexpired term of Charles Shrout, who recently resigned. Mr. Crouch is the first representative the Dorseyville section has had since 1953 and his name was placed in nomination by Councilman William Harper. Also nominated was Oliver Barton.

Other business before the council Monday night consisted of the reading and approving of the minutes of the November 5 meeting.

An amendment of city ordinance 5-D increasing the license required for the collecting or delivering of laundry and dry cleaning. The ordinance is published on page eight of this newspaper. Changes were made following the appearance of G. Townsend, local dry cleaner, before the council requesting that some protection be given plants located within the city limits.

Permits were granted Harvey Hardwick to build garage on his property and Carlisle Co-operative Oil Co. to construct a concrete oil for the erection of a cinder block building.

George Albert Brown, lately of the cross bar hotel, was relieved of his duties with the city trash truck. Replacing Brown is John Harper, hired on a motion by Councilman Woodrow Wilson.

Attention of council was called to the fact that local Kentucky Utilities manager, Morris Whiteley, was seeking to have the Main street lights replaced with mercury-vapor lamps. The matter was mentioned by Councilman Eugene Neal.

On a motion by Councilman Neal it was voted to make the crossings at Chestnut and Elm and Chestnut and Walnut, four way stops.

Push, but don't shove!

Due to a deluge of last-minute advertising many items of interest are crowded out, but will appear in a later issue of The Mercury.

Jennings nets 43 points for Jackets as Fleming Panthers fall victim 72-65

On the local floor Tuesday night, the Nicholas County Blue Jackets annexed win number three of the regular scheduled season at the expense of the Fleming County Panthers. To date the Jackets hold a 4-1 record, losing one game in the recent Pioneer Counties tournament and winning one.

The Jackets looked shaky throughout the contest Tuesday night—bad passes, walking, and lack of their usual accuracy from the field and foul line, plus un-called for fouls. But a barrage of baskets by Big Ned Jennings kept the local squad on the long end of the score throughout the game.

Jennings led his teammates to the victory with 43 points, nine of them perfect, ten in the second, 15 in the third and nine in the final canto. The Jackets lead by quarters was 20-12, 34-28, 50-46.

At the foul line coach Charles Finnell's five failed to maintain their usual outstanding marksmanship but did connect with 16 shots out of 30 attempts for a 53 per cent average.

Meanwhile, the Fleming Panthers capitalizing on 24 fouls committed by the Jackets dropped twenty 27 shots in 39 attempts for an average of 69 per cent.

Both teams looked as if they might have to dip deep into their depth in the final minutes of the game to keep free men out. Aggressive little Dickie Hillock, the boy who directs the Jackets on the floor fouled out with six minutes remaining to be played. Big Jennings was forced to play the last eight minutes with four fouls. David Small, who played a good floor game and added six counters, was working the entire second half with three fouls. Rose left the game by the foul route with 9:17 remaining, having accounted for ten points.

The Panthers found themselves in the same situation in the last minutes of play as they lost Jackson and Browning on

Coon dog field trial Sunday

A coon dog field trial will be held Sunday, Dec. 9 on the Johnny Conway farm at Pleasant Valley sponsored by the Nicholas County Fish and Game Club according to Dorsey Watkins, organization president

In the latter part of October the club sponsored a coon drag which met with success when an estimated 200 persons from the county and surrounding areas were on hand for the fun. Twenty-six dogs were entered in this event.

Mr Watkins said food and soft drinks would be served. The public is invited.

Young-farmer class to meet

The topic for discussion at the young-farmer class tonight will be "Relation of security and good yields to success in farming."

Plans will also be made for a "Ladies Night" program for Dec. 13. Officers will be elected.

A movie "Seeds and Science" will be shown. Members who desire to play basketball after class are reminded to bring their gym shoes.

Tobacco for Polio drive now underway here

Free seedlings now available to farmers

Certain species of plant seedlings and seeds will be supplied free of charge to a limited number of farmers in Nicholas County, Dr. Wendell R. Kingsolver, who recently completed two years in the Navy, re-opened his office here this week on the second floor of the First National bank building on Locust street. His office phone is 170.

Certain species of plant seedlings and seeds will be supplied free of charge to a limited number of farmers in Nicholas County, Purchase in growing plots of food and cover for bob-white quail. Planting materials will be supplied by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, as an inducement to better quail management.

