The Heart Fund, which is being conducted all this month supports the important project of the local Heart Association and its parent organization, the American Heart Association. The Heart Fund, since 1934, has invested more than $1,100,000 in heart research alone. It has paid additional funds into public and professional education programs to distribute heart information, and into community heart projects to help teach victims less productively with their ailments.

There is a vital need for this program and for the public support that is making it a financial possibility. The death toll from heart disease each year is greater than the combined total of the deaths from cancer, alcoholism and malaria. Heart disease, diabetes, kidney disease and tuberculosis are the leading causes of death in the United States—killing over 300,000 persons each year.

These, of course, are national figures. But we can realize that in this area of the State, the heart disease toll is also high. The heart disease toll in this area is the highest in the world.