Harold Barber, Wildlife Biologist with the Department's Division of Game Management, has announced that shrub lespedeza (bicolor or japonica) seedlings, multiflora rose seedlings, white pine seedlings, korean lespedeza seed, and a wildlife seed mixture will be available in time for planting in late winter or early spring. Farmers in Nicholas County who are interested in obtaining material for a wildlife food-and-cover planting should contact either the Conservation Officer, Harry Dunigan, the SCS District Conservationist, William Threlkeld, at an early date and get their requests approved before the supply of planting materials is all allotted. Either of these men can advise on how to use the material, and on the amount that will be needed for a good planting.

Each of the plant species available has the advantage of natural re-establishment each year for several years, and each is of known value in supplying the requirements of bob-whites during the critical winter months. The management program is financed with joint State-Federal funds; with seventy-five per cent of the cost being paid from the federal tax on sporting guns and ammunition, and twenty-five per cent of the cost coming from the state sale of hunting licenses.

BABY FARM SOLD

The house and nine acres of land, belonging to Ora Hughes, of Dayton, Ohio, located on the Stoney Creek road, was sold this week to Ray Curtis of Carlisle, at a private price. Immediate possession was given. The sale was made by Earl Hamm.

LEGION MEETING

American Legion Post No. 17 will hold their regular monthly meeting Friday, Dec. 7 at 7:00 p.m. Announced by Leroy Barlow, publicity officer.

To the Ends of the Earth . . .

By Nellie Crump

All aboard! The whistle had really blown and the big steamship was moving . . . actually spitting out to sea! Among the passengers were Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Greene of County Cork, Ireland, enroute to Carlisle, Ky., and three little grandsons.

When the waving of hands became only a blur, Mr. Greene turned to his wife. Noticing a tear in her eye, and with his own chin quivering with mixed emotions, he placed an arm about her shoulder and they wept unashamed.

"Why, wife, I do declare, it's only for a few weeks, don't feel sad."

"Shucks, I never was so happy in all my life," from under her handkerchief.

Making A Home

Bound for America to visit their only child, Mrs. William E. Woodall (and family) whom they had not seen since Margaret married Bill and came to Carlisle after his service in the Air Corps. Bill, a Mercury employee, served many months across the pond. There he met, wooed and won the girl of his dreams and they came to his boyhood home in the East Main street to reside. Without whimper or any sign of homesickness, there she is, rearing three little sons. Bill is doing a bit of growing-up himself.

Over There

Before that day of parting on the other side of the Atlantic, the parents of this lovely wife and mother promised they would come to America. Well, they are here! Arrived a week ago—only two days behind schedule.

Experience Unnecessary

Daddy Grieve works for a steamship company and had ridden the waves before. Mother Grieve had not, but a mother's heart will take her to the ends of the earth for her offspring. She went thoughtfully about her household duties until that day recently when her husband returned to their home in such jubilant mood after exclaiming, "Whatever can possibly all you Norman Greene?" With as air of mystery he finally blurted, "Put on you bonnet, we're headin' for our babies. I got a vacation. Just like that! twe hope tickets, passports or what-cha-me-call-ems were included!

Well, the big news got around among friends and they got started. Here they are today, hale, hearty and happy.

On The High Sea

The lowering clouds, the winds and 13-foot waves that lashed and tossed the ship causing the two-day delay, cleared finally and the sunshine and calm spirit reached the New York harbor about the same time.

Thinking and talking only of Margaret, Bill and the babies, they notified the Woodall family they were safe and taking a plane scheduled to arrive in Lexington at an hour not too far distant. Neither had ever been on a plane, but they were getting in a hurry—a big hurry!

With a kindly neighbor to care for the two little-uns, Bill Margaret and little Norman hour to the Lexington airport to meet grandma and grandpa.

Home At Last

I asked Bill if Margaret tried to board the plane as it landed. "Why, honestly, she jumped up and down and ran after every one that came by," he laughingly declared.

Well, there it is in a nutshell! Not the whole story either, but here it is. No longer with any family ties to keep them in Ireland (and retirement not too far away) this father and mother plan to return and locate right here in America—in Carlisle, Welcome!
